He Failed to Pass.
General Benjamin F. Butler was one of a commission to examine young applicants for admission to the bar, and before him came a youth who failed miserably on all that pertained to jurisprudence, case law, civil law, summary law, unwritten law and due process of law. Finally Butler, who rather liked the chap and wanted to see him through, asked: "What would you like to be examined in? You have failed in everything we have suggested."
The reply came. "Try me on the statutes. I'm up on them."
Butler shook his head solemnly. "My young friend," he said, "I'm afraid you won't do. You may be ever so familiar with the statutes, but what is to prevent a fool legislature from repealing all you know?"

Dumas' Quick Wit.
Dumas found a man asleep in the Theatre Francais during the playing of a piece written by his friend Soumet. "You see that?" said he. "That's your work."
Next evening a Dumas comedy was put on. The two friends looked in again and found a sleeper.
"You see, dear Dumas," said Soumet, "your works can produce sleep."
"Do you refer to that man?" replied Dumas. "Why, that's the man who was there last night. He's not awake yet!"

A Market For Cokes.
The garden of the new house of the Rev. Mr. Brown backed against the play yard of an orphan asylum. Eight-year-old Johnny Brown was allowed to scale the fence and play with the orphans. Presently Mrs. Brown noticed that her apple supply was dropping low. She asked Master Johnny if he were not eating a good many apples for a small boy.
"Yes, mother," he replied. "I got to."
"Oh, indeed?" queried Mrs. Brown. "Are you quite sure?"
"Oh, yes, mother; they're needed! I just got to eat all I can stuff down."
"But why, my dear?"
"Because," said Johnny earnestly, "the orphans need the cokes."

His Clever Scheme.
The man with the large head and the protruding eyebrows stepped into the cigar emporium.
"Give me the poorest cigar you've got."
"Five or ten center?" queried the man behind the showcase.
"I don't know whether you're going to give me a five or ten center. I'm going to give you a dime. Remember, now, the poorest cigar in the place."
The clerk handed out a box, and the customer selected one, calmly lighted it and puffed curiously. Then he left, with an air of supreme satisfaction.
"Ah, this tastes good!" he muttered on the outside. "I knew my little scheme would work. The fellow gave me the best cigar he had in the store."
The cigar dispenser on the inside so-lliquized:
"I just took that old codger at his word. I handed him a box of three for a nickel."—Lippincott's.

Progress.
Let us, then, be of good cheer. From the great law of progress we may derive at once our duties and our encouragements. Humanity has ever advanced, urged by the instincts and necessities implanted by God, thwarted sometimes by obstacles which have caused it for a time—a moment only in the immensity of ages—to deviate from its true lines or to seem to retreat, but still ever onward.—Charles Sumner.

A GOOD JOKE ON SOME ONE.
One of our prominent citizens stepped into the Register office Monday and told us that he had seen it extensively advertised in the East Oregonian that there would be an excursion to Stanfield Sunday last, and that many prominent citizens of Pendleton would attend and hold a picnic. The gentleman was at the depot Sunday when the train came in and the only excursion party aboard that he recognized was James Kyle. The aforesaid citizen is wondering whether the joke is on Jim or on the prominent citizens of Pendleton.

ESHO VS. NOLIN.
The game scheduled to come off last Sunday on the Echo Baseball grounds between the Echo Reds and the Pendleton Tigers failed to materialize, and for some unknown reason the Pendleton boys did not show up. Not to be outdone and to avoid not giving a game as advertised the Echo boys phoned the Nolin team who promptly appeared on the scene and crossed bats with the Echo Reds Sunday afternoon.
A good crowd turned out to witness the game which resulted in a victory for the Echo Reds by a score of 16 to 8.
The gate receipts netted the boys something over $12.
