SHERIFF WARREN CALLED TO NEIGHBORING CITY TO SERVE INJUNCTION PAPERS

Waterworks recently were placed in the hands of a temporary trustee with a temporary trustee. The city of Joseph, Oregon, has been placed in the hands of a temporary trustee. Claims of Corporation.
The waterworks corporation in Joseph has attracted wide interest because of its prominence in Walla Walla county. The basis of the corporation, as set forth by amended statements from both the city and the McCully company is substantially as follows: The Joseph Waterworks company has for some years operated the municipal plant at Joseph through a franchise issued some years ago. The F. D. McCully company claim this franchise to be perpetual.

The city of Joseph offers the corporation claim that the franchise under which the McCully company has operated is not perpetual, but that its life is fifteen years as understood, and that this life has now expired. The city further declares the order to operate its own waterworks plant, and has voted a bond issue of $100,000 to that end.

The immediate cause precipitating the present crisis is the pursuit of the McCully company in its operation, involving the carrying of certain water. Declaring this company has no right to continue its operation, the city of Joseph has secured the temporary restraining order mentioned to stop the carrying of the water. The outcome of the case will be watched with interest by every city in the county and adjoining counties.

A GREENWOOD WAKES NEAT ITEM TRAPPING

Mr. G. E. Greenwood left Tuesday noon for Snake river where, in addition to regular work, Mr. Greenwood spends a profitable spare hour trapping. While not securing the title to the trapping the trapper state bills for bearing animals are comparatively plentiful along and in the Snake river district, and the Oregon side, and that while in some times went two weeks without setting the traps, he has brought in as much as a hundred dollars worth of fur and scalps.

Not Asking Much.
The multimillionaire was uncertain. "But how do I know you can support my daughter in the manner to which she has been accustomed?" he demanded of the banker.
The imported gentleman smiled blandly.
"I will go to the test," he responded.
"What test?"
"I will let you see me one year and see how she is accustomed and see if I know what to say."

WASH MEETING DECIDES ALSO THAT ENTERPRISE SHALL CELEBRATE 4TH.

The city met in session Tuesday night, April 1, and passed in connection with the waterworks franchise, one city resolution, one city ordinance, one city resolution, one city ordinance, one city resolution, one city ordinance.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Haight who briefly stated the object before the people, as called by resolutions of the city council. Mr. W. E. Holmes was selected chairman pro tem. At 7:30 P. M. the city council was called to order after which the mayor called for resolutions for the city of Joseph, Oregon, and asked for an expression from the assembly in this regard. It was moved and seconded that the city of Joseph, Oregon, be placed in the hands of a temporary trustee, except for the nomination of a city council, which was adopted. The subsequent voting resulted in the following nominations:

For Mayor—J. A. Burleigh, W. E. Holmes.
For Councilmen—A. C. Weaver, E. J. Miller, A. H. Wagner, E. D. Selzer.
For City Recorder—W. E. Taylor, C. H. Lockwood.
For City Treasurer—Fred Savage.
For City Examiner—T. M. Hill, James Thomas.

Upon completion of the nominations the chair called for any further business to come before the assembly, which brought forth a motion and a lively discussion concerning the celebration of the Fourth of July at Enterprise. E. L. Burnham stated that he had been accused repeatedly with the question of whether or not Enterprise meant to observe the Fourth of July in a manner becoming both the city and the spirit of Enterprise. An enthusiastic discussion followed the motion to celebrate, in which it was held that Enterprise would make the eagle scream with characteristic spirit and good cheer, and a further motion called upon the chair to appoint a general committee of five upon whom the responsibility should rest. This committee will appoint various sub-committees dividing the work so that each member may have plenty to do without having to sacrifice too much time. The general committee appointed by Chairman Holmes was as follows: L. Burnham, G. W. Ryan, D. W. Sheehan, E. E. Boyd, and J. W. Haddock.

With the hearing of the committee, the matter of making a census of the people to determine how much money could be raised for the celebration, was discussed at some length. This was finally decided to be a matter with which the general committee is entrusted, and it was suggested that a subscription paper be passed generally about the city, and voluntary subscriptions with the aid of the sale of franchises be made to defray all expenses of the celebration. The matter was then referred to the standing committee.

A Conversation.
A young woman who was in the habit of visiting in a New England village encountered a rural neighbor in a city street.
"How's your wife, Mr. Green?" inquired the young woman graciously.
"Why, don't you know," said Mr. Green, "I see her three months ago?"
"Oh," said the shocked young woman, "I didn't know I see you for Mr. Green for my inquiry."
"Well," said the discussion with a young woman, "it isn't as bad as I might have been. I've got good hay."

A Better Style.
"Are you fashionable enough to get into the divorce courts?"
"My dear, how behind the times you are! Why, I belong to the up-to-date set that keeps out of them!"—Cleveland Leader.

Incidentally.
The manager turned the leading time because she danced and cut up right. He was tired of her arguments because she didn't ask enough.

The Natural Reason.
"Why is Mrs. Qualifier's fine new water-proof gaiter, with its rubber flaps, so unpopular?"
"Paradoxically because it is a telling success."
—Baltimore American.

Merely a Suggestion.
While of real merit it would be in our graves we'd see content. We should in dying have been told. For letters and answers—our own.

To Make a Glass Cutter.
A glass cutter can easily be made with an ordinary mapping pen and a small piece of carborundum or carborundum of silicon. Cut off a part of the nib to form a small tube. Fix a crystal or part of one of carborundum into the tube, take it out again and dip one end in cement and replace it. Next wind a piece of fine wire tightly around the tube and part of the handle and fix it in a notch cut in the handle. Put it aside for a day to allow the cement to harden. A glass cutter made thus will do its work as well as the expensive diamond and a great deal better than the ordinary wheel cutter.

Why He is Disappointed.
"I'm disappointed," said the doctor. "If I don't make a hundred dollars a day."
"Oh, come off!" they cried. "What are you giving us? You know you never make a hundred dollars a day."
"I know it," he asserted plaintively, "and so I'm always disappointed."

Storming.
Twas on the ocean that we met, Mid bounding waves and peeling ships I brought my batteries to bear And stirred her lightning lips. We met, and, like other men, I sometimes get some late to sea. She gets provoked, and thus, I find, The lips I stormed now storm at me.

WHEREVER you happen to see a group of young fellows you are most certain to find them wearing clothes of rare style and individuality. We don't claim that these clothes are always of an exceptional quality, but we do claim that young men affect certain features which older people don't. In "College Chap Clothes" we have been fortunate enough to find a quality which is not by any means expensive, and features which are strikingly young though not too young, for men who wish to retain their youthful appearance.

The Normande, The Norfolk, the College Chap and the College Chap, Jr. are four styles of young men's garments. They are classed under the name of "College Chap Clothes." They are a branch of "Modern Clothes," made by Brandegee, Kincaid & Co., tailor shops at Umatilla.

If you are particularly sensitive to style you had better make it your business to call at our shop and inspect these garments. You may rest assured of good treatment at the hands of skilled salesmen.

Comet Will Grow Tall.
CHICAGO, April 2—Halley's comet has a tail at least 1,000,000 miles in length. What is more, it is probable that the tail will grow sparser as the comet shoots toward the earth at the rate of 1,000,000 miles a day, and that we shall be able to view the fiery phenomenon in telescopes without a telescope within ten days. These facts are made public at the authority of the astronomers at Yerkes Observatory.
