Although the weather was threatening the crowd started and didn't stop until they reached the home of the Misses Effie and Sadie Houck in Joseph, where a pleasant luncheon hour was spent, after which they returned home to Enterprise. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves so the utmost and the only kick the participants had coming was that the hay rack didn't have springs. Those who made up the happy crowd were the Misses Joyce Craig, Alta Davis, Audrey Combes, Edna Browning, Lucile Corkins, Katherine Kay, and Messrs. Arthur Pace, A. B. The calabar bean is highly poisonous and in foreign countries is used for medicinal purposes. Its effect is opposite that of belladonna and is used for contraction of the eye, in tetanus, neuralgia and rheumatic diseases. It is such a powerful depressant to nervous action that surgeons can only use it in small amounts.

Gold in California.

The Society of California Pioneers determined after careful investigation that Jan. 28, 1848, was the exact date of the discovery of gold in California by James W. Marshall. The gold was found in the rocky bed of the tailrace of the Sutter sawmill at Coloma, on the south fork of the American river.

The Primary Planets.

The primary planets are those which are the centers of secondary systems, consisting of small globes revolving around them in the same manner as they revolve around the sun. These are called secondary planets, satellites or moons. The primary planets which are thus attended carry the satellites or secondary planets with them in their orbits around the sun.

Ted and the Text.

The golden text for a certain Sunday school was, "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit" (Luke II, 40).

Little Ted's hand went up like a flash when the superintendent asked: "Can any of these bright, smiling little boys or girls repeat the golden text for today? Ah, how glad it makes my heart to see so many little hands go up! Teddy, my boy, you may repeat it, and speak good and loud that all may hear."

And they all heard this: "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit like 2:40."

CHOICE MISCELLANY

Comical Candor.

Nothing more delightful in its unconscious humor can have been perpetrated by the Hindoo than this letter, which was submitted to the markets special committee of the Calcutta corporation.

"My prayer is," says the writer, "that I have a milk shop at the above address. At this shop I sell milk adulterated with water. I sell it in the condition I buy it from the market, and I do not water it myself. But the food inspector, unable to stop sale of adulterated milk in the market, unjustly threatens me. I have therefore publicly put up a signboard stating that adulterated milk is sold in my shop. I submit this for your honor's information that the food inspector may not oppress me when I am not committing an offense."

From a report by the health officer it appears that no fewer than twenty-eight signboards have been put up in the milk bazaar bearing the legend, "Milk With Water Is Sold Here," or "Milk Mixed With Water." The exhibition of these boards prevents the prosecution of the vendors for selling adulterated milk.—London Chronicle.

A Postal Oddity.

One of the most remarkable mail routes in the world is that which a letter journeys in getting from Beebe Plain, Vt., to Beebe Plain, Que., says the Boston Herald. While the two offices are within ten feet of each other—are located in the same room, in fact—a letter mailed from one office to the other must make a trip of 294 miles, sixty-seven miles in Canada and the rest in the United States.

The plain, old fashioned store building, which is situated on the international boundary line, contains both the United States and Canadian offices. There are separate entrances to each, but both are in the same room, have the same lobby, and there are no partitions to mark the divisions between the domain of Uncle Sam and the possession of King Edward.

"If you mail a letter from the Vermont side addressed to the Quebec side," says the postmaster, "it goes from here to the junction, then to Newport, then to White River Junction and back to Lennoxville."

Dress at Monte Carlo.

The management of the Casino at Monte Carlo is compelled regretfully to read a sartorial riot act to the frequenters of the most sensational gambling center in the world. A certain amount of laxness in the matter of dress has been apparent, and as a result the tables have lost some of the distinguished appearance that they used to have. Henceforth gentlemen will not be admitted unless they are in full evening dress. Curiously enough, the chief offenders are neither Americans nor English, who are usually attired irreproachably. It is the Germans, French, Austrians, Hungarians and Russians whose carelessness in the matter of dress has called forth this sumptuary edict.—Argonaut.

The Panama Canal in War.

The strategic value of the Panama Canal is estimated to be equivalent to a fleet of large battleships. This is the conclusion of Dr. Cornish, given before the Royal Geographical society in London. Taking the cost of the canal at $500,000,000, which would only build forty first class battleships nowadays, the United States will have a good bargain and be able to cover a total coast line without any material increase in her vessels. The canal will double the sea efficiency of our fleet for half the sum of money that would otherwise be necessary to maintain communication between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.—National Magazine.

Not From Mayo.

According to a police reporter, this happened in a saloon in the Tenderloin at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. A detective from police headquarters dropped into a "corner joint" to see how the excise law was being observed—or violated. A drink of whisky was served by a waiter just over from the "old country." The waiter, thinking that he might make himself popular, walked over to the customer after he swallowed his drink and asked: "Ain't you from the County Mayo?" "No, I ain't," replied the central office man. "I'm from headquarters. Get your hat and come along!"—New York Tribune.

The Secret of Bronze.

It has been supposed that the ancients had some method of hardening bronze tools the secret of which has been lost. Professor Gowland of the British Institute of Metals says that the ancient bronzes were very impure, so that their hardness could not have been due, as sometimes assumed, to their exceptional purity. On the other hand, inasmuch as modern bronzes by careful hammering can be made as hard as the ancient ones, the legend of a lost art in bronze hardening seems to be exploded.—Youth's Companion.

Wonders of Inyo County.

Inyo county, Cal., from which the city of Los Angeles has obtained ample water rights, also contains within its borders the famous Death valley. That a water supply sufficient for a city of a million people and also one of the most dreaded and forbidding deserts on earth should both exist not only in the same state, but in the same county, is an illustration of those strange and abrupt transitions in the face of nature for which California is noted.—San Francisco Argonaut.
