Attorney D. W. Sheahan sold his ranch in the Eden country last week to Albert Baker.

The special car of the general manager of the O. R. & N. road passed through Enterprise Saturday morning.

Sherwin & Williams' paints—guaranteed—at Keltner's.

Misses Gladys and Isabel Miller and Miss Muriel McKinley, all of whom have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Miller of this city, left Wednesday morning for their homes in La Grande.

Blueflame coil oil stoves and Insurance gasoline stoves—just arrived—at Keltner's.

Judge J. B. Oimsted received $100 from W. E. Taggart Monday morning, in settlement from the Aetna Insurance company for the fire which recently broke out in the judge's residence near Enterprise.

Fishing tackle—all kinds—and salmon eggs at Keltner's.

Four men representing large interests from Clearwater, Idaho, are looking over the country in and about Enterprise. They are looking for range for a large bunch of horses and also for land open to settlement.

Ladies' Kahki Riding Suits, just received, at W. J. Funk & Co's.

George Houser of Joseph, interested in the Black Marble Lime works south of Enterprise, spent the latter part of last week here on business. Mr. Houser returned to Joseph Saturday evening. He reports that the outlook for the lime industry here is excellent.

Some score or more residents of Enterprise left Monday morning for Portland, where they will attend the rose carnival. If the balance of Oregon sends a corresponding number, right off the bat, so to speak, the rose carnival will be a success in point of attendance, at least.

Switzerland.
Much of the 16,000 square miles of territory comprising Switzerland is so mountainous and stony that when available for any purpose it can only be for the pasturing of animals. Yet so carefully are all of the natural resources conserved and exploited that the country is one of the most prosperous in the world, and the Swiss people are as contented as they are industrious and frugal.

The Red Squirrel.
When the red squirrel begins tapping maple trees for the sap the animal makes an incision in the bark and waits until the sap has trickled a short distance down the trunk of the tree. He then begins at the bottom of the stream and licks up until he has reached the source of the flow, when he again waits and repeats the performance until satisfied.

Hit with a club—that's the way a sizzling hot day makes one feel, unless you drink Harvey's cooling sodas.

Miss Ramona Roe was hostess to a delightful party Thursday of last week, the guests being the members of her Sunday school class and their teacher, Miss Amy Olmsted. A delicious picnic dinner was spread under the trees of the spacious lawn which surrounds the home at the Mountain View Fruit farm, and a day of genuine pleasure was enjoyed by the happy young people.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boehmer will entertain the Win One class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, of which Mr. Boehmer is teacher, Thursday evening at their home.

Hamilton Vance, a pioneer prospector and miner of eastern Oregon, arrived in Enterprise from his mine claims on the lower Imnaha, near Snake river last Monday, remaining over Tuesday. Mr. Vance has some good property there. On the surface the copper assays show from five to thirty-five per cent in copper values alone, with good, profitable gold values. The formation is sulphide with granite contact. Nothing more than assessment work is being done at this time, as little or no development work will be done in the district until transportation facilities enter that section, along Snake river. Mr. Vance is about a mile and a half above Bureka.

W. W. ZURCHER

THE OSTEOPATHIC PRIMER.

A Sixth Cause of Disease—Over or Under Activity of Nerve Center.

The treatment of nerve centers is an important one, and is especially a fundamental method in osteopathy. It is proven by physiology that nerves may be stimulated, that is, the strength and force nerve currents may be increased; also that nerves may be inhibited, that is, the nerve current may be decreased by manipulation.

We have taken advantage of these facts and applied them to the treatment of those diseases which are caused either by over, or under-activity of nerve centers. For example: A goitre is quite often (not always) due to over-activity of a large nerve center (the superior cervical ganglion).

The treatment here indicated is to decrease the strength and force of the nerve currents as they pass out from the superior cervical ganglion to the thyroid gland, (which when enlarged is called a goitre.) That the goitre decreases in size under this treatment is sufficient evidence of its efficacy as a therapeutic procedure.

But this nerve center also sends nerves to the eye, to the heart, to the blood vessels of the head; hence, all diseases which affect the eye, ear, nose and throat and heart are more or less amenable to osteopathic treatment by this route.

Remember, that stimulation and inhibition of nerve centers form only one method of treatment. I touch this subject only briefly, but the object will be obtained if your conception of osteopathic diagnosis and the possibility of osteopathic treatment have been widened.

That osteopathy has a profound hypothesis and a wide working basis and application must be evident. If the conception of it is usually limited by deficient knowledge, it is the desire to expand such views that leads me to present this pamphlet.—Osteopathic Health. (To be continued.)

Our entire stock of men's and boy's clothing goes on sale at greatly reduced prices, Saturday June 4. W. J. Funk & Co.
