Florida's 70-foot Bamboo.

Probably the tallest bamboo in America grows in Arcadia, Fla., and is about 70 feet high. The clump has a spread of 50 feet and the diameter at the ground is 12 feet. The specimen is only 8 years old.

This is the common bamboo of India, probably brought to south Florida from the West Indies. In Jamaica it has become naturalized and is popularly supposed to be indigenous. It makes an astonishing growth during our rainy season, the canes often attaining their full height in six weeks, after which they begin to put on leaves. The canes are from four to five inches in diameter at their base.

Unfortunately this species cannot stand low temperatures, and the specimen in Arcadia has frequently been damaged by cold.

A Good Business.

It'd like to own a street car line,
It ought to pay.
The people ride when it is fine,
To heat a day.
Of course they ride when it is wet,
For then they wish
To quickly under shelter get;
Man is no fish.

And so a street car line, you see,
May business find,
No matter what conditions be
With human kind.
Then to another point is my
Attention drawn;
No other business profits by
Its hangers on.

With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is like important to present the subject ruthfully and to supply the one perfect axative to those desiring it.

TO PUSH IRRIGATION

Ballinger Will Adopt New Plans for Oregon.

$2,500,000 READY FOR STATE

Malheur Scheme Will Be Dropped Unless People Line Up—Many Other Good Schemes.

Washington, Nov. 6.—As soon as Director F. H. Newell and Chief Engineer A. P. Davis, of the reclamation service, return to Washington with the senate irrigation committee, Secretary Ballinger will discuss with them ways and means of giving to Oregon the full benefits to which it is entitled under the national reclamation act. That one or more new projects shall be undertaken is virtually promised by the secretary, the number depending upon the cost and upon the possibilities that are open.

Oregon is, or soon will be, $2,500,000 behind its rightful apportionment from the reclamation fund. The largest contributor, save one, to the fund, much less money has thus far been expended on work in Oregon than in states and territories that have contributed but sparingly. This condition is deplored by Mr. Ballinger, and it is his purpose to make restitution as quickly as funds available will permit, provided suitable projects can be found and developed.

At this time it is impossible to say where the government will build. Quite a few possible projects have been examined and reported on by the engineers of the reclamation service, their findings having appeared in the annual reports of the director. From among the number it is anticipated that some suitable scheme can be selected and placed under contract within a reasonable time.

BIG COLLEGE FOR PORTLAND.

Reed Institute Will Establish School of Arts and Sciences.

Portland, Nov. 6.—After spending more than a year in investigating the scope of the institutions at present located in the Northwest and the general plans and methods adopted by Eastern colleges, the trustees of the Reed Institute have decided to utilize the fund of $2,000,000 at their disposal in the establishment and maintenance of a college of arts and sciences in Portland.

This college, with the endowment at its disposal, it is expected, will be on the same plane as Williams or Amherst or similar standard institutions of higher learning. The Reed bequest left the character of school to be established practically to the discretion of the board of trustees.

In deciding upon the general scope of the Reed institute the trustees have adopted in all respects the recommendations of the general board of education, the institution that has been endowed by John D. Rockefeller with $50,000,000.

The general board of education has taken a marked interest in the Reed institute. It sent its secretary Dr. Wallace Buttrick, to Portland in September to make a thorough investigation of existing educational advantages in this territory before recommendations were made.

JOHN D.'S LEAD FOLLOWED.

Mrs. Sage and Carnegie Offer Millions to Fight Disease.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Following the donation of $1,000,000 by John D. Rockefeller to be used in fighting the hookworm disease in the south, the officials of the treasury and public health and marine hospital service have received information that two other $1,000,000 donations will be forthcoming very soon. One is from Mrs. Russell Sage, to be used in extending work for the eradication of tuberculosis; the other from Andrew Carnegie for fighting pellagra, the mysterious disease that has baffled scientists.

The understanding is that these sums will be placed at the disposal of the same general authorities associated with the public health and marine hospital service. The latter would not give a positive confirmation of the reports, but in other quarters it was learned that there is the best of reason for the expectation that these sums will be given, and that the announcement will come very soon.

Protect Books With Gun.

Kansas City, Nov. 6.—"Use a shotgun to protect your books, Mr. Rich," Thus spoke W. G. Buchanan, attorney for Swift & Co., at today's hearing before the commissioners of Wyandotte county, who were trying to force the large packing house to produce their books for taxation purposes. On the stand yesterday, Mr. Rich, an employe of the Swift company, refused to answer any questions regarding the company's records. F. C. Fennel, general manager for Armour & Co., knew almost as little about the Armour plant as Mr. Rich knew about the Swift plant.

Hawaii Wants to Be Wet.

Honolulu, Nov. 6.—Both houses of the territorial legislature adopted today unanimously in the senate, with only two opponents in the house, a joint resolution voicing an earnest protest against the attempt of F. J. Woolley, a local attorney, and others to secure a federal enactment extending prohibition to the Hawaiian islands. Woolley and his associates, it is reported, have been carrying on a campaign to this end at Washington and in other mainland cities for some time.

River District Infected.

Says Facts Will Not Lie.

Sir Henry Hawkins, a brilliant advocate and one of England's greatest criminal judges, expresses the following opinion in his recently published "Reminiscences":

"Let me say a word about circumstantial evidence. Some writers have spoken of it as a kind of 'dangerous innovation' in our criminal procedure. It is almost the only evidence that is obtainable in all great crimes, and it is the best and most reliable. I have witnessed many great trials for murder, but do not remember one where there was an eyewitness to the deed. How is it possible, then, to bring home the charge to the culprit unless you rely on circumstantial evidence?"

Circumstantial evidence is the evidence of circumstances—facts that speak for themselves and that can not be contradicted.

Circumstances have no motive to deceive, while human testimony is too often the product of every kind of motive."

His Reproof.

Somewhere in the pages of her pleasant "Book of Joys" Mrs. Lucy Fitch Perkins tells a delightful story of her New England clerical great grandfather, who was a man of ingenuity and resources. She says:

He employed more than one device to secure wakefulness on the part of his weary congregation. Standing during the prayer was but one of many My grandmother used to tell us with pride of an instance which occurred at a time when a new church edifice had been proposed, and was under warm discussion. Great-grandfather thought this a worldly and unnescessary expense, and emphasized his opinion by pausing in the midst of his sermon on a Sunday, saying impressively as he fixed the somnolent members of his congregation with a stern look:

"You are talking about building a new church: it seems to me quite unnecessary, since the sleepers in the old one are all sound!"

Construction of Language.

An absurdly worded statement of a fact which was not in itself remarkable recently tried the gravity of the listeners. It was on the occasion of the funeral of an elderly woman in a New England town. She had left an old mother, nearly 90 years of age, and an only son who was well on toward 50.

The services were conducted by a timid young clergyman, recently settled over the parish. After praying for many and various things, he said:

"And two, we especially pray that the Lord will comfort and sustain in their loss and sorrow. One is the orphan, who, although no longer young, is an orphan still, and must so continue; the other is the mother, far advanced in years, who has survived her daughter, although considerably her senior."

Lidless.

The little boy who had stuck his head out of the car window to address a question to the man on the station platform drew it in again.

"Mamma," he said, "that man out there says this place is Wydopen. Isn't that a funny name for a town?"
