

The Origin of the "Marseillaise."
In the days of former under President and Madame, when hundreds of thousands were carried by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy, was born the hymn of France, composed by Rouget de Lisle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed, and the next morning his hostess, the wife of the mayor of Strasbourg, tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the anthem of the French played it in the square of Strasbourg, where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. Rouget called it a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers, mostly peasants, who marched out of Strasbourg to Paris, where it was appropriated by the republicans and called the "Hymne des Marseillais." But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty. — Deutscher Welt in Harper's Magazine.

Westminster Hall.
Westminster hall, England's old hall of the king's justice, is one of the world's most historic structures. Built four centuries before Columbus sailed for America, it has seen more history in the making than perhaps any other building west of Rome. Here some of the early parliaments met and here the second Edward was crowned from his throne. Here Richard II. was deposed, Charles I. condemned and Cromwell hailed as king protector, whose head, if the legend is authentic, was afterward exposed from one of the hall's pinnacles. Westminster hall was the scene of the trial of Warren Hastings. It is a wonder of death was pronounced on William Wallace, Sir Thomas More, Somerset, Essex, Strafford and Guy Fawkes. — New York World.

Tried to Fly.
John Milton in "Britain to the Conquest" says that the young King Harold, last of the Saxons, strangely aspiring, had made and fitted wings to his hands and feet. With these, on the top of a tower, spread out to gather the air, he flew more than a furlong, but the wind being too high, he came fluttering to the ground, maiming all his limbs, yet so concealed was he of his art that the cause of his fall was attributed to the want of a tail, as birds have, which he forgot to make.

PLAYS WITH GUN GIRL BADLY HURT

DAUGHTER OF E. A. MAKIN RECEIVES BULLET FROM A 22 IN HER FACE.

Freddie Makin, young son of E. O. Makin, while playing with an old 22-caliber rifle, Saturday, accidentally discharged the weapon, the bullet striking his sister Edith, who was standing a few feet in front of him. The bullet entered the center of the upper lip, striking the upper jaw and base of teeth and was discharged up through the nostrils. The accident occurred about 10 a. m., and Mr. Makin was away from home, but help was summoned from the field where they were working, and Mr. Makin reached by phone at home as he was on his way to Walla Walla in his auto. He phoned Dr. Hocken of Enterprise, who hurried in his auto to the Makin home, six miles east of town. Deep gushing failed to locate the bullet, and later the girl was brought to town to Dr. Ames' office where an excellent X-ray photograph failed to show the hidden messenger. It is supposed the bullet went into the nostril and was discharged with the profuse bleeding, as she was swallowed. The girl was standing so close to the gun that her face was turned toward the powder. She is now recovering nicely from the accident and no more serious results are expected.

FALL WHEAT WILL YIELD
40 BUSHELS TO ACRE

C. S. Haney, who starts his annual threshing campaign this week, has been around a bit looking after his work, and while at home a few days since, was quite optimistic about the crops on both irrigated and non-irrigated lands. Mr. Haney states that as far as he has seen there will be big crops of fall sown grain. The spring sown grain is of course poor and most of it has been cut for hay.

Many fields of fall wheat in the hills will make above 40 bushels to the acre.

TRUY TOWNSITE PLACED ON SALE

LOTS ARE PLOTTED IN FUTURE THRIVING INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL CENTER.

County Surveyor "H. E. Merryman" has finished the survey and plotting of the town site of Troy and has placed the lots on sale. Mr. Merryman, and many others as well, are sanguine Troy will be an important commercial and industrial center as soon as the railroad is built down the Grande Ronde river. The O. R. & N. is now making the final survey between Hoodown and Lewiston and in a few months will have all the data necessary for letting construction contracts. Troy is on the west bank of the Grande Ronde at the mouth of the Wenatchee river. All north country roads lead to Troy. The county put in a bridge across the Wenatchee two years ago, and a $10,000 steel bridge across the Grande Ronde is under construction this summer. Troy is the center of the finest fruit region in all the northwest. Tens of thousands of acres of bench land on which grows the finest apples, peaches, plums and prunes, are tributary to Troy. Millions on millions of feet of the largest and best timber will be manufactured into lumber at Troy. These are only a partial list of the vast natural resources tributary to this new town. So far, 94 lots on five streets, comprising eight blocks, have been laid out. The streets are 60 feet wide and on the large blocks the alleys are 30 feet wide. The business district lots range in size from 25 x 105 to 25 x 125; residence lots 30 x 125. River frontage and industrial sites of various sizes. All the townsite as laid out is under his proposed ditch.

The Social Breakfast.
A London newspaper wonders why we no longer invite people to breakfast. The reason is to be found in the state of mind that usually possesses the free and independent citizen at that hour in the morning, a state of mind that makes him unbearable to himself and to every one who comes near him. Presumably it was not ever so, for invitations to breakfast were once common enough, and not so long ago either. Mr. Gladstone used to have guests to breakfast every Thursday morning as recently as 1884, and it was thought sufficient to supply tea and coffee, eggs, bread and butter and perhaps some cold meat. But the really solid breakfast had come into fashion long before then, and it is said that the English learned the fashion from the Scotch. Menley, when he was ambassador to England, found that the substantial breakfast was grievously opposed to the simpler customs of his own country. He says, "When I reflected that all these people would lunch at 2 and dine at 8 I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp." — Argonaut.

Big Clocks.
The big clock of the Metropolitan tower at Madison square, New York, is by long odds the costliest and most elaborate public timepiece ever constructed and is the only great clock in the world operated wholly by electricity without the touch of human hands. Some of its other wonders are its size, being the largest four dial tower clock and the third largest clock of any size in the world, and its altitude, which is the highest of any clock in the world. It has also the biggest and heaviest striking bell. The other three large clocks are the one face dial of the Colgate factory in Jersey City, which is forty feet across, the next in size of mammoth public chronometers being the dial at St. Bompert's in the old city of Malines, in Belgium, which is thirty-nine feet across. St. Peter's of Zurich, Switzerland, has a dial face twenty-nine feet, and then in order comes the Metropolitan tower clock, which is twenty-six feet six inches in diameter.

Good and Evil.
Nothing is truly good to a man which does not make him just, temperate, courageous and free, and nothing can be evil to a man which does not give him the contrary disposition. — Marcus Aurelius.

A Wonderful Feast.
In its review of Pierre de Vassiere's book "Le Mort du Roi" the Neueste Nachrichten dwells upon the account of the last seven minutes of Louis XVI. as described in the book. These were between 10:15, when the king arrived at the foot of the guillotine, and 10:22, "when a shot fired at the end of the Champs Elysees, no one knows by whom, gave notice that the head had fallen." The review calls attention to the statement by the author that the king's hands had been pinioned behind him by the executioner while Louis was putting on the coat which

SPECIAL DAYS AT COUNTY FAIR HERE

POLITICIANS' DAY MAY BRING STATE CANDIDATES—UNION TO COME.

The executive committee having charge of the fair are the recipients of many complimentary messages from people in various parts of the county, upon the completeness and liberality of the premiums offered, and assurances are being received of the active support and co-operation of the people generally. The committee is greatly encouraged and confidently believes that the fair will be an unqualified success. Mr. W. Church Durrance requests that his premium be extended to include all girls under eighteen years of age, instead of sixteen years as published. The premium offered by Mr. Durrance is such a handsome one and the purpose for which it is offered is such an eminently practical one, that it is to be hoped that there will be much competition for it. Thursday of the fair has been designated as Union County day and a special train will convey the citizens of our neighboring county to Enterprise in time to enjoy a program arranged with special reference to the pleasure of our guests. The train will start from La Grande, making stops at all stations to take on passengers. The business men of La Grande are expected to close their places of business on that day and attend the Walla Walla County Fair en masse. It is confidently expected that not less than one thousand Grande Rondeers will be present. It is planned to make Friday of the fair, "Politicians' Day," and invitations are being extended to all candidates for state office, on all tickets, to be present and make addresses. Already assurances have been had from Mr. Jay Bowerman, candidate for Governor, and from Mr. W. J. R. Ellis, candidate for congress, that they will be here in case they are nominated. It is also planned to honor the various cities and sections of Walla Walla County with special days, on which programs appropriate to the day will be held. These days and programs will be announced later.

he was to wait at the end and that when he reached the platform of the instrument of death he would be unavowed to the spirit farthest from the stairway. "Supposing the face of one of the assistant executioners who tried to stop him." With hands fastened at his back, the reviewer asks, "How did the doomed monarch manage to perform the operation?"

Bunyan's Wicket Gate.
In the village of Elbow there is abundant material that is visibly associated with John Bunyan. The isolated church tower contains the very bells in the ringing of which Bunyan rejoiced and afterward trembled. Above all there must be mentioned the wicket gate which figures early in the story of "Pilgrim's Progress." The wicket gate of "Pilgrim's Progress" is commonly represented as a garden gate or a turnpike gate, but really the term denotes a small doorway cut out of a large door. Concealed behind a tree at the west end of Elbow church is just such a small doorway in the beam wooden surface of the great door. Through this low opening Bunyan must often have passed when a boy. — Harper's Weekly.

The Major's Value.
"Major Bunka," said a veteran, "was a peepshow chap. The boys and a good deal of fun once over his exchange. It seems that on a very dark night a stalwart Confederate took the major prisoner. This fact, together with the narrative of the prisoner's return to camp, was signed to headquarters tersely: "Major Bunka, captured during night march, exchanged later for two plugs tobacco."

The Lilies.
Two thousand years ago it was supposed that water lilies closed their flowers at night and retreated far under water, to emerge again at sunrise. This was "Pang's" view, and it was not impeached until the English botanist

John Ray in 1688 first doubted veracity. The great lily of Zanzibar, one of the grandest of the lily family, opens its flowers, ten inches wide, between 11 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon. They are of the richest royal blue, with from 150 to 200 golden stamens in the center, and they remain open four or five days. It is not generally known that there are lilies that have nocturnal habits—night bloomers as well as day bloomers. They are very punctual timekeepers, too, opening and closing with commendable regularity.

Pepps and the Comet.
On Dec. 21, 1664, Pepps, the diarist, records, "My Lord Sandwich this day writes me word that he hath seen at Portsmouth the comet and says it is the most extraordinary thing he ever saw." Again, three days later, he writes, "Having sat up all night till past 2 o'clock this morning, our porter, being appointed, comes and tells us that the bellman tells him that the star is seen upon Tower hill, so I and my boy to Tower hill, it being a most fine bright moonshine night and a great frost, but no comet to be seen." Later the same day, however, Pepps did see the comet, "which now, whether worn away or no, I know not, appears not with a tail, but only is larger and duller than any other star." — Westminster Gazette.

Education.
What sculpture is to a block of marble education is to a human soul. The philosopher, the saint and the hero, the wise, the good and the great man very often de-bid and concealed in a plebeian, which a proper education might have disinterred and brought to light. — Addison.

Shakespeare's Handicap.
Mrs. Montmorency Smythe—And what were you reading when I came in, my dear? Shakespeare! Ah! What a wonderful man! And to think that he wasn't exactly what one would call a gentleman! — London Punch.
