THE "WIN ONE" CLASS.

The young people's organized class of the Presbyterian church spent an enjoyable evening Thursday at the home of their teacher, A. J. Boehmer, the occasion being one of the regular monthly business meetings. The young people are enthusiastic over the organized movement in Sunday school work and are making this enthusiasm felt throughout the Sunday school. This "One by One" (Won by One) method has resulted in a large increase in the young people's department, seven new members being admitted to full membership at the last meeting.

After the adjournment of the business session the young people spent an hour of frolic in games, music and the best event of all, the delicious refreshments, served by the hostess, Mrs. Boehmer, and her daughter. The guests present were: Misses Bula Forsyth, Joyce Craig, Katherine Kay, Venus Thomas, Alta Davis, Florence Shinn, Etta Miller, Angelina Sasser, Vina Weaver, Alice Mayor, Amy Olmsted; Mesdames Reta Wagner and Bernice Forsythe; Messrs. Howard Wagner, Leo Forsythe, Harry Thomas, Fred Holmes, Archie Miller, Rev. Harris, President Asa Craig, Bryam Mayfield, Charles Boehmer and Charles Crow.

ANOTHER "ANNIHILATION" IN NATIONAL GAME

Wednesday night witnessed another game between two Twilight League teams. This time the irresistible aggregation known as the Brooklyn Neversweats met the immovable aggregation known as the Hillside Diggers. The score resulted in a tie of 6 to 6—which is equivalent to the complete annihilation both of the irresistables and the immovables. Further battles will be held as rapidly as new recruits can be found and pressed into service.

ARTESIAN WATER AT NORTH POWDER STRUCK

Just what Neal will engage with here in the future has not been announced yet. Leonard remains in the livery and the new firm will be styled Baker & Smith.

The Coffee Cup in Persia.

The expression "to give a cup of coffee" has in Persia a somewhat ominous significance. This is due to the fact that the coffee cup is one recognized medium for conveying poison. Some years ago the governor of Aspadana, having long been at daggers drawn with the chief of a powerful mountain tribe, determined in this way to put an end to all trouble. He professed to entertain a great degree of friendship and esteem for the chieftain and invited him to visit him at his palace. The chief unsuspectingly came, accompanied by his two young sons. For a week they were royally entertained. But at last one morning when the chief came into his host's presence he was coldly received, and an attendant soon stepped forward with a single cup of coffee in his hand, which he offered to the guest. The latter could not fail to understand that he was doomed. Preferring, however, steel to poison, he declined the cup and was thereupon, at a signal from his host, stabbed to death.

Salad of the Shoes.

Freshmen have troubles the world over. The "conscripts," as they are called at the famous Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, are subjected to an amusing initiation called the salad of shoes. The freshmen report some days before the upper class men so that they can receive their uniforms and become familiar with the routine of the school. The first morning after their tormentors return the freshmen are aroused by a demand that they throw their shoes out of the windows into the courtyard. The shoes are gathered into a heap, and kneeling in a big circle around this, the freshmen are obliged to go through some ridiculous gymnastic movements at the command of their superiors. When the study bell rings they have but a minute to appear in the class rooms, and it is a strenuous minute around that pile of shoes.

Tennyson Disturbed.

This story is told in Robert H. Sherard's book "My Friends the French." "A granddaughter of Wordsworth, being full of admiration for the young poet who was to succeed her grandfather in laureate honors, was once taken to see Mr. Tennyson by Mrs. Taylor, the wife of another poet of some distinction. Tennyson received them very badly, showing great irritation at being disturbed, and when Mrs. Taylor rallied him on his manner he said: 'Madam, I am a poor man, and as I can't afford to buy the Times I hire it from the stationer's. He charges me a penny for it, which entitles me to keep it for an hour. Why will people always select just that hour to come and call upon me?' After which he flung out of the room, leaving Mrs. Tennyson to apologize for his 'housquerie.'

Currency in China.

Writing from the interior of China, a traveler says: "Currency is primitive to a degree. Lump silver only is used and copper 'cash.' Coined money is not current. Even in Honan city, which is distant only two days by rail from Peking, lump silver, the same cumbersome currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed. It is cut into small pieces by hammer and chisel. Every town and village has its own weights and scales, and there is no pretense at uniformity."

The Man and the Parrot.

Exasperated Purchaser—Didn't you guarantee that this parrot would repeat every word he heard?
Bird Dealer—Certainly I did.
"But he doesn't repeat a single word."
"He repeats every word he hears, but he never hears any. He is as deaf as a post."
