LOWER PRAIRIE CREEK NOTES.

One of the most enjoyable affairs that has been given in this neighborhood for some time was a dance given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin McPetridge, last Friday night, March 12. A large number were present, among them Mr. Vinton Hart, who is known to be a fine violinist, but on account of having a bad cold could not play as much as he usually does very willingly, so Mr. McPetridge pleased his guests with some of his own playing. Delightful refreshments were served at 12:30 o'clock, which were partaken of heartily. Mr. and Mrs. McPetridge entertained charmingly.

The ones who enjoyed these young folks' hospitality were glad that it was not until approaching dawn that the dance broke up, when they departed for their various homes.

Mr. Fred McPetridge is remodeling his house and building a new barn, and it has been reported that he is thinking of entering into the state of wedded bliss.

The basket social which was given at the Pratt schoolhouse last Friday night was a very pleasing affair, and the program rendered by the pupils of that school was highly appreciated. The singing and speaking was very good indeed, and the teacher, Mr. Tucker, is a very clever impersonator. The proceeds of the sale of the baskets will go to help build a tower in which the bell is to hang. The baskets were bid on very liberally.

A $5,000 FELLOW.

Little Miss Burbridge and Her Gift From J. P. Morgan.
Little Miss Virginia Burbridge of New York has the distinction of being the youngest fellow of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. And she has the further distinction of being made such by the famous financier and art patron,

LITTLE MISS VIRGINIA BURBRIDGE.
J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. Morgan paid $5,000 to make her a member, and she is only the daughter of an east side janitor. But her mother has a taste for art and with her baby daughter went to see an exhibition at the Metropolitan museum in which Mr. Morgan was much interested. They happened to be the first ones on hand, and the great financier, noting the interest in art displayed by the mother, took a fancy to reward her by making her daughter a fellow of the famous art institution which he has done so much to make what it is. Little Miss Burbridge does not quite realize yet what a distinction she enjoys.

A Maker of Bulls.
Some excellent bulls are credited to William Arollin, who was a London police judge in the thirties of the last century. He once remarked to counsel, "If you can show precisely at what moment the offense was committed and prove that the prisoner was not there when he did it, he could not possibly have done it." And he sagely added, "We cannot divest ourselves of common sense in a court of justice." Of a similar character was an axiom he once delivered himself of, which has been maliciously fathered on many other occupants of the bench, "If ever there was a case of clearer evidence than this case, this case is that case."
