The local lodge of Odd Fellows will entertain the grand master of the order in this state next Saturday night, February 19, and an especially fine time is being planned. There will be degree work and a supper prepared and served by the Rebekah lodge. All sojourning Odd Fellows are invited to attend.

The masquerade ball in the opera house Monday night was well attended and was enjoyable throughout. The music was good, and the function well managed. Prizes of $2.50 each for best gentleman's and lady's customes were awarded to Miss Cora Bircher and Mr. Elmer McFetridge. Supper was served at 11:30 at the Hotel Enterprise.

J. W. Rankin at Salem has written to W. E. Taggart telling of his trip to the old home scenes "back East." He had a fine time, and especially in visiting his old battlefields in the South—Shiloh, Kenesaw Mountain, Lookout Mountain, Atlanta and on to Savanah. He says they don't look like they did in the sixties. He also visited Springfield, Ill., and looked again on Lincoln's monument and the old Lincoln home. Mr. Rankin's father is still living and in good health for a man 87 years of age.

Ironwork In India.

India was the first country which turned iron into weapons. Persia borrowed the art from India. The Rigveda, which is the oldest record in the world, gives evidence of this. So do also the Astras and Sastras of the Dhanurneda, and during the early part of the Christian era the Indian blade was the most used throughout the eastern and western world. This art reached its greatest perfection in northern India, the Punjab, Nepaul, Rajputana, Gujarat and other provinces, where they still make beautiful arms.

Asking the Captain.

A very common inquiry of sea captains is, "Where is the nearest land?" One harassed captain on being asked this question for about the fiftieth time pointed over the vessel's side and blandly replied, "Madam, the nearest land is at the bottom of the sea."

Fred Savage returned the first of the week from a visit with his parents in Portland.

Ed Rodgers went to LaGrande, Sunday, to work for L. C. Smith in the latter's garage and automobile repair shop.

The ex-convict who escaped from Marshal Duncan at Joseph, Monday of last week, but was recaptured, proved to be Wm. Weldon, who had served a term in the Walla Walla penitentiary for robbing a man. He went by the name of Orville White in Joseph. A Walla Walla officer came and took the man to Walla Walla last Wednesday. He is now charged with burglary.

Nine men and boys, arrested by Sheriff Marvin and City Marshal Hug in a room of the Commercial Hotel, Friday night, for gambling, were arraigned before City Recorder Taggart Saturday. Five were fined $20 and costs each, one $40 and costs and three, who had been merely spectators, were let go without punishment. All paid their fines but two, Ed Ward and Jack Pierce, who went to jail. They are strangers in the city.

LECTURE BY DR. ILIFF.

The lecture by Dr. T. C. Iliff in the M. E. church, Friday night, should have been heard by every citizen of Enterprise, and especially by the pupils of the public and high schools. The old veteran is a grand speaker and his lecture, "The Sunny Side of a Soldier's Life," was one of the best ever given in this city. While he necessarily dwelt upon his personal experiences, yet his talk was free of egoism. He told of the great civil war as it looked and impressed him, a boy of 15 who shouldered his musket for love of country and flag. His description of the great battles brought the carnage, and roar of guns vividly before the audience, and one could almost see Sherman's army as it left Atlanta on the famous March to the Sea.

VALENTINE PARTY.

Misses Ethel and Maggie Weaver entertained a company of the latter's young friends at the home of their mother, Mrs. Serepta Weaver, Saturday evening, at a Valentine party. The rooms were nicely decorated with red hearts, and valentine favors were distributed.

A very interesting impromptu program of recitations and music was given and the remainder of the evening was spent in playing games. A clever guessing contest was arranged by pictures representing popular songs, Aubrey Haney being winner of the valentine given for the best list of answers and Charlie Dunbar getting the consolation prize. Delicious refreshments were served. The guests were: Misses Leola Ratcliff, Zola Wright, Anna Emmons, Lenora and Wilma Lewis, Lela Pace, Zora and Arlena Combes, Clara Bauer, Marie Gregg, and Jessie Mathews; Floyd Fletcher, Wayne and Glen Wagner, Aubrey Haney, Reed and Clifford Smith, Charlie Dunbar, Mrs. Mathews and sons, Hugh and Eldon.

Great Time Planned At End Of College Year—Forestry Professor.

Corvallis, Feb. 10—The Oregon Agricultural College will celebrate its Quarter Centennial as a state institutions at the close of the present college year with the most elaborate function ever held at the institution. The most able and distinguished speakers obtainable, excellent music, military drills, athletic contests and dramatic exhibitions will be among the features. All of the college and student organizations will hold reunions—in short every effort will be made to attract the alumni of the college at this time. The details have not been worked out but the enhave no been worked out but the enthusiasm of both the student and the faculty, in whose hands the arrangements have been placed is a sufficient guarantee of the great success of the undertaking.

George W. Peavey has been engaged as Professor of Forestry at the Oregon Agricultural College to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Professor E. R. Lake.

Mr. Peavy is a graduate of both the Literary department and the Forestry School of the University of Michigan. He has been in the Government Forest Service for several years. Much of this time has been spent in the Pacific Coast states. He resigned the position as chief of Planting in the states of California and Nevada to accept the position at the college.

REPUBLICAN ASSEMBLY.

The Republican state central committee, or to speak accurately, a part of it, has issued a call for a state "assembly" of the party to meet in Portland, Thursday, July 21. It is to consist of 1248 delegates, 18 being the number allotted to Wallowa county. It recommends the selection of delegates by county assemblies, delegates to the latter being chosen by majority vote only, at precinct mass meetings. M. C. George is the newly elected state chairman, succeeding Judge Cake, who resigned.

THE CANYON CLIMBER AND THE BEARS

By Rev. Fred G. Potter.
(A True Incident.)

While he was yet a tenderfoot,
E'er he had donned the hob-nailed boot,
Or learned to lug a gun and shoot
The wild game, great or small,
He camped upon the canyon's top,
Where team and wagon had to stop
Or into the canyon's chasm drop
With household goods and all.
E'er he had learned to cinch the pack
Upon his grey mare's faithful back
And take the canyon's downward track
To make a homestead proof
He tented. And he saw below
The rapid Grande Ronde waters flow
Near by his claim and longed to go
And raise a cabin roof.
By days of pouring rain delayed
He close within his tent walls staid
But when the skies were clear essayed
To make a reconnoiter.
To seek the beaten path he spurned,
The vantage of trails he had not learned,
So down the steepest place he turned
With no intent to loiter.
While climbing down on double quick
O'er slippery stones, through bushes thick,
His lone defense a crooked stick,
(No gun or fox hound pup)
He saw two bears from a thicket glide.
When they the canyon climber spied
THEY went straight down the anyon side,
The climber went straight up.

Promise, Oregon.
