It was a quiet, pretty home wedding in the presence of the relatives and intimate friends, and all the surroundings partook of the high esteem in which the happy couple are held in this community. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. P. Samms, under an evergreen arch, draped in pink and white, and these colors predominated in all the decorations. Miss Cora Berland, the bridesmaid, was dressed in white and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Leo Forsythe was best man. The bride was very handsome in a gown of cream nuns veiling with folds of china silk, and she carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. Herbert Browning sang "Love me and the World is Mine," Miss Jennie Berland singing the answer, I Love You and the World is Thine." Miss Berland also played the Mendelssohn wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlor. After the ceremony and congratulations, a delicious luncheon was served.
