Look at those lovely pieces of Battenburg and Mexican drawn work at Mrs. Seibert's. Just the thing for Xmas.

Tarlock (Calif.) Journal, Oct. 11: Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Littleton are the guests of Dr. Yandell and family at the ranch. They drove through from Enterprise, Oregon, which place they left last June. They crossed three ranges of mountains en route and stopped in many places, sometimes for more than a week at each place. Mr. Littleton says he never enjoyed a trip more than he did this one, and that it is one of the best one can take. He has a wagon especially built for traveling fitted up with many conveniences. They expect to leave soon for Los Angeles, but will return to Tarlock later and locate in the San Joaquin valley. * * * Charles Yandell, who recently came here from Enterprise, Oregon, and purchased land in the McHenry tract, has accepted a position in the store of Canning-Lundahl Co. Mr. Yandell is a courteous young man and few homesteads are supplied with as good building as theirs are. They have exceptionally good farms. Sanford's quarter section has over 150 acres of tillable land. He is following the Campbell system and will no doubt raise some bumper crops next season.

Lon Davis' nice house on North River street is completed. J. B. Seibert has just finished a neat job of painting it.

Mayor Boyd has received word from O. J. Roe, of Eureka, S. Dak., who bought the Akins ranch on Alder Slope a few weeks ago. Mr. Roe is packing up to move here and says a number of others in that vicinity are coming to the valley to look the country over.

Paradise Couple Wed. Miss Amy Applegate and Mr. Baley Shelton, both of Paradise, were married at Asotin, Wash., October 10. They are popular young people and have a host of friends who wish them a long life of prosperity and happiness.

Celery Perfection. Celery grows to perfection in the Wallowa valley, and the strange thing about it is that up to a few years ago it was thought celery would not grow well here. Rev. H. S. Templeton has this year celery that would bring "corner" prices on the Portland market. F. A. DePue, who is from Michigan and familiar with the world famous Kalamazoo product, has celery that for crispness and flavor beats anything he ever saw at his old home.

Wedding Bells

Miss Etta Meek and Mr. Elmer Roup were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meek, of Upper Prairie Creek, on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, Rev. H. C. Templeton performing the ceremony in the presence of a large company of friends and neighbors. A splendid wedding supper was served. The couple are highly estimable young people and a host of friends wish them much joy and happiness.

Feeding 3000 Cattle.

Forty-four carloads of Wallowa county cattle, comprising 1000 head, were shipped from Elgin last week to the Butter creek country in Umatilla county. They were bought by the Frye-Bruhm company of Seattle who will feed 3000 head in Umatilla county for their own use next spring.

Moore's Leg Broken.

By an upset of a load of hay on the grade near Wallowa cemetery, John Moore's right leg was broken just above the ankle, Saturday. Only one bone broken but the ankle was badly sprained. He was hauling hay from the A. J. Harris place to the railroad camp, says the Wallowa Sun.

Should Be Revived.

In a communication in the Joseph Herald it is stated the Commercial club of that place has adjourned sine die. Its death is due to lack of interest on the part of those who should have put their shoulders to the wheel and help boost, according to the published article.

"Waltz Me Around Again, Willie."

"Nobody Works But Father," "In Monkey Land," "Big Chief Battle-Axe," "Bee Club Musings," "Allee Samee," "Happy Hayseed," are a few of the pieces the Enterprise Orchestra will play for the Halloween dance at the skating rink, Thursday evening, October 31.

This will be a program dance. Programs will be presented during the grand march, which begins at 8:45. Watch for posters.

Little Salmon Bridge

The county court has let the contract for the bridge over the mouth of the Little Salmon river to Lathrop Bros. of Whisky creek for $2000. It will be the longest wooden bridge in the county the main span being 112 feet in length or 110 feet between abutments. The iron for the structure is ordered through W. J. Funk & Co. Work will begin in a few weeks.

Notice to Library Members.

All members of the Library Association are hereby notified that their semi-annual dues of 50 cents are due and payable at once.

By order of the committee. CHAS. A. AULT, chairman.

Winter Cabbage for Sale.

A. M. (Lon) Wagner has an exceptionally fine lot of winter cabbage raised on his place that he offers for sale. The heads are large and sound as a dollar.

At a Sacrifice

As I expect to leave Enterprise soon will sell my block of land in Garden addition for $325.00. Will take $125.00 the balance on your own time—See Daniel Boyd or myself.

H. S. TEMPLETON.

Two Fine Homesteads.

Sanford and Osterhaus who own the splendid homesteads on the hill two miles north of Enterprise, will not drill their well deeper at present though they believe water can be found. The bore is down 400 feet, and it is left so drilling can be continued when they are ready. Messrs. Sanford and Osterhaus have made over $1800 worth of improvements on their places, and few homesteads are supplied with as good building as theirs are. They have exceptionally good farms. Sanford's quarter section has over 150 acres of tillable land. He is following the Campbell system and will no doubt raise some bumper crops next season.

WHAT WOULD THEY DO WITH IT?

What Part of the Work of Government Would Women Do Any Better Than Men?—"Taxation Without Representation" an Argument Dangerous to Its Advocates.

The one argument upon which the advocates of woman suffrage fall back as being unanswerable is that women are taxed without representation. This would seem to mean that whoever is taxed should have a vote, and the only conclusion of this reasoning is that whoever is not taxed should not vote. If the argument is worth anything it must mean that.

"I own property," says a woman who seeks to be a voter, "and I pay taxes on it, and I cannot think that taxation without representation is just."

This plea has been repeated so often that it is time to point out its fallacy.

There are two kinds of taxes—a money tax and a service tax. The money tax is levied on property, man's and women's alike, pro rata. The service tax is levied on men alone. It calls for jury service, police service, military service, and every man takes his chances on it.

Sometimes one goes through his seventy years without suffering from it at all. Again, he spends weary hours in the jury room, or he is sworn in as a special constable.

Quell a Riot and Fight a Mob, or he is called to camp and battlefield, where he may lose a limb or an eye or his life.

Representation goes with this kind of taxation and not with the other. Property is protected by the government, as women are. But property, whether man's or woman's, has no representation.

If it had, it must necessarily be in some Mr. Astor and the sweeper makes it dangerous for anybody to molest it.

Without this protection our possessions would be of no value. This protection we contribute in equal measure, man for man, and this same protection we extend to our sisters, our cousins and our aunts.

Frequently an election is for the purpose of determining under what laws and in what manner this protection shall be exercised, and those who furnish the protection rightfully claim the privilege of dictating its form.

The woman suffragists, so far from suffering taxation without representation, are asking to be represented where they are not taxed.

Properly speaking, No Woman is Taxed, and no property is represented. The woman's property is taxed, and for that money it and she get exactly what the man and his property get—police protection, fire service, lighting and cleaning of streets, maintenance of courts, etc.

Every man is taxed, even if he owns no property—a tax that is laid upon his time, his strength and often upon his life. He bears this tax for the protection of all the lives in the community, no matter whose, and all the property, no matter whose, and to this tax the women contribute nothing and are not asked to contribute.

The suffragists appear to think they dispose of this consideration when they speak of men who are "exempt" from military service and still vote. The immediate answer is that there is no real exemption.

All the men are liable, but when it happens that the government in an emergency does not need all at once it takes its pick and speaks of the others as "exempt." It may at first call only for the men under twenty-five, but when more are wanted it does not hesitate to call for men as old as thirty-five, and so on. Many now living remember an emergency in which ten states called out every man, of whatever age, who could shoulder a musket at all.

But even this is not the root of the question. For regular service in a long campaign the government would not take a man forty-five years of age with weak lungs if it could get as many as it wanted who were but twenty-five and had strong lungs.

But suppose the weak lunged man of forty-five is

"Agin the Government" and disposed to unite in an attempt to overthrow it, will he "exempt" himself? Will he refrain from joining an insurgent force on the ground that he is over age and not in robust health?

Youth or age, lungs or no lungs, that man is a power to be reckoned with; and this is why he is allowed to vote, in order that when the ballots are counted he may see that he and his kind are in the minority and it would be hopeless for them to attempt an overthrow of the government.

When the good Prince Albert in 1851 invented world's fairs and organized the first one, it was hoped that the brotherhood of man had been demonstrated and the era of universal peace begun, but in three years there was a bloody war that involved more than half of Europe, in which the only thing contended for was commercial supremacy.

And many who read this have seen in our forest of all free countries a million men fighting to the death and spending their last dollar.
