OSTEOPATHIC PEBBLES.

Get right with nature. Osteopathy aims to help nature. Osteopathy is the reaction against drugs.

"Prove all things, hold fast that which is good."

Health means perfect physical adjustment of the body. Adjustment is the keynote.

Often a small anatomical defect remedied will cure a most stubborn disease.

Pain is nature's warning that a pinched nerve or blood vessel is struggling for freedom.

Whatever interferes with blood or nerve supply is a prime cause of disease.

Osteopathy is an appeal to rational living and the common sense treatment of disease.

"Osteopathy, rubbing." When a vertebra of your spine is being forced into line or a twisted rib righted, you will hardly call it rubbing.

The "How" and "Why" of the treatment in any form of disease, acute or chronic, is explainable to our understanding by Osteopathy. If the Osteopath is educated.—Osteopathic Herald.

located at Oswego, a short distance north of the city. It is thought that he field for a cement factory here is unexcelled, because of the raw materials and the big market for the manufactured product.

Astoria is in the limelight because of a splendid building record during the first nine months of the year. Improvements carried on by the municipal and business interests there during 1909 total over $1,000,000. This is a splendid showing and with such a spirit being shown, Astoria's outlook is very bright.

ween the ferry and the mouth of the Salmon—and second, at the whirpool, about one-half mile above Troy.

At the latter site the river is narrow and there is a natural rock abutment on one side. If the bridge is placed there it would mean in course of time a county road up Courtney and Shanrock canyons to Red Fir, giving not to exceed a 5 per cent grade at an estimated cost for the 17 miles of $8500.

The site near the ferry would mean, probably, the regrading of Troy hill. The grade of the hill can be reduced to 10 per cent according to the survey of County Surveyor Slerryman.

The county court returned from the North Country, Monday.

SURGERY BLOODLESS AND OTHERWISE

Osteopathy believes in surgery. The Osteopath in fact is a surgeon in the best sense of the word. His work of correcting abnormalities, great and small, by manipulation is essentially surgical. And he believes in the use of the knife under many circumstances, as for the removal of abdominal growths, malformations and dead parts. But he believes in the use of the knife only when it has been found that there are no other means available. He is able a many kinds of cases to provide effective and successful treatment by his bloodless surgery where any doctor but an Osteopath would resort to cutting.—Right Way.

Knew His Name.

The man was jealous, insanely jealous, though heaven knows the girl gave him no cause.

Girls never do.

He knew the name of the man he feared.

He did not tell her so, however, but beat about the bush, as they do on the stage.

At the same time, when this story opens, they were having an emotional tussle.

"Oh, George," she said, "what is the matter?"

"You know well enough," he replied bitterly.

"I assure you I do not," she insisted. "But you do, and you do nothing to make our life sweeter."

"Tell me what I should do," she pleaded, for, though she might be frisky with George, she did not wish to lose her grip on him entirely.

"Oh, George, George, why are you not frank with me?" she pleaded again. George's face became ashen gray at her fateful words.

"That is it!" he hissed, the awful fire of jealousy blazing in his eyes. "That is it, Miss Smithkins. If I were Frank with you instead of George, you'd be all right."

The girl would have replied, but she could not. Her tongue clave to the roof of her mouth.

The other fellow's name was Frank.—London Answers.

France has more than 217 miles of pneumatic tubes for conveying the mail, divided between Paris, Lyons and Marseilles.

There are 85,840 trees in Paris, and each tree has its number, age, history and condition recorded in the books at the Hotel de Ville. The appropriation for this department is 450,000 francs a year.

Two French army dogs have drawn light ambulances, the invention of a lieutenant, with a load of 100 pounds each, for some 375 miles without a breakdown, showing how they can be used in war.

Mr. F. G. Frazz, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is mild, pleasant and effective, and cures habitual constipation. For sale by Burnaugh & Mayfield.
