WALLOWA'S PRAISES SUNG BY LOWELL

NOTED PENDLETON MAN TELLS OF HIS TRIP INTO THIS VALLEY.

From the Pendleton East Oregonian Judge Stephen A. Lowell and wife returned this morning from Wallowa lake where Mr. Lowell delivered the Fourth of July address.

They report a very successful occasion, the three days' celebration having attracted large crowds of people about the lake for a few days outing before the beginning of harvest, the crowd being estimated at from 2500 to 4000. The exercises closed with religious exercises on Sunday at the camp at the head of the lake.

Mr. Lowell states that the railroad from Elgin to Joseph is substantially graded and that the trains will be running to Wallowa city early in the fall, and probably will reach Joseph the terminus of the road, by the first of the year.

Long Dream Coming True.

If such shall prove true the long years of waiting on the part of the people of that county will be rewarded. It is a region of great fertility, with an abundance of water for irrigating purposes, and vast areas of wheat land not yet touched by the plow. The conditions are ideal for dairying and the raising of live stock of every character, and Wallowa county will probably contribute full measure of the cattle, hogs and sheep to be utilized by the great packing houses now being completed in Portland. With the incoming of the railroad the era of small farms will be opened, because there by the productions can reach market and men will be encouraged to cultivate and produce a great many things that are not now profitable because of the difficulties of transportation.

Probably no county in the state is more generally prosperous or contains a more intelligent, progressive and contented people than that, but it is of course sparsely settled because of the lack of transportation facilities. When this difficulty is cured, great numbers of people will establish homes in the county and develop the great natural resources.

There is an abundance of granite suitable for building purposes, and quarries of marble, as well as gold and copper mines, all wait the incoming of the railroad for development. The towns of Wallowa, Enterprise and Joseph, all on the line of the railroad will become centers of industry and population of importance to the state.

Wallowa lake is one of the most beautiful spots in Oregon, situated in a depression in the mountains, possibly in a crater, about a mile wide and four and a half miles long, filled with water from the melting snows upon the mountains towering above it. Not many years hence its shores will surely be crowded with hotels and summer cottages and it will be one of the play grounds of the state.

Good Progress On Grade Of Railroad

Patterson Has Mile and One-Fourth Completed.—Mitchell Working Two Gangs.

Contractor J. E. Patterson has completed one and one-fourth miles of grade of the two and three-fourths he has to do west of Enterprise. By the end of this week he will have over a score of teams and nearly 40 men at work. Three-fourths of a mile of grading is done west of the road that runs south from the county bridge, and a half mile of grade is completed east of that road. Only a month has elapsed of the three he has in which to complete his contract. Engineer Isaacs was up from Wallowa this week, staking out more work.

J. M. Mitchell, who has the contract for four miles of grade between Lostine and Wallowa, and the cut and fill in Sam Wade's field, is working two gangs and rushing the work at great speed.

If reports received in Enterprise are correct, the grading will be done none too soon. It is stated the track layers coming up the canyon have nearly reached the fish hatchery. If that is so, the bridge will be reached by Saturday, the day stated by Engineer Brandon at La Grande last week.

Another car load of workmen went through Elgin Monday on their way to the front.

Preaching services at the Methodist church next Sunday at 11 a. m.

TOP PRICES PAID WALLOWA WOOL

THIS COUNTY'S CLIP BRINGS HIGHEST AVERAGE OF ANY IN OREGON.

Wallowa county maintained her reputation of producing the best wool in Oregon, at the Elgin wool sales Thursday and Friday, the prices averaging higher than at any previous sale held in the state this season. The bulk of the clips sold above 14 cents, the average being above 15 cents.

H. W. Graves of Enterprise and Walter Beith of The Park topped the market with 16 1/2 cents for their clips. Two buyers tied on 16 1/2 for Graves' wool.

There were nine buyers present and the result showed there was real competition in the bidding. Two buyers for large Boston firms were commissioned to buy all the wool they could, and those two got most of the good clips. The majority of the wool growers are well satisfied and say it is proven that for all to hold until sales day is the best method yet found for selling.

A few poor clips sold from 9 to 12 1/2 cents; also a few small lots were sold at the low figures. One of the two largest clips, Peter Baudan's, was consigned, and another large clip, Michellod & Robin's was not offered as the bulk of it had not reached Elgin the day of the sale.

Miss Mellie G. Daggett and Mr. L. E. Shinn were united in marriage in a pretty home wedding, Sunday July 5, at high noon, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Daggett of Alder Slope. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. L. Howarth of Joseph, in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride is a beautiful girl and was very pretty in a gown of white silk. A fine wedding dinner was served. Many presents testified the esteem in which the couple is held, and a serenade party in the evening young folk. Another serenade party showed their popularity among the from Alder greeted them Saturday night. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Shinn, pioneer residents of this valley. ## Peremptory Writ Served on Reavis

Mandate From Judge Knowles To Turn Over Books and Cash To Bell.

F. A. Reavis was served Wednesday afternoon with a writ of peremptory mandamus, commanding him to forthwith deliver to W. T. Bell the books, records and cash belonging to Wallowa county. The writ was issued by Judge J. W. Knowles at La Grande, Monday, on application by Mr. Bell's attorneys, C. R. Eberhard and C. H. Finn.

Mr. Reavis is given no alternative to show cause why he did not turn over the books and cash to Treasurer-elect Bell, but must comply with the mandate under pain of contempt. He has his legal remedy of appeal.

There have been no new developments in the postoffice situation, but an appointment of Mr. Bell's successor is expected soon.

Gone After Dan Clark.

Sheriff Edgar Marvin is at Wallowa to get Dan Clark, who is wanted here under a charge of stabbing a man named Cochran at Paradise last New Year's. The indictment is for assault with dangerous weapon. Mr. Marvin left Sunday for Salem to secure the requisition which he would take to Olympia thence would go to Wallowa after his man, who is held in jail there.

Plans for Court House.

Judge J. B. Olmsted says the news that Wallowa county will build a court house has become well advertised, and the court is receiving many letters from architects and contractors. S. D. Haworth, the contractor on the high school and the fraternal building, came in last week and submitted to the court a tentative plan of a building, modeled in its arrangement somewhat after the Union county structure. The plans call for a two-story and high basement building, 80x90 feet, with the jail on the first floor and the court room on the second.

Slater, who designed and built the Union county courthouse and is now building the $20,000 schoolhouse at Elgin, writes that he will send in plans in a day or two.

Mrs. W. R. Holmes and daughter Eloise returned home Saturday from a visit of several weeks at Portland.

POPULAR PLAN TO BUILD RAILROAD

FARMERS WILL THROW UP GRADE FOR WALLA WALLA ELECTRIC.

Walla Walla, July 11—If the plans now being discussed and formulated by prominent citizens of the county are successfully carried out Walla Walla will be connected with Wallowa and the Columbia river by an electric car line by next spring. This is a statement made by one of the leaders in the enterprise. At a recent meeting of the Farmers Co-operative union the feasibility of building this road was discussed and plans advanced for its completion.

It is proposed by those in charge of the project to secure the services of several hundred farmers and their teams next winter when the harvest has been completed and fall seeding finished, to grade the line from here to Wallula.

This was informally placed before the farmers meeting at its last session and met with no little favor. As compensation for this work the farmers will take stock in the company to be organized.

Few hindrances could be placed in the way of these plans as a right of way and franchise have already been secured for this purpose. All that now remains is simply the selection of grades and the best route over streams before the actual work grading the road could be commenced. Rails would be laid from Wallula thence and ties and materials could be shipped in as the line is laid. It is estimated that the grading and laying of the track can be accomplished in three months.

Wealthy Men in Company.

The company would be composed of the wealthiest men in the county who could place sufficient capital behind the scheme to successfully carry it out. Power may be secured from some company manufacturing it as it is doubtful if the new corporation would have means to finance the building of an adequate power plant.

The benefits to be derived from this enterprise can readily be seen. With a direct line from the Garden City to the river and the steamboats now in contemplation of building shipments of grain and fruit could be made direct to Portland without an additional bill of lading. Shipping rates would probably be reduced materially and the difficulties which are yearly becoming more pronounced in regard to transportation of crops will be largely alleviated.

At present no definite plan of action has been marked out but the promoters of the enterprise claim there is little doubt of its eventual success. A joint meeting of farmers and men interested in the project will probably be held within the next few days when some final steps are to be taken regarding the matter.

BRYAN NOMINATED.

Bryan was nominated on the first ballot at the Denver convention, receiving 89 1/2 votes to 46 for Johnson, 59 1/2 for Gray, J. W. Kern of Indiana was nominated for vice president by acclamation.
