The Kid Glove Kid.

The average kid giove, according to those who should know, is not made of kid at all, but of goat or lamb skin. The kids from which the real kid glove is made are nurvored and cared for almost us carefully as are race borses. Most of them are reared in a mountainous district of Prance. The kids are hourished on milk alone and are never allowed to eat gross, as that would coursen the skin. The kid is kept in a pen, where he can receive no scratch or bruise. They are thus kept, as it were, in cotton wool until the age when the skin is of most value. They are then carefully killed and the skin dressed with the utmost skill. Sheep, deer and colts are also used for so called kid and dogskin gloves.

The Magellanic Clouds.

The Magellanic clouds are two cloudy masses of light, eval in shape and unequal in size, seen at night in the beavens in the vicinity of the south pole. They are supposed to be nebulae, or dense aggregations of stars, so far distant as to give to the unassisted eye the impression of cloudlike masses. They cover areas of 42 and 10 square degrees respectively and are so named in honor of Ferdinand Magellan, the great Portuguese navigator, who first observed them in 1529 during his voyage around the globe.- is liberated at the moment when it representing Marion, Linn, Clackamas New York American.

The Horses of St. Mark.

The borses of St. Mark were taken from Chios in the fourth century by the Emperor Theodosius and placed in the great hippodrome at Constantinopie, whence they were taken by the Venetians in the year 1204. Venice and Constantinuple were bitter rivals in trade, and largely through Venetian intrigue and diplomacy the fourth crusade was turned from its original purpose into that of the capture and practical destruction of the splendid city on the Bosporus, thus making it possible later on for the Turks to establish themselves on the continent of Europe. It was during the sack of the city by the crusaders that it was despolled of its famous horses by the Venetians.-New York American.

Some of the most curious phenomena of the world are the underground water supplies beneath deserts. In the Reinotana deserts water is held in vast quantities in sandstone beds under the scorched surface and is drawn up from wells sunk into the strata. Hikaper ruises its walls in the midst of a weary, almost rainless waste of sand and depends on these hidden cisterns for its very existence. Whence it comes, where is the outfall and what quantity runs under the baked send remain a mystery. In one well at Bikuner it has been ascertained that the water supply is equal to 20,000 gallons an hour, which is held to point to the conclusion that there is an enor mous subterranean flow and that the snow fed rivers of the Himaiayas must be the source. People in Bikaner say that pieces of wood dropped into one well have come up in another. The idea of an underground river opens up a wide range of possibilities to the inagination .- Times of India

Dashing Into Danger.

"When I was younger," a big Broadway traffic cop remarked. "I used to cuss at everybody who insisted on dashing across the street in front of a car or truck. I cuss the act still, but not the person. Fact is, I've learned that a majority of people just can't belp it. An approaching vehicle about to cross their path is like a red rag to the result, it is said the total will not a bull. It's a sort of challenge, a dare, And the impulse to defeat its purpose can't be controlled. There isn't any plan of action. It's a case of dash first and think afterward, and sometimes, of course, the thinking is done in a hospital.

> "It's a sort of disease of the nerves. I guess, because the head of a business house will do this fool thing just as quick as his errand boy will the cop and the driver are to blame whenever there's a miscalculation."-New York Globe.

WHEREVER you happen to see a group of young fellows you are most certain to find them wearing clothes of rare style and individuality. We don't claim that these clothes are always of an exceptional quality, but we do claim that young men affect certain features which older people don't. In "College Chap Clothes" we have been fortunate enough to find a quality which is not by any means expensive, and features which are strikingly young though not too young, for men who wish to reiain their youthful appearance.

The Normandie, The Norfolk, the College Chap and the College Chap, Jr. are four styles of young men's garments. They are classed under the name of "College Chap Clothes." They are a branch of "Modern Clothes," made by Brandegee, Kincaid & Co., tailor

If you are particularly sensitive to style you had better make it your business to call at our shop and inspect these garments. You may rest assured of good treatment at the hands of skilled salesmen.
