Passing of Jonas

From Wallowa Sun The board of directors of this school district have elected Earl H. Bronson, now principal of the Kenesaw, Nebraska, public schools, to the principalship of Wallowa school for next year, and he has filed his acceptance. Some few weeks ago they chose Miss Jessie Watlock of Lostine schools for the primary, but have chosen no other teachers yet.

Charles Young has made final proof on his homestead on Dry Salmon, before U. S. Commissioner D. W. Sheahan.

Rapid Growth of Dairy Business

L. J. Jordan, the well known dairyman of Enterprise, returned from the Grande Ronde this week with 10 high grade Jersey heifers and cows and a Jersey bull to add to his herd.

J. A. Bookout now has a herd of 15 registered Jersey heifers, and last week bought a separator of J. W. Bickford, W. W. Harris, of northwest of town, also bought a separator. O. S. Clark of Paradise also bought one and will milk 20 cows, sending his cream out by stage.

Thomas Morgan of Prairie Creek is so well satisfied with the dairy business that he will increase his herd to 100. The foregoing are evidences of the wonderful growth of the dairy business in this valley this spring, due in part to the Wallowa Valley Cream company, the untiring efforts of its president, J. W. Bickford, but in the largest measure to the fact that the Wallowa valley is the best dairy country in the Inland Empire.

McDonald's Name Missing

J. Q. Connolly, who brought the Flora ballot boxes out, when asked how many votes McDonald received, said: "McDonald? What was he running for?" When it was explained to him that Mr. McDonald was a candidate for county commissioner, he maintained with grave face that the Wallowa man's name wasn't on the tickets in Flora precinct as the returns show no votes for him.

Wallowa base ball team will probably play Elgin Sunday. No game scheduled for Enterprise.

WALLA WALLA IS READY FOR ROAD

Letter From Leading Capitalist of Eastern Washington on Traction Road Project.

The Walla Walla company is ready to take up the matter of building the electric railroad from that city to Enterprise. In a letter dated April 25, a leading capitalist of Walla Walla, one of the wealthiest men in Eastern Washington, sends word to a prominent citizen of Enterprise that they were "ready to take up the proposition of electric railroad" with the people of this city. This letter is now in the News Record office, and it will be acted upon as speedily as such matters can be done. For obvious reasons, the name of the capitalist is not made public at this time.

Performances, Not Promises.

The above paragraph of news is evidence of activity on the part of Enterprise in the matter of a railroad outlet to the north. It is well known by leading citizens of every community along the line of the proposed route that Enterprise men have been working on this project for more than six months.

And they are not pulling alone in their work in this county as the great promoter who edits the Wallowa Sun will one day wake up and see.

This week's issue of the Wallowa Promiser needs only pictures to be a comic supplement. In one paragraph it scoffs at the idea of a town the size of Enterprise doing anything toward building a railroad to the North Country, and in the next breath promises that Wallowa, half the size of Enterprise, will surely build half the road—up Whiskey creek—if Flora will build the other half.

In their mad desire to hog all the offices, and relying on the word of a few irresponsibles from other towns, at so much per word, or a lump sum for so many signatures to their county seat petition, Wallowa engineers of the count seat scrap threw down the candidates from other sections, particularly the north end. Now realizing their blunder, the Sun is subject in its fawning and cringing, and even invents a lie out of the whole cloth, that Mr. Locke was in favor of a $100,000 court house.

"The people of this city would have been glad to support a man from the north end for commissioner," says the Sun. Yes, how glad? Mr. Locke was out weeks before McDonald and had the united support of the North Country. But the Jonas push insisted on trotting out the strongest man in their whole community to down Locke and the north end. How "glad" they were! After trying to hog every thing, the Sun now snaps and scurrs, and accuses Lostine and the North Country of high treason because they wouldn't do as the Wallowa bosses dictated. "This, of course is discouraging," as the Sun says.

The Sun's frenzied promises of fair treatment will not be swallowed by Lostine and the North Country after the throw-downs at the primary by Wallowa. Promises don't go.

It is Enterprise performance against Jonas promises. Enterprise offers the best site in Wallowa county for the court house, and $5000 of real money; the Jonas push promises—hot air.

Enterprise treated all sections of the county fairly in the primary, except ayowed enemies of this town. The Jonas push—well, it's history, and they can't dodge the record, but my they are promising for the future.

And it is the same with the railroad. Enterprise has been working along that line for half a year, long before the county seat question posed the petition stage, and has created whatever sentiment that now exists for the road. Representatives from Enterprise have visited Walla Walla capitalists and laid the resources of the county before them and got them interested. Other railroad builders have been interested, and Enterprise will never let up until the road is completed, not for political reasons but because it will help Enterprise commercially. The people of the county know this is a town that does things—performance, not promises.

And the Jonas push—promises, hot air, nothing doing.

O. B. & N. Extension News. W. E. Holmes, who returned Tuesday from a few days business trip to La Grande, says it is the general expectation both in La Grande and Elgin that work will be resumed soon on the Joseph extension but there is no more definite word there than we have in here.

The completion of the Riparia-Lewiston extension this week will release three or four hundred laborers, and it is a good guess they will be brought to Elgin. Two car loads of Japs came down to Elgin from La Grande on the same train Mr. Holmes returned on. There are 70 carloads of light steel in the yards at Elgin.

One Day's Stage Schedule Starts

The Elgin-Joseph stage went on to the summer schedule today, Thursday, but owing to the change of time of the La Grande-Elgin train, the new stage schedule is more convenient for upper valley people than last summer's. It is practically a daylight ride each way.

Going out, the stage leaves Joseph at 6:30 a. m., Enterprise 7:15, Lostine 9:00, Wallowa 10:00, dinner at the Canyon, and arrive at Elgin at 5 p. m. Train leaves Elgin at 6 p. m.

Coming in, stage leaves El at 10:30 a. m., 1 o'clock dinner at the Canyon,

LOSTINE SCHOOLS CLOSE YEAR'S WORK

Postmaster Bell will distribute the letters and daily papers at night when the stage is on time.

Enterprise will receive two mails from the outside today, one at 2 p. m. and the other at 8:30 p. m., the first two regularly scheduled mails ever arrived on one day in the history of this city.

Taken to Portland.

John M. Herman, Jr., was taken to Portland last week where he will be placed in a private sanitarium. His friends hope and expect that rest will restore his mind to its wonted steadiness. Sheriff Blakely and Dr. C. A. Ault accompanied the unfortunate man to Portland.

A. R. Murray made proofs on an Alder Slope timber claim last week before U. S. Commissioner D. W. Sheahan. J. M. Stubblefield made final proof on his homestead on the lower Imnaha, and Wm Pearson on his homestead near the Buttes.

Essay, "Napoleon"—Birdie McCubbin. Violin Solo—Cora Williams. Address—Daniel Boyd.

Piano Duet, "Southern Jollification"—Misses Hutchens and McKenzie. Valedictory—Anna Edwards.

Remarks and Presentation of Diplomas—County Superintendent J. W. Kerns. Quartette—"Po' Li'l" Lamb.

The class motto is Non scholae sed vitae discimus—For life not for school we learn. The class flower is the Oregon grape. Following the program refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. The exercises were of high order of merit and speak well for the school, the scholars and teachers.

The tenth grade graduates are Grace M. McCubbin, Mabel G. Willett, Marion L. Harris, Dora B. McCubbin, Addie L. McCubbin, Robert McKenzie and Anna Edwards. The eighth grade graduates are Charles Womack, Birdie McCubbin and Harley Courtney.

Prof. W. Eugene Smith, who has given such good satisfaction the past year, has been re-engaged as principal for next year. Mrs. F. O. Clark and Miss Ethel Fleener have been engaged for the grades. Professor Smith leaves this week for his home at Middleton, Ida.
