Roosevelt Facing A Test

Nation Waits for Dragon's Verdict For or Against the President.

A great many Republicans are beginning to soberly ask themselves, "Why should we elect Governor Chamberlain to the United Senate?"

And to this echo is answering, "Why indeed?"

There is an overwhelming majority of Republicans in this State. In the ordinary elections they have often, and The Telegram believes wisely, looked to the men without reference to the party brand which they wore. In this way they have disciplined party and at the same time raised the standard of the local public service.

But in the matter of the election of a United States Senator they have presented to them a different problem. There they come in touch with the party of the Nation, the party of Roosevelt of which they so warmly approve, and the verdict which they render the general public must accept as very largely the judgment of the voters of Oregon upon that administration. Our elections occur at an odd season of the year. We here fire the first gun of the Presidential election. The verdict is made up in advance, so far as the rest of the country is concerned. The Nation knows that the state is overwhelmingly Republican. It likewise knows that the administration of President Roosevelt has here received enthusiastic approval. That administration, disguise it as we will, is now on trial before the country. By the general masses of the people it has been warmly approved; by the corporate and plutocratic interests it is bitterly reviled, and, while little is being done openly, there is deep down a smouldering fire of resentment that cannot be extinguished. For the very reason that the plutocratic forces of the country hate the President, the masses of the people admire and approve of him.

If under such circumstances as these it goes forth that the people of Oregon in June elect a Democrat for United States Senator, the administration receives a blow in the house of its supposed friends that it is conceivable may have a serious effect upon the plans of the friends of the administration and upon the great contest in November following. It must not be forgotten that much quiet work has been done in recent months against the administration. One may see the effect of it upon every hand in every community—the claqueurs busily engaged in hamstringing Roosevelt, and insiduously undermining the platform of principles which he has been steadily putting forth in his messages and speeches. If a well-known and supposedly safe administration State falls by the wayside in June, the prestige of the administration severely suffers and no man who honestly faces the question can see it otherwise.

In the present campaign and the coming election Statement No. 1 is not on trial, because both candidates for the United States Senate stand square toed and flat footed upon that platform. Neither is Chamberlain nor Cake, as such, on trial before the people. The question is one not of these men, but of broad National import, leading to a victory which will mean a shout of ringing encouragement to the National administration or a vital blow delivered in the house of its friends. This is the real proposition before the people of the State, and it is one of the main reasons why The Telegram will throughout this campaign give H. M. Cake its heartiest support and urge as strongly as it may the voters of the State to sustain the administration at a moment when it is more seriously on trial than at any other period of its whole history.—Portland Evening Telegram, May 4, 1908.

Candidate for Senator.

Turner Oliver of La Grande is the Democratic candidate for joint state senator for Union and Wallowa counties. He believes in the people and will obey their will in the election of United States senator. He stands for the development of the resources of Eastern Oregon.

Original Court House Man.

H. N. Williams of Lostine, Democratic candidate for county judge, was the first to announce that if elected he would build a moderate priced court house in whichever town is selected as the county seat by the voters at the June election. Mr. Williams' position is one that will doubtless be endorsed by the voters. It provides for settling the county seat question for good and all with the least expense to the taxpayers. If it was desired to begin the erection of the building next year, the money subscribed by the county seat could be used and if more was needed arrangements could easily be made with the contractors. Following is Mr. Williams' position.

"I do not favor the erection of a court house at the present, nor do I favor any levy for that purpose the coming year. I believe that a county that has been twenty years without a court house should have one in the near future, and my plan would be to make a levy of 1 mill in January 1910 on the 1909 assessment an additional levy of 1 1/2 mills in January 1911 and to build a court house in 1911 to be completed by the time the lease on the present court house expires.

I do not favor the erection of a court house to cost over $20,000. I will if elected favor the building of a court house under these conditions wherever the county seat may be located."

Signed, H. N. WILLIAMS.
