Regular services at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Everyone invited.

A. J. Harris of Wallowa is very busy hauling hay to Elgin and is preparing to remodel his dwelling as well as complete other improvements.

If you are in doubt as where to locate by all means come to the Queen City Enterprise, the best town in Eastern Oregon. Again we say, come.

The Sun at Wallowa is soon to have assistance in shining. But the light given needs prismatic attention for it is at present confined in a very dense fog.

Mr. Templeton's wife, a mother and brother, Mrs. S. A. Charleston and Ralph, who have been making a visit in Enterprise returned to their home in Portland.

Fraternal Building Continues

The large crew of men under the supervision of S. Hayworth of La Grande has been divided, a part of them being at work on the county High School while the remainder continue work on the Fraternal building here. In a few days the roof will be on and inside work will be rushed.

Wallowa in Darkness

Wallowa has been in darkness for some time owing to the removal of the former plant and enlargement of the race. A new dynamo is to be installed and light will again be furnished. A new bridge has been built across the race just east of the skating rink.

Lostine Awakening

A few people have got the erroneous idea that Lostine is not on the Wallowa county map but they should see the new improvements under way. S. L. McKenzie has disposed of his home and has almost finished a new dwelling just to the rear of the drug store. Other improvements are being made and it looks like Lostine would be fully awake before the opening of the county fair in October. With more faith in the town people are improving their property.

County Court in Session

This has been court week in the county seat and many minor matters have received the attention of the officials. The principle point of issue was the handling of petitions sent in from Joseph and Wallowa asking the court to appropriate money for a pamphlet containing a write up of Wallowa county.

The court discussed the matter fully and appropriated $350 for that purpose. This is a good thing and Wallowa county will profit greatly b it. The write up should be complete yet short enough that people who read it will become interested immediately. Too lengthy a description often tires the reader and becomes stale before finshed. Say as much as possible in few words and see to it that these pamphlets are carefully distributed where the traveling public will have every opportunity of obtaining one or more of them. Wallowa county needs more residents and has wonderful opportunities to offer the homeseeker and laborer.
