

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG,
SICK WOMEN WELL.

The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (1008 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. OUT OF ORDER.

The Man Who Laughed at Sothorn as Lord Dundreary.

Sothorn was once playing Lord Dundreary in a small town whose regular playgoers plumed themselves on their imperturbable demeanor at the theater. A joker who lived in that town had just returned from New York and gravely put in circulation a hint that it was extremely unfashionable to laugh at comedians.

The hint "took." Sothorn played the first act in a frigid atmosphere. He could not understand it, but he called the company together before the second act and implored them to "pick in and wake 'em up." They did their utmost, but without perceptible result. Utterly beaten, the great laughter maker dived into the dressing room.

Presently the manager of the house joined him.

"Shake, Ned, old boy!" he exclaimed. "You're doin' great. Got 'em sure. Never seen a more delighted audience."

"What?" was the dazed response. "Delighted he laughed! They haven't cracked a smile."

"Laughed, sir?" replied the manager. "I should hope not. There was one man that snickered, but we bounced him out afore he knewed what ailed him."

A Mean Revenge.

A mean revenge was that taken by a man whose wife had just eloped. He discovered where the missing couple were living and sent this polite note to the man who had robbed him of his partner:

"Dear Sir—Please find under separate cover one full double set of false teeth, which kindly hand to my late wife, requesting her to return my father's, she having taken same by mistake in the hurry of departure."

Respectability of the Stage.

Miss Amelia Bingham used to have a habit of going to the theater early and sitting in the box office for half an hour before the performance began. One evening while she was there two women came up to the window and asked for two seats. The man was just about to hand them over when one of them said:

"Wait a bit, young man. Tell me, is this a funny show? We are pretty particular. I read in the paper that it was or wasn't frisky—I can't remember which—and I'd like to know for certain."

The man was so taken back that he was nonplused for a moment, when the other woman chimed in with:

"Oh, I guess it's all right, Clara. I saw her act in the 'New Magdalen,' and she was quite respectable then."

Kinship.

The source of all pleasure and delight is the feeling of kinship. Even with the sense of beauty it is unquestionably our own species in the animal world, and then again our own race, that appears to us the fairest. So, too, in intercourse with others, every man shows a decided preference for those who resemble him, and a blockhead will find the society of another blockhead incomparably more pleasant than that of any number of great minds put together.—Schopenhauer.

A Costly Cheese.

A Scottish farmer was one day selling some wool to a carrier, and after weighing it in the yard he went into the house to make out an invoice. Coming back, he missed a cheese which had been standing on a shelf behind the outer door, and, glancing at the bag of wool, he observed that it had suddenly increased in size.

"Man," he said to the carrier, "I have clean forgotten the weight o' that bag. Let's pit it on the scales again."

The carrier could not refuse. Being duly weighed, the bag was found to be heavier by the weight of the cheese inside. A new invoice was made out, and the crestfallen carrier went away.

The farmer's wife at once missed the cheese, and, rushing to the yard, told her husband that some thief had stolen the cheese.

"Na, na, Meg," replied the farmer quietly. "I have just sold the cheese for twa shillin's the pund."

Startling Motto.

A traveling salesman died very suddenly in Pittsburg. His relatives telegraphed to the undertaker to make a wreath. The ribbon should be extra wide, with the inscription "Rest in peace" on both sides and if there is room, "We shall meet in heaven."

The undertaker was out of town, and his new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral.

The ribbon was extra wide and bore the inscription, "Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in heaven."

Before and After.

One of the Philadelphia "organization" ward leaders who had been notoriously profane became converted and a church attendant. This caused great surprise among the man's friends and acquaintances in politics.

One of the leader's associates was approached by a politician who had known him for many years. "Is it really a fact that B. has joined the church?"

"Yep; that's what he has," replied the associate.

"Well, is he really religious?" continued the inquirer, whereupon this instance was given in proof:

"Well, I met him in the city hall yesterday, an' he said to me, 'Jim, I'm feelin' like hell today.' An' you know how he'd 'a' said that a year ago when he didn't have religion. Oh, he's religious, all right!"
