A Sprained Ankle. As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may as a rule be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Sold by Burnaugh & Mayfield.

OF BENEFIT TO ALL

Kasparilla is the name of a new remedy most successfully prescribed for a "world of troubles." For derangements of the digestive organs it is a natural corrective, operating directly upon the liver and alimentary canal, gently but persistently stimulating a healthy activity. Its beneficial influence extends, however, to every portion of the system, aiding in the processes of digestion and assimilation of food, promoting a wholesome, natural appetite, correcting sour stomach, bad breath, irregularities of the bowels, constipation and the long list of troubles directly traceable to those unwholesome conditions. Kasparilla dispels drowsiness, headache, backache and despondency due to inactivity of the liver, kidneys and digestive tract. It is a strengthening tonic of the highest value. Fickle Fortune.

If fortune never crushed that man whose good fortune deceived not, I therefore have commended my friends never to trust to her fickle side, though she seemed to make peace with them, but to place all things she gave them so as she might ask them again without their trouble; she might take them from them, not pull them; to keep always a distance between her and themselves. He knows not his own strength that hath not met adversity. Eveson prepares good men with crosses, but not ill can happen to a good man. Contraries are not mixed. Yet that which happens to any man may to every man. But it is in his reason what he accounts it and will make it.—Ben Jonson.

A Poor Guide.

While the Rev. Dr. Harris was temporarily in Washington he engaged to speak at a Sunday school concert in Georgetown. As it was a perfect day he started early for a walk and quiet preparation along the canal. He had lost his bearings when he came upon a bad fishing in the canal and asked the nearest way to Georgetown. Then the ice being unthinkably broken, he continued:

"Are you catching many fish?" "Some," said the boy, holding up a string. "Did you know it was Sunday?" "Course!" "Isn't it wicked to fish on Sunday?" "Eh! It's same fun as any day." "But it is wicked, my boy," said the clergyman. "Now, you were good enough to direct me on my way, let me direct you. Come, walk along a little with me, and I will tell you about the way to heaven." "Oh, g'wan—the way to heaven! Why, you didn't even know the way to Georgetown!"

The Gompers Labor Case.

Samuel Gompers

It seems likely that a conspicuous place in the annals of legal proceedings will be given the case of the Buck Stone and Lange company of St. Louis against Samuel Gompers and other officials of the American Federation of Labor. At any rate, not in a long time has a court order produced such a profound sensation throughout the country as that of Judge Daniel Thew Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in sentencing to imprisonment the president, vice president and secretary of the American Federation of Labor. These three posts are held respectively by Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, all men of high reputation as citizens and widely known and esteemed in the world of labor.

Sentence was imposed on the three labor men in consequence of their alleged contempt of court in violating the order enjoining them from placing on the "unfair" or "We don't patronize" list of the American Federation the corporation which occupies the position of plaintiff in the proceedings. The appeal was taken from Judge Wright's court to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, and the labor leaders were released on bonds.

Judge Wright was appointed to his present post by President Roosevelt in 1902. He was born in Cincinnati in 1864 and comes of a family of lawyers and jurists. After graduating from high school and the Cincinnati Law school he began the practice of law and held several minor public posts. He was chosen a judge of the court of common pleas of Hamilton county, O., in 1893. During his practice before the bar he made several fights for the promotion of labor interests.

At Gompers, who was sentenced by Judge Wright to a term of one year in jail, will be fifty-nine years of age on the 27th of January and has been connected with efforts to organize working people since his fifteenth year. He was born in England and is a cigar-maker by trade. In fact, he can roll a pretty good cigar now. He was one of the founders of the Federation of Labor and with an intermission of one year has been its president since 1902.

Mr. Mitchell, who was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, retired but recently as president of the United Mine Workers of America on account of ill health. He has always been counted a close friend of President Roosevelt, and it was supposed that the latter would desire especially to modify the action of the court in his case if the opportunity presented and he could consistently do so. But Mr. Roosevelt has stated that as the matter stands the case is not before him in any official way and is not likely to be. Mr. Mitchell, who was at the head of the United Mine Workers for nearly a decade, has been regarded as a labor leader of a conservative type. Born in Illinois in 1870, he worked in coal mines before he was a dozen years old and joined the Knights of Labor when he was fifteen. He obtained quite a fair education through night study and reading, studied law and has written on economic questions.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was sentenced by Judge Wright to a term of six months. Mr. Morrison is forty-one years old and was for years one of the most active members of Chicago Typographical union, No. 16. He represented the printers in the Chicago Federation of Labor and in 1896 was a delegate to the international union convention at Colorado Springs, which chose him as one of its delegates to the Federation of Labor. He was elected secretary of the latter body at the succeeding meeting.

HENRY L. STIMSON.

Federal Prosecutor Talked of as Next Attorney General.

Henry L. Stimson, who has been much talked of in connection with the post of attorney general in the cabinet of President Elect Taft, is United States district attorney for the southern district of New York and has been prominent recently in connection with the court proceedings in his district directed against the Standard Oil trust. Mr. Stimson was born in New York thirty-nine years ago and was graduated from Phillips academy, at Andover, in 1883 and from Yale university in 1888. He studied for the bar at the Harvard Law school and under Sherman Evans in New York. Being admitted to the bar in 1891, he became two years later a member of the firm of Root & Clark, which afterward became Root, Howard, Winthrop & Stimson, the senior member being the present secretary of state.

THE KING OF ITALY.

He Knows How to Act in Face of Earthquakes and Eruptions.

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy is very popular with his subjects, and his popularity is in part due to the way in which he exerts himself whenever there is any great calamity like that of the recent earthquake in Sicily and Calabria. During the last eruption of Vesuvius, when 500 people were supposed to have lost their lives, he was very energetic in devising means for the public safety or for assisting the victims of the disaster. The king even went into places of danger himself in his eagerness to see that everything possible was being done in behalf of his afflicted subjects. At the time of the recent earthquake shocks the Italian monarch was hunting in a district near Naples. He at once issued orders that preparations be made for a trip to Calabria, which is in southern Italy.

King Victor Emmanuel and with Sicily forms the center of the earthquake district. Between the earthquake of 1905 in this district, which destroyed thirty towns and cost about 5,000 lives, and the eruption of Vesuvius in the spring of 1906, the southern portion of King Victor Emmanuel's realm has in recent years been very much ill-treated by the forces of nature.

THE STEINHEIL CASE.

W. Steinheil and the House in Paris in Which He Lived.

The strange case of Mme. Steinheil continues to excite the interest of Paris. The woman who had so many intrigues with famous men of France

Mme. Steinheil

M. Steinheil and house he lived in. has retained to an unusual degree in a person of her age her remarkable beauty, and her daughter is also a handsome woman. This fact is not lost upon the French public, susceptible as it is to the romantic features of a case. The house in which M. Steinheil lived and in which he was murdered has naturally figured a good deal in the proceedings. The Parisians have studied carefully the description in the newspapers of the location of his apartments, of those of his wife and her mother, Mme. Jappa, numbered in the cut 1, 2 and 3 respectively.
