Those who miss "The Rajah" on Saturday evening will miss what promises to be the greatest success ever achieved by the Enterprise Stock company. The play itself is an exceedingly clever comedy drama, requiring the highest order of dramatic talent on the part of the performers. It is the most difficult thing yet undertaken in the local house, and the company deserves credit for nerve in taking it on. The members of the company have shown great zeal in the rehearsals and already things are running so smoothly that a successful performance is assured. Not only will the play itself be well worth seeing, but the scenery required is the most pretentious ever seen in the house. Inasmuch as the performance is for the benefit of the band, it is needless to say that the house will be crowded.

Strength Saved Him.

C. H. Crumacker, while rolling logs at the Lewis saw mill Tuesday forenoon, escaped death only because of his great strength. He had started a 16 foot log, that he had cut 625 feet, down a hill when his glove caught on a knot on the log and he was thrown over and in front of the big timber. He caught and held the log with his shoulder until his hands rolled it aside. He escaped with a painfully mashed and bruised shoulder and a few other bruises. He is catcher of the Enterprise baseball club and both he and the club are afraid he will be out of the game for a week or two.
