CATTLEMEN MEET FOR ORGANIZATION

Form County Association and Adopt Resolutions Anent Forest Reserve Range.

The cattle and hog-growers of Wallowa formed a county organization at the court house Saturday under the name of the Cattle and Horse Growers Association of Wallowa County Forest Reserve. The objects of the association are to safeguard the mutual interests of its members, conduct business with the forestry office, and promote the general welfare of cattle and horse men. The following officers were elected: President, Charles G. Holmes; vice president, Polk Mayer; secretary, Ray E. Vest; treasurer, George Haas.

The meeting was in answer to a call issued by Charles G. Holmes, president of the Cattle Growers association of District No. 7, Wallowa County Forest Reserve. This organization of the cattlemen of the upper Chenaminus has been very successful in promoting the financial interests of its members, both in dealings with the forestry officials and in buying supplies. These facts being known resulted in a desire to have a county organization that the benefits might be more general, hence the call.

Twenty-one prominent stockmen representing nearly every forest district were present. Charles G. Holmes acted as chairman and Ray E. Vest as secretary. The committee on resolutions, consisting of Ray E. Vest, J. B. Olmsted, Thomas Rich, Lawrence Caviess and Charles Rice, reported the following which were adopted:

The Forester, Forest Service, Washington, D. C. Dear Sir:—Whereas the resolutions adopted by the Woolgrowers association of Wallowa county, Oregon, held on Saturday, the 28th day of December, 1907, are adverse and detrimental to cattle growers of Wallowa county. We therefore protest against the resolutions adopted as offered.

And resolved first, that the following resolution in part, "Resolved, that the Department be requested to compel the cattlemen to keep their cattle on their own allotment" * * * * * be not adopted, as the same is impracticable and is a hindrance to the cattlemen in such a way. And resolved second, that the following resolution, "Resolved, that cattle shall not be allowed (except on mutual range) to drift from their summer and fall range over the sheep range in going to their winter range, and that they be required to drive their stock to range under the same restrictions that are applied to sheepmen in going to and from their range" be not adopted and enforced for the reason that it is impracticable and injurious for cattle to be handled in such a way. The ranges are adjacent to each other, and the cattle have been raised on both ranges, and will naturally drift from one to the other. Enterprise, Oregon, February 1, 1908. Articles of association and bylaws were adopted. Every owner of cattle or horses in Wallowa county is eligible for membership.

The advisory committee which shall transact the business of the association or its individual members with the forestry office, consists as follows: Polk Mayer, Charles G. Holmes, George Haas, M. Thomason and L. E. Caviess.

High School In Its New Building

The county high school began regular class work in the new building, Monday, occupying two class rooms and the laboratory for a recitation room. The class rooms are much smaller than those in the grade school, and 24 single desks fills one completely. If the attendance next fall comes up to expectations, the large room in the second story will have to be used for study, reserving the class rooms for recitations. The present enrollment is 40. A total of 19 was enrolled last week. John Struber was among the new students, Monday. Mr. Struber was born in Switzerland and has no relatives in this county.

Visitors last week: Mrs. Bloom, Mrs. Chevut, Misses Cecil Chevut, Alta Davis and Marie Wagner.

The class in physics had some very interesting and practical experiments in connection with the steam engine this week. Classes in vocal and instrumental music have been organized. Two 40-minute periods are devoted to the work at present. The rhetoric and composition classes have begun to prepare material for the first edition of the high school paper.

Have Real Estate For Sale?

If so, see Conch & McDonald, Wallowa, Oregon, or write or phone to them and they will be pleased to look over what you have. They have for demonstration to the people of the county that they can sell real estate, and are better prepared to handle the business this year than ever before.

STREET VACATION ORDINANCE FAILS

Closing of Greenwood Street At High School Grounds Lacked Requisite Majority.

The ordinance for the vacation of Greenwood street where it passes the county high school grounds, failed of the required two-thirds majority when put on final passage at the city council meeting Monday night. The vote stood, yeas, Akins and Combes; nays, Berland and Graves. Councilman Reavis was absent on account of illness. At the time it was said that a majority vote was all that was necessary to pass the ordinance, and as it stood a tie Mayor Boyd voted aye. An examination of the charter shows that a two-thirds majority is necessary and so the ordinance is dead.

A number of citizens were present. George W. Hyatt presented a remonstrance against the closing of the street, with 60 signatures. He explained that he could have secured many more if he had had time. Mr. Hyatt called attention to the fact that if the ordinance passed there would be no street for four blocks open eastward.

Capt. A. C. Smith, while unacquainted with this particular case, was opposed on general principles. A. H. Rudd said that in his opinion Greenwood street would be the main highway onto the hill. H. C. Cramer opposed closing the street as there are none too many open now. Ben Weathers said an outlet should be maintained to that section which many predict will one day become a choice residence district.

After the vote Mayor Boyd told of the promise made by council to court to vacate, by virtue of which the building was placed where it is. Councilman Berland said he would vote to vacate 30 feet of the street but believed that a 60 foot street should be retained.

The petition for vacation was signed by the county court and A. B. Dunbar. Mr. Dunbar owns the frontage on the south side of the street and has given the court a quit claim to his reversionary interest in the street. He has since changed his mind about vacating the street and signed the remonstrance against it.

Marshal Miller reported the result of the census of the city taken by him. He found 803 persons, 513 of whom reside north of Main street.

The ordinance vacating Walter and 30 feet at west end Greenwood street was passed unanimously. It appears in another place in this paper. The new franchise for home telephone company was laid over until the company agrees to give the city free telephone service. City recorder and city treasurer were directed to make reports. Councilmen Graves and Combes were appointed as a committee to buy lumber for needed crosswalks and have same hauled at once.

Light committee recommended installing nine additional 32-candle power incandescent street lights, five of which are to be placed on the north side of town, one near J. C. Reavis', one near the flume, one at River street bridge, and one at the mill. The exact locations will be reported at an adjourned meeting Wednesday night. Recommendation adopted.

It was decided to dispense with services of a marshal for the present. Following were the

L. G. Peterson has been engaged as assistant teacher in the county high school and assumed his duties Monday. Mr. Peterson is a graduate of the University of Idaho and of the Lewiston Normal. He is a teacher of experience and the board is fortunate in securing so good a man in mid-season. He has been teaching in district No. 55, Mud Flat, where he has a homestead. The term at that school will be finished by Miss Mande Turner of Joseph, who has just completed the term in district No. 22.

George Marley, the freighter, had a fortunate escape from personal injury or financial loss in a bad accident on Wallowa hill before daylight Friday morning. He was driving six horses to two wagons loaded with hogs. He had reached the turn at the first culvert when the hill when the wheels slipped on the ice that covered the road, and the whole outfit, horses, wagons and hogs went rolling down the steep cliff toward the Minam. He escaped by jumping, and the wagons and stock were stopped by underbrush. Not a horse or porker was hurt and only a staff on one of the wagons was broken. It took several hours before the wreck was righted and road cleared, and 18 cartload hogs and wagons were waiting for the road before it was finally clear.

Plenty of Water on Hill Farm.

W. W. Harris has struck plenty of water in a well only 10 feet deep on his hill homestead four miles northwest of town. He dug a well 22 feet deep and struck enough water for household use, but continuing this well to 47 feet did not increase the flow. Starting another in a hollow a strong vein was struck at 10 feet. The Harris place is one mile west of the Sanford and Osterhoudt farms.

Will Celebrate the 22nd.

The Epworth League of this city has arranged for an entertainment and social on the evening of February 21st. It is the purpose to make the occasion a memorable one in the history of the League. Full program next week.

Wallop Wallowa At Indoor Ball

In a one-sided but interesting and exciting game the Enterprise indoor baseball team defeated the Wallowa team at the Enterprise rink Saturday night by a score of 40 to 14. The game was never in doubt after the first inning, but bits of good fielding by both sides, the hard hitting and brilliant base running by the locals and the enthusiasm of the spectators kept the interest up. The hall was fairly well lighted in spite of the absence of electric juice, and spectators filled all the chairs and available standing room. The Wallowa boys were short one man and Ed Rodgers of the local team was loaned to them. He did yeoman service, scoring twice himself and bringing three or four of the other tallies made by Wallowa by his hard hitting. Bilyeu was a puzzle to the Wallowa heavy hitters, who struck weakly at his wide outcurve and swift raise. He was also a host at the bat. All the locals had their batting clothes on and hit Hayes at will. Their baserunning was as successful as daring. The game was played so swiftly that the spectators could hardly follow the plays. A. C. Miller gave satisfaction to both sides as judge of balls and strikes and Will Zurcher gave the base decisions. Score by innings:

Joe Lay was shot in the calf of his left leg by a charge from a coyote trap gun on the ranch of his father-in-law, Julius Baltzer, on Prairie Creek, Monday. A coyote had dragged the trap and Lay was looking for it when he backed into the string, discharging the gun, which was a doublebarreled shotgun loaded with fine shot. Lay was taken to Joseph where all the shot were picked out but three or four. The wound is not serious.

FUNNIEST FARCE EVER PRESENTED

Oregonian Critic's Estimate of Mrs. Temple's Telegram—At Enterprise Opera House Feb. 18.

The next attraction at the opera house after Mr. Zwickey's lecture will be "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," the most successful play of the current season, which will be presented by the Enterprise Stock company, Tuesday evening, February 18. The company presenting the play has been selected with especial reference to the adaptability of the players to the parts assigned to them. Following is the cast of characters: Jack Temple.....Mr. Wheat Frank Fuller.....Mr. Miller Wigson.....Mr. Boatman Capt. Sharpe.....Mr. Tucker John Brown.....Mr. Burnough Mrs. Temple.....Miss Heaton Dorothy.....Miss Corkins Mrs. Fuller.....Mrs. Moore Mrs. John Brown.....Miss DuFur

Of the play itself the following from the Oregonian of September 18 last is but a sample of the notices given it by the press of the leading cities of the country: "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" as interpreted by Franklyn Underwood and an admirable supporting company, is a deluge of mirth. It burst upon an audience that filled the Heilig from orchestra to gallery three minutes after the first act began and did not abate until the last curtain fell. The professional designation of a good play as a 'scream' doesn't half begin to express it. Minute for minute and part for part I believe 'Mrs. Temple's Telegram' is the funniest farce now being presented. It is easy to see why it has had four distinct and successful New York runs. There are few characters, but each one of them is essential to a considerable degree.

"The complications are so excruciatingly funny and complex that at every new development one wonders if the author hasn't reached the limit for the ludicrous and if the crowd hadn't had enough spasms of laughter? But one after another the situations keep piling up until the very close finds but a scant minute for final explanations. As a sustained piece of stage writing it is wonderful.

"It is to be regretted that 'Mrs. Temple's Telegram' was in but for one night owing to crowded bookings. It would have been good for a week's prosperous run. Just send us a telegram, Mrs. Temple, and we will go a long way to see you again. If you'll only come back to our town some of these times we will get out the band and have a public reception."

Usual popular prices. Reserved seats at Burnough & Mayfield's.

Mr. Harris' Farm Sold.

The old LaGore homestead on Hurricane creek at the upper end of Alder Slope was sold Monday last by Couch & McDonald, the real estate dealers of Wallowa, to S. H. Bonner formerly of western Washington. Mr. Bonner is well pleased with this county, having looked it over last summer while the crops were being grown.

New Justice Precinct.

The county court has set apart township 4 north, 42 e (Promise) as a separate justice precinct and appointed T. C. Miller as justice. The action is mainly for the accommodation of voters in registering.
