Taft's scepter is a whip instead of a stick, but it has a pretty neat lash.

David Lloyd-George.

The champion of the British budget, which has made history for English politics, is not a man to lose his head or his heart in fortune or misfortune. He came originally from an obscure Welsh village and should his projects receive a damaging black eye would be ready, like Henry Ward Beecher when warned that a certain course would ruin his prospects, to "go back to the woods." Aside from his feverish Celtic temper, the principal asset of Lloyd-George in his present warfare for the people is a silvery tongue. He has no personal presence, but his audience forgets that the moment he opens his mouth.

Already David Lloyd-George at the age of forty-seven has been thought of as a coming Gladstone. His convictions and the principles through which he hopes to work them out are much the same as those of the "great commoner" at the height of his career. Like Gladstone, he is solemnly as well as fearlessly in earnest, and being right has done more for his advancement than being brilliant.

Light of Truth.
"The late Henry C. Lea of Philadelphia," said a Boston publisher, "was the world's foremost authority on the Spanish Inquisition. To this subject he devoted his life."

"Mr. Lea was a realist. He sought only the truth. He threw romantic lights over nothing. He believed that the truth gave the best effects of all. "Once, to illustrate the striking effect that the truth gave, he said that Byron—though it is not generally known—put a second inclosure in the envelope to his wife containing the beautiful lines:

"Fare thee well! And if for ever,
Still forever fare thee well!"

"The second inclosure was a butcher's bill, on which in his fine hand the poet had scrawled:

"Please look over this, as I don't believe we had so much meat in the time stated."

Saving the Situation.
Dr. Hillary Little Laycock of Wheeling at the recent diocesan convention in New York said of a certain resolution:

"It was perhaps unintelligible, like the Wheeling man's prayer. "This man, praying in meeting for a brother who lay very ill, cried:

"Oh, Lord, restore unto us our brother if it doth not interfere with thy perquisites."

"The situation was saved by a deacon who shouted:

"Hallelujah! The Lord knows what he means."

Alfred Austin, English poet laureate, stands up bravely for the English house of lords, but as long as he doesn't write a poem about it the outside public has no disposition to complain.

If all of Dr. Lowell's time is taken up with Mars canals he should set his understudy at the job of keeping tabs on the Panama ditch.

"The home as a social unit is going out of our life," says Dr. Gulliver. Don't theorize, doctor, but go to the homes and find out.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invariably bring relief to women suffering from chronic constipation, headache, biliousness, dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia. Sold by all druggists.

The Indian is to have a colossal and lofty statue after all, and after all it may transpire that Lo was the real discoverer of America.

Though Shackleton goes after the south pole in band wagon style, the faker may already be fitting out a secret expedition.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all druggists.

One Successful Case.

"Doctor, you're not so foolish as to think you can make people good by performing operations on them, are you?"

"That depends upon what you call making people good. You can check their disposition to commit crime."

"As for example?"

"Well, I once knew a man who was cured by a simple operation of a tendency to rob banks and hold up railway trains."

"Did you perform it, doctor?"

"No; I was merely called on to verify the result after the operation was over."

"Well, who did perform it?"

"A frontier sheriff."—Washington Star.

Don't Break Down.

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de Sande, of Kirkland, Bt., writes: "That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c. at all druggists.

The Wicked Earl.

Lord Wilton was known to the country people as "the wicked earl." "One Sunday Lady Wilton and I," says the author of a volume of recollections, "went to church unaccompanied by Lord Wilton, who, whatever his failings might be, was usually most strict in his religious observances. I saw the clerk look at us as we entered the church, and he evidently noticed Lord Wilton's absence, but I was not prepared for what followed. The vicar duly commenced, 'When the wicked'—But he was stopped by the clerk, who turned to him and, looking across at Lord Wilton's vacant seat, said in a loud voice, 'Please, sir, his lordship's not come yet!'"

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. All that is needed to afford relief is the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. Give it a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the quick relief which it affords. Sold by all druggists.

The Way It Is.

I said to my friend, "Tell me my faults and I will know you are my friend." And he told me my faults, and I spurned him, for I thought him a fool.

I said to a second friend, "Tell me my faults frankly." And he said I had no faults, and I spurned him, for I knew he was a fool.

I said to my third friend, "Tell me all my faults." And he told me my faults, and I thanked him. And he spurned me, for he knew I was a hypocrite.—Cleveland Leader.

A Man of Iron Nerve.

Indomitable will and tremendous energy are never found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring,

Mark Twain's best friend in his Nevada days was another young journalist called Dan de Quille. One day Mark and he had been for a walk from Gold Hill down to Virginia City. All of a sudden Mark said, "S'long," with a wave of his hand and started to leave his friend.

"Where ye goin', Sam?" asked Dan. "Waal," replied Mark in his famous drawl, "I guess I'll take a run down to Beersheba. That's the correct place to go when you leave, Dan."—Cleveland Leader.

The Way He Got the Answer.
Railway porters in the town of Crewe seem to have a curious habit of answering the question you do not ask them. The experience of a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian is a case in point. At the station entrance he asked, "When is the next train to Manchester?" The reply was, "Platform 5." He went to platform 5 and repeated his question, and the answer was, "Other end of the platform." Yet again he asked, "When is the next train to Manchester?" and got "First train after the next on this side." In desperation he altered the form of the question to, "Where shall I get the Manchester train?" And then he got the reply he had wanted all the time—"Six twenty-five, sir."

It Saved His Leg.
"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swensen, of Watertown, Wis. "Ten years of eczema, that 15 doctors could not cure, had at last laid me up. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it, sound and well." Infallible for skin eruptions, eczema, salt rheum, boils, fever sores, burns, scalds, cuts and piles. 25c at all druggists.

Wily Talleyrand.
Louis XVIII, complimenting Talleyrand one day upon his abilities, asked him how he had contrived first to overturn the directory and finally Bonaparte. The wily diplomat replied, with charming simplicity: "Really, sire, I have had nothing to do with this. There is something inexplicable about me which brings ill luck on the governments that neglect me."

Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickling in your throat? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise mucus in the morning? Do you want relief? If so, take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you will be pleased. Sold by all druggists.
