Plenty to Do.

"You would seem to be doing a good business," said the meter reader to the druggist.

"It's unusually good tonight," replied the cheerful druggist. "I've had seven patrons who asked to see the city directory, five who used the telephone, eleven who bought postage stamps and one who wanted me to remove his porous plaster. It's a rush of business like this that makes a druggist wish he had been brought up a motorman or a truck driver."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Sublime Ports.

The phrase "the sublime porte" arises from an aspect of the sultan's capital. The French words "sublime porte" are derived from "porta sublimis," meaning "the lofty gate." Constantinople city used to have twelve gates, and near one was a building with an imposing gateway called Bab-i-Humajun. In this building resided the grand vizier, and there also were the offices of the chief ministers, whence all the edicts of state were issued. The French phrase was adopted because at the time French was the language of European diplomacy.

A Quick Wink.

The closing of the eye, the rest and the opening of it have been measured and are found to consume three hundred and ninety-five one-thousandths of a second. This is a quick wink, and winks have been measured that required forty-one thousandths of a second more time. For these measurements especially arranged photographic apparatus is required, and then when a bit of white paper is placed on the eyelid its motions can be accurately determined. In a quick wink the closing of the eye has been found to require seventy-five one-thousandths of a second, the rest twice as long and the opening one hundred and seventy-one one-thousandths of a second.
