Ashland Woman a "Discoverer"— In the October number of the "Discoverer" there is printed a "discovery" by an Ashland woman, Mrs. Grace Groves, 399 Beach street, under the department of "What to Do." The suggestion made by Mrs. Groves to the Designer is: "To avoid lumpy corn-meal mush, stir a little cold water into the corn meal, then pour and stir this mixture into the boiling water."—Mrs. G. G., Ashland, Ore.

Visits Wartime Friends— Daniel C. Upp, formerly first lieutenant of the 363d infantry, which was in service on the other side in France, Belgium and other European countries, and who is now with the First National bank in Portland, is motoring through to attend a convention of bankers at Del Monte, Calif. He stopped off to say "hello" and spend a few days in reminiscences of wartime days with his old "buddies," Andy McCallen and Jim Bowers.

Water Let Out from Dam— The gates at the Savage Rapids dam of the Grants Pass Irrigation district are being let down. This was done after the water had been let out from behind the dam, so the flood would not wash away anything from below. The water was turned through the gates under the dam, taking about 12 hours to let out what had collected. This slow draining of the dam pool will prevent the stranding of fish, the irrigation officials trying to prevent any damage being done to the fishing.—Grants Pass Courier.

Band to Resume Practices— Now that the revival meetings are over, the city band will resume its weekly practices, a regularly scheduled rehearsal being planned for this evening, at the usual place. The local organization has just completed a successful season, and, according to Carl H. Loveland, director, it is planned to begin at once the preparation of heavy numbers and operatic selections for next summer. An open invitation is extended to any person who can play, to report for the Monday night rehearsals, whether they have been in attendance or not.

Largest Cucumber to Date— It was thought that the cucumber war was over, but another contender has entered the field in the person of Mr. Broiley, who brought a cucumber to the Tidings office this morning, weighing four pounds and five ounces. It was 15 3/8 inches in length and 13 5/8 inches in circumference. This is the prize winner to date.

High School Girl Mourned by Friends From Student Body

Deeply feeling the loss of one of its members, the student body of the Ashland high school expresses itself as follows:

Ruby Dollar, the young high school girl, who accidentally met her death last Friday on her way home from school, lived on California street with an aunt, a Mrs. Rowley. This had been her home since September, 1921, when she entered the Ashland high school. Her mother and brother live at Tolo, Oregon. Ruby was one of the entirely dependable girls in the student body. She was always happy and not given to offering excuses instead of satisfactory recitations.

Her death was a great shock to the student body of the high school and to those of her loved ones who are left behind to mourn her loss, the teachers and the student body of the Ashland high school extend their deepest sympathy. We, too, will miss her and join with all her many friends in voicing our great loss at her early departure.

Jacksonville enjoyed a fine rain this morning, according to E. F. Smith, who was a business visitor at the county seat today.

Mrs. Clara Borah has installed an Arcola heating plant at her home at the corner of North Main and Coolidge streets.

ASHLAND PRODUCTS USED BY SOUTHERN PACIFIC RY.

The Southern Pacific company buys an enormous amount of fine Oregon food products for use in its commissary department, it was revealed recently by Allan Pollok, manager of the dining car, hotel and restaurant department for the Southern Pacific.

Among the various Oregon products used by the Southern Pacific on its dining cars are the following: Luscious strawberries, raspberries and loganberries from the Salem district; juicy apples from the Rogue river and Hood river districts; butter, cream, milk and other dairy products from the Ashland district; cheese from Tillamook and Coos counties; salmon from the famous Columbia river, and celery, peas, lettuce and other garden vegetables from Multnomah county.

"These, as well as other high-class food products of various sorts from other Oregon districts," Mr. Pollok explained, "are served by the Southern Pacific on its dining cars following its established practice of serving only the best that the market affords."

Grants Pass Boy Is Making Good As Ball Player

In his history of the world series stars, Davis J. Walsh, International News Service sporting editor, gives the following write-up to Kenneth Roy Williams, former Grants Pass boy, who is making good in high-class circles:

Outfielder and leading slugger of the St. Louis Browns. Has led both leagues the greater part of the season in home runs, getting most of them at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis. Good fielder, fine base runner.

Broke into the game with Regina, of the Western Canada league, in 1913; shifted to Edmonton, of the same league, the following year; then on to Spokane, of the Northwest league, in 1915 hitting .345 in 79 games. He finished the season with the Cincinnati Reds, hitting .242 in 71 games, and .111 in ten games in 1916, whereupon the Reds sent him on his way to Portland.

In 1917 he had a great year with Portland, batting .311 and stealing 69 bases. That got him a job with the Browns in 1918, and he has been with them ever since. He hit .347 last year, his best season. Born, Grants Pass, Or., June 28, 1893; bats left handed, throws right; height, six feet; weight, 170 pounds.

EDUCATIONAL BILL STARTS ROW AMONG PASTORS

PORTLAND, Oct. 3.—Portland clergymen refused to declare themselves Monday morning on the compulsory education bill. Following a long and heated debate, which lasted all morning, through the lunch hour and into the afternoon, the ministers by an overwhelming majority passed a motion to table a set of resolutions introduced by Dr. Edward H. Pence, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, which were aimed to back schools for religious training.

After the resolutions were passed the meeting was thrown into a turmoil on two occasions when attempts were made to reopen the discussion. The Rev. Edward H. Constant, pastor of Highland Congregational church, made the first attempt when he declared himself "disappointed with the action of the association." Dr. Constant attempted to speak in favor of the resolutions and against the proposed bill, but as soon as he started to talk the Rev. S. Earl DuBois, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of the Stranger, rose to a point of order.

ENTIRE DALLAS, OR., FAMILY REPORTED TO BE MISSING

DALLAS, Or., Oct. 3.—Somewhere between Yellowstone national park and this city an entire family has disappeared. On September 3, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Little and their two daughters, three and five years old respectively, left the national park riding in a motorcycle and sidecar. They were coming to Dallas for an extended visit with Mrs. Little's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Davis. Since their departure nothing has been heard from them. Little, who had been employed for some time as a forest ranger in Yellowstone national park, is believed to have carried several thousand dollars on his person, as he recently came into possession of a small fortune in the settlement of an estate. He is described at 32 years old, of light complexion and weighing about 165 pounds, while his wife is 22 years old, light complexion and of slender build.

HAIL UNIVERSITIES AS FILM STAR INCUBATORS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—The future stars of the screen will come from the American universities.

At least such is the belief of Marshall Neilan, director-producer of motion pictures, who is planning a tour of the country to visit the leading educational institutions in a search of material. Neilan is now said to be in correspondence with the presidents of several large colleges regarding co-operation in finding screen talent.

"I firmly believe the future photoplay stars will be drawn from the American colleges," Neilan said. "More breeding, good looks and culture are found among university students than any other class."

LAKE LOOSED ON GRAIN FIELDS OF CALIFORNIA

VISILIA, Calif., Oct. 3.—Having frightened the grain men last spring and early summer almost into fits, when it overflowed its banks and flooded some grain land, Tuare lake today is being turned purposely upon these same fields, which are thus receiving one of the most bountiful floodings in years. The lake, at the present rate, will be dry within another month, but the waters therefrom, pouring through purposely cut ditches in the levees almost as rapidly as the flood waters last spring poured into it, have already assured another bumper crop by getting the land ready for the fall planting.
