They Knew the Pole.

Some years ago when Dr. Nansen visited Leeds on his return from the polar regions he was welcomed by a large crowd of spectators, who cheered vociferously. Two of the most ardent admirers of Nansen were a couple of old men, who kept shouting and waving their sticks. When the celebrated explorer had passed, immediately following in the wake of the carriage came a wagon dragged by three horses, bearing a long iron pole, which belonged to the electric tramways company.

Directly the old men saw it the following conversation took place:

"Well, I'll be blowed! Sitha, Bill, he's brout the pole back w' him!" said one.

"Aye," said the other admirer of Nansen, "and we t' only two 'at's nooted it. The're all running after t' carriage. Sitha, the're that ignorant they can't tell t' pole when they see it!"

Tax on Hats.

Not only have hats at various times been subject to taxation, but have even been made the subject of special laws. Thus in Henry VII's reign none was allowed to sell hats at a larger price than 20 pence or caps for more than 2s. 6d. Some compensation, however, for this interference with free trade could be found in the fact that in 1571 on Sundays and holidays every one above seven years of age was required to wear a cap of wool of English make under penalty of 3 farthings fine for every day's neglect.—London Chronicle.

Snowless Lands.

Over two-thirds of the land surface of the earth snow never falls.

An Isle of Many Names.

The French island which was known as Bourbon under the ancient regime was named Reunion under the revolution, le Bonaparte under the empire and Bourbon under the restoration and is Reunion now.

Cuba's Many Names.

Cuba is known in history under several names. The first was Antilla, then Juana, after a Spanish prince. Ferdinand came third, followed by Santiago and the Isle of Ave Maria. The original Indian name, Cubanacan, signifying "where gold is found," was finally adopted, and usage shortened it to the first two syllables.

A Logical Result.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
 "I'm going a-milking, sir," she said.

"Then I want to marry you, my pretty maid."
 "For I own the waterworks here," he said.

So they were married, egad, and they have lived ever since on the milky whey. —Lippincott's Magazine.

Force of Habit.

Kilky—I did a very absentminded thing this morning. Street—What was it? Kilky—Offered a tip to the man who shaved my nose.—Boston Transcript.

The Illusion of Night.

I sometimes fancy that every great city must have been built by night. At least it is only at night that every part of a great city is great. All architecture is great architecture after sunset. Perhaps architecture is really a nocturnal art, like the art of fireworks. At least I think many people of those nobler trades that work by night (journalists, policemen, burglars, coffee stall keepers and such mistaken enthusiasts as refuse to go home till morning) must often have stood admiring some black bulk of building with a crown of battlements or a crest of spires and then burst into tears at daybreak to discover that it was only a haberdasher's shop with huge gold letters across the face of it.—G. A. Chesterton in London News.

The Emperor's Orderly.

Frenchmen of every rank and class dearly love titles. The manager of a Paris insurance company was decorated with the Legion of Honor a few days ago, and the clerks in the employ of the company presented him with a piece of plate to which their visiting cards were attached. On looking over these he was a good deal puzzled and amused by the visiting card of the office "boy," an old soldier from the Invalides, who was employed to open the office doors from 9 to 4. Under the man's name was the title "the emperor's orderly." He sent for the old soldier, who stumped in and saluted.

"Of what emperor are you the orderly, and how?" he asked. The old Invalid drew himself up to attention.

"I am the orderly of the emperor," he said, "Napoleon, le Petit Corporal."

"But he is dead. He has been dead some time," answered the puzzled manager.

"I dust his tomb for him," growled the old soldier.—London Express.

No Morals in Dreamland.

If, as many writers have suggested, it is the soul itself that guides the imagery of dreams, how are we to explain the fact that in this chaos of ideas and feelings there is so little distinction between right and wrong that when dreaming we commit acts for which we should weep tears of blood were they as real as they seem to be.

As Professor Hoffman has said, "The familiar check of waking hours, I must not do it because it would be unjust or unkind," never once seems to arrest us in the satisfaction of any whim which may blow about our wayward fancies."

From all of which we must conclude that the dream realm is a world that is entirely oblivious to any moral sense and that, though it may be true that a troubled conscience may produce or affect our dreams, the dreams themselves are never burdened with a conscience.—Bohemian Magazine.

Going Some.

Being pursued by a farmer and his three sons after being caught in the chicken yard, a young colored person had just made up his mind that he was not eluding his followers as quickly as he might be when a long eared jack rabbit jumped up from the roadside and started down the road ahead of him. The would be chicken thief had run a few hundred feet farther when the farmer and his boys were astonished to hear the negro shout in a voice that quavered with fright, though unrestrained, "Say, for de Lord sake, you rabbit, get out ob de way and let some one run who can run."—Argonaut.

Making the Best of It.

I cannot praise a sudden thaw—
 Wet feet may put in health a flaw.
 Nor do I like a sudden freeze—
 On ice I never walk with ease.
 'Twixt thaw and ice I grumbling swing
 And wait the coming of the spring.

Grigible Balloons.

The first attempt to steer a balloon was made in Paris in 1784.

Knew His Name.

The man was jealous, insanely jealous, though heaven knows the girl gave him no cause.
 Girls never do.
 He knew the name of the man he feared.

He did not tell her so, however, but beat about the bush, as they do on the stage.

At the same time, when this story opens, they were having an emotional tussle.

"Oh, George," she said, "what is the matter?"

"You know well enough," he replied bitterly.

"I assure you I do not," she insisted.

"But you do, and you do nothing to make our life sweeter."

"Tell me what I should do," she pleaded, for, though she might be frisky with George, she did not wish to lose her grip on him entirely.

"Oh, George, George, why are you not frank with me?" she pleaded again.

George's face became ashen gray at her fateful words.

"That is it!" he hissed, the awful fire of jealousy blazing in his eyes. "That is it, Miss Smithkins. If I were Frank with you instead of George, you'd be all right."

The girl would have replied, but she could not. Her tongue clave to the roof of her mouth.

The other fellow's name was Frank. —London Answers.

A Drop in Value.

"Have you heard of Mrs. Fadleigh's latest craze?"
 "No."
 "She thinks it's the proper thing to lead a dog about the streets. She's got a twenty dollar silver chain and a t dollar dog mounted whelp."
 "Hasn't she any dog?"
 "Yes; she has a thirty cent dog."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WARNING.

Do not be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for chronic coughs, bronchitis, hay fever, asthma, and lung trouble, as it stops the cough and heals the lungs.

Dr. Abernethy, the great English physician, said, "Watch your kidneys. When they are affected, life is in danger." Foley's Kidney Remedy makes healthy kidneys, corrects urinary irregularities, and tones up the whole system.

Many people delude themselves by saying "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble disappear.
