ALL BRITAIN MOURNS EDWARD'S DEATH

Funeral Will Be Attended by Royalty From All Parts of Europe.

LONDON, May 9.—All England is in mourning over the death of King Edward VII, municipalities, churches and societies of all sorts have met to pass eulogies on the late monarch and offer good wishes to his successor. The courts and business houses have been closed; sports and entertainments of every type have been dropped; society has cancelled its engagements. The whole kingdom, indeed, is a nation in mourning. Ireland has forgotten her political grievances against her sister Isle. The Irish papers speak kindly, appreciatively, of King Edward VII.

Dying is Sudden.

King Edward died almost before his subjects had begun to realize that he was seriously ill. He was taken sick a week ago. After three days a serious complication began to develop. The fourth day his physicians issued a bulletin that stirred the whole nation to its depths. On the sixth day the King was dead.

The shock to Great Britain and to the world had been tremendous, not in a national way, for the death of the King has been discounted in the markets for many years, but to the Empire's sentimentality. King Edward was sincerely loved throughout the length and breadth of England's possessions.

The King died from pneumonia at 11:45 the night of May 6, at Buckingham Palace, and at the same moment the crown and scepter of the Empire of Great Britain passed automatically to his son and heir, Prince George of Wales, now George V.

Nearly all members of the King's immediate family were at his bedside when the King died. Just before the end came, the royal patient rallied and spoke weakly to those about him. "I know it is all over," he said, "but I think I've done my duty."

Royalty Coming to Funeral.

More royal personages are expected to come to England for the funeral than followed Victoria's hearse. The German Emperor is certain to attend, both because he is head of a neighboring state and a near relative.

The Kings of Belgium, Spain and Portugal, and possibly King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, also, will be present. All the crowned heads of the world, as well as the Pope and the Presidents of the United States, France and other republics, have telegraphed condolences to the Dowager Queen and King George V.

PACKER ARMOUR SAVED

Governor Refuses Request for Requisition.

TRENTON, N. J., May 9.—Governor Fort has refused the request of Prosecutor Garven, of Hudson County for a requisition on the Governor of Illinois for the extradition of J. Ogden Armour, a director of the National Packing Company, who is under indictment in Hudson County, with other officers and directors of the packing companies on a charge of conspiracy to unlawfully enhance the cost of meat through the creation of an artificial scarcity of the same. Governor Fort points out first of all that in order for extradition papers to be asked for it was necessary that the person whose extradition was desired be a fugitive from justice, and, further, that it was essential that the accused person was in the state of New Jersey at the time the alleged crime was committed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., ITEMS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Forty-five Senators, all from the conservative or "regular" wing of the membership are said to have joined in the movement to formulate a new Administration legislative program.

As utterly impossible for the conservatives to reach, the regulars have classed Beveridge, Bristow, Clapp Cummins, Dooliver and La Follette. The men on whom the regular Republicans are still working, and who will receive the attention of President Taft, include Bourne, Dixon, Gamble and Nelson. All of these men have voted with the insurgents from time to time. They have refused, however, to be called insurgents, and have been found in the ranks of the regulars at least half of the time.

Insurgent Senators say they will not be swayed from their course on the railroad bill, no matter what tactics are pursued by the conservative Republicans. This announcement was made at the conclusion of an insurgent conference by Senator Cummins of Iowa.

The House rejected the Washburn amendment to the railroad bill, providing that section 12, prohibiting acquisition of competing lines, "shall not affect any leases of railroad property made prior to January 1, 1910, for a period of 20 years." The Adamson amendment to the same section, exempting any railroads entirely within one state, was defeated, 121 to 144. The House then struck out the entire section 12 of the railroad bill, prohibiting the acquisition of the stock of competing lines. The vote was 131 to 128.

The prospects for a postal savings bank bill of some sort are improving. For four days the House committee on postoffices and post roads had the bill under informal discussion, and it is said that from the great variety and volume of views expressed, there is beginning to appear a possible ground for agreement. Just what this basis may be it is not yet easy to predict.

The sundry civil appropriation bill, the second largest of all the appropriation bills, and carrying a total of $11,849,211, was reported to the House by Representative Tanney, of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on appropriations. The total represents a cut of $16,650,000 from the estimates submitted to the committee.

BALLINGER SAYS HE WILL SWING THE AX

Subordinates Must Give Loyal Support if Secretary Stays in Department.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—After having been dramatically interrupted by Special Agent H. T. Jones, the intimate friend of L. R. Glavis, who indirectly questioned a statement made by the witness, Secretary Ballinger at the afternoon session served notice that if he continues as the head of the Interior Department there was going to be some more "snake killing," and that it will be kept up until the last snake was dead.

"If I am to continue to conduct the affairs of the department," said the Secretary, "it will be with the loyal support of every man in the department."

The witness declared emphatically that when he appeared before the House committee on public lands on March 3, 1908, to advocate the Calk bill for the development of Alaskan coal lands, which bill he himself had drafted, he did not have the Cunningham claims in mind.

In connection with a question as to Glavis' course in one phase of his work, Ballinger digressed to denounce his former field agent.

"It was not the proper course for him to go over the heads of his superiors to further an attempt to ruin me," he declared. "He should have gone to Schwartz, whom, he says, he trusted, instead of joining a conspiracy to ruin me before the country. That shows the distiguuousness of the man."

Attorney Brandeis will not conclude his cross-examination of Ballinger for a week.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 9.—J. W. Scriber, ex-cashier for the Farmers' & Traders' National Bank of La Grande, was placed on trial in the United States Court this morning in answer to charges of embezzlement and forgery. The Sumpter bank was operated by a nephew of Scriber, Roy Miller.

NEW WATER CODE HAS ADVANTAGES

Order Is Tabulated in Form and Alphabetically Arranged.

SALEM—The first orders in the determination of water rights under the new water code have been handed down by the board of control. They involve the determination of all water rights on Willow Creek, in Morrow and Gilliam Counties, on Cochran Creek in Grant County, and Paulina Creek, in Crook County. One copy of the order of determination for each stream has been forwarded to the County Clerk of each county in which the stream or any part thereof is located.

The order is tabular in form and arranged alphabetically under the name of the water user. His right is defined, by setting forth the date of priority the amount of water in cubic feet per second to which he is entitled, the number of acres irrigated or horsepower developed, the use to which the water is to be applied, and the season for such use, the name of the ditch, and a description of the land to which the water for irrigation is made appurtenant.

There are 286 parties to the Willow Creek determination, and the right to irrigate 6407 acres is specifically defined. These lands are scattered over 24 townships and have been accurately measured and mapped as a basis for the order.
