The festivities began with a grand picnic dinner, the primary room having been transformed into a dining room through the mechanical skill of County Commissioner Sam Litch and an able corps of assistants. Two long tables were constructed extending the full length of the room. These were laden with all the delicacies and delicacies possible to such a feast and were twice seated with appreciative partakers.

After the dinner the company passed into the upper grade room where a program of about two hours' duration was given by the pupils. Especially mentioned is a song by a sextette of young men, a debate by five "colored" boys on the question "Resolved that the pen is mightier than the sword," a flag drill and jumping rope exercise by primary pupils, and the crayon work of Misses Maude Litch and Mamie Kooch, the former putting on the blackboard a picture of Mt. Hood and the latter Wallowa lake. Several of the visitors responded to the call for remarks, County Superintendent J. W. Kerns and Rev. E. Owens each giving enjoyable talks.

Prof. Hall then announced that as this was the first visit of so many of the parents he would give a sample class recitation. A class in geography was called which fairly brought down the house. They then probed into the lungs where they soon located the seat of the disease. Mr. and Mrs. White of Joseph visited their daughter, Mrs. Beith of Park, last week; also visited their friends, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lloyd and family and stayed over night with Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Morgan.

Last week about ten men under the direction of J. A. Denny tackled the task of making a wood road up Deer Creek. They had only worked Monday ere they were warned out on the stage road by the road supervisor, who, by the way, appears to have much more to say in this country than the king of England (naturally); not blaming the supervisor as he didn't make the laws. As these men had set their time for some time ago to meet and make a much needed road to timber, several would have preferred paying the cash (only it was not handy having been paid out for taxes) to "go at the king's command." However, they put in Tuesday and helped get the stage road in shape and also last week completed their Deer Creek road.

A few days ago Mr. Crawford's horses got out of pasture and set out on the canyon. Mr. Crawford hearing which way they were heading followed and caught them near the Harley Horner place. It was then quite dark. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sprague entertained on Sunday, to an excellent chicken dinner, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Denny and children, Douglas Beahan and Mrs. Alice Bell. Afterward Mr. D. took the party for a drive up the canyon. He was jokingly told he would have to go to the Buttes to turn around but found turning space nearer, so the way back they called at the first house home.
