SATURDAY JULY 4, 1914

It is certainly going to be pretty hard on us rich fellows if the $1500 exemption proposition passes.

The Independence Monitor is a progressive paper—not of the "Bull Moose" species, perhaps, but in general business methods. Mrs. Nina B. Ecker, late of the Estacada Progress is now associate editor and will doubtless improve a really good paper. The management also threatens to put in one of the latest model typesetting machines.

The argument offered by the anti-prohibitionists that the brewers of the country will boycott the hop-growers of Oregon should the state go dry is wholly untenable and unworthy of any consideration by the hopgrowers. We are not offering any argument for or against the proposition, but were this the only argument in favor of their cause we certainly would think that it was a very weak one. The brewers are not sentimental over a proposition of dollars and cents. With them, it is hops, hops wherever they may be, and the only way to do is to let the hops be.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SEASONABLE PUDDINGS.

PUDDINGS to suit all tastes are represented below. They are compounded with fruits and nuts and range from the comparatively simple everyday pudding to the elaborate kind for special occasions. They are suitable for dinner or luncheon.

Pineapple and Tapioca Pudding.—Take one-half cupful tapioca; wash and put in double boiler, with a scant quart cold water and a pinch of salt. Cook until as clear as starch. Stir often to prevent lumping. Remove from the fire, put into the dish in which you intend to serve it, add one-half cupful sugar and a can of shredded pineapple. When cold whip cream and spread on top.

Nut and Fruit Dessert.

Walnut and Banana Pudding.—Shell and peel three ounces walnuts; cut them into fine shreds. Peel also three to four ripe bananas and rub them through a fine sieve. Chop finely four ounces of beef suet free from skin. Put this into a mixing basin and add four ounces breadcrumbs, two ounces moist sugar, a pinch of salt, the juice and finely grated rind of half a lemon. Stir all well together and lastly mix with the walnuts and banana pulp; then stir in two well beaten eggs. Have ready a well buttered pudding mold, sprinkle the inside with finely crushed dried macaroons and breadcrumbs and fill up with the above preparation. Stand the mold in a pan containing a little hot water and bake the pudding in a moderately heated oven.

A Steamed Pudding.

Banana and Rhubarb Pudding.—Cream in a basin two ounces of butter with two ounces of powdered sugar; then spread the inside of a pudding dish or mold thickly with it. Now make a suet paste with half a pound of flour, quarter of a pound of finely chopped beef suet, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of baking powder and sufficient cold water to make a stiff crust. Roll the paste out and line the prepared pudding dish, keeping a piece of paste to cover it. Fill the mold with bananas peeled and cut into slices; also with rhubarb cleaned and cut into inch lengths. Add about two tablespoonfuls of moist sugar and half a teaspoonful of ground ginger. Moistening with about half a cupful of water. Wet the edges of the paste and lay on the lid, pressing the ends firmly together. Tie a piece of greased white paper on a wetted pudding cloth on the top; then steam the pudding for two hours or bake in the oven for one and three-quarter hours. Turn out and serve hot.

A CHILD'S LOVE.

YOU send me your love in a letter; I send you my love in a song. Ah, child, your gift is the better, Mine does you but wrong!

Nor fame, were the best less brittle; No praise, were it wide as earth, Is worth so much as a little Child's love may be worth.

WE see the children above us As they might angels above. Come back to us, child, if you love us, And bring us your love. —Swainburne.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS, D.D.

THE IDOL OF FASHION.

Texts. "The daughters of Zion are haughty, walk with stretched necks, wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go, chains, bracelets, bonnets, headbands, wimples and crimping pins."—Isa. iii, 16-24. "Whoso adorneth let it not be outward."—1 Pet. iii, 3-4.

The abridged first text is a Jerusalem fashion plate. It takes us back 2,500 years and sets us down in an ancient city. It is the height of the season on their Fifth avenue. The procession of men and women is moving up and down the gay street. Sensible men and women move along modestly and attract no special attention. But here come the fashionable daughters of Jerusalem. See! That is a princess. Look! That is a swordmaker's wife from Damascus. And that is the daughter of a Syrian purple merchant. The jingle of chains, flutter of ribbons, glare of Jewels, catch the eye of the prophet Isaiah. He brings his camera to bear and takes the picture for all ages. But where is that scene? Vanished! Where are those gay streets? Where are the heads, necks, shoulders, the feet that displayed all that magnificence? Ashes! But the problem of 2,500 years ago is with us today and always will be. From the day Eve discovered she lacked covering to her body till now dress has been one of woman's largest problems. Walk back of two women. You will find them talking about dress or men; two men will be talking of money or women.

"The Age of Smut?"

There is a great hue and cry just now as to the immodesty of woman's dress. She is accused of dressing to show as much of her person and as suggestively as possible. But, after all, doesn't custom determine largely what is proper and improper in such matters? The Turkish woman outrages decency if she exposes her face to the public eye. We see nothing immodest in that. Indeed, isn't a street veil at night considered questionable? Our grandmothers would have been quite bold to show tip of slipper. Sensible women now wear short skirts, and no one perceives anything more vulgar than sight of hand or foot. In Switzerland a knee dress is modest. At bathing beach no one glances a second time at skirt two inches above the knee. In city street such abbreviated costume would require the traffic squad. Time was when actress in tights was considered truly shocking; now it is part of the spectacle not causing a second thought. The African lady in her scant attire is as modestly dressed as this season's debutante, each judged by the standard of her set. The gray hawk sees the chicken far off. Brieux, Shaw and Gorky lectures on eugenics and sex problems draw large audiences of flushed faced women in dimly lighted halls. The cure is fresh air. Let the Parisian man dressmaker invent low necked waists, tight split skirts and cobwebby stockings for the few. The great mass of our American women are the brainiest, prettiest and cleanest minded women on earth. My lady of the paint pot with her enameled face is the exception and will probably marry a young man who will have no occasion to rebuke her for ever wearing a ginghnam apron and dust cap.

Living Up to Good Clothes.

Freaks of fashion break out suddenly and flash across continents like fire in dried prairie grass and as suddenly die out. There's nothing wrong in dressing well. The feminine instinct will ornament the plainest clothes. It wouldn't surprise me to learn that Eve embroidered fig leaves. There's a moral tonic in good clothes. Folks grow in self respect as they dress well. They feel approval of their fellows, in turn try to measure up to that good opinion, finally measuring nearer their possibilities—not that clean collars and cuffs mean clean morals, or we would substitute laundries for lectures, soap-suds for salvation, but there's something in living up to one's appearance. There's a relation between character and costume. When a man commences to slip his clothing frequently shows it. To break a woman's spirit lock her wardrobe. A shabby man or woman loses self respect. It's extravagance that causes fraud, poverty and prostitution.

Easter Garments or Gospel?

I am sufficiently old fashioned to draw the line at church display. When thought of clothes takes place of thought of God worship is injured. We are far enough from Easter to sound a note in minor key. I read the ads. "Easter Millinery," "Gowns For Easter," "Get Into the Easter Procession." I protest. It's a sacrilege. Fourth of July is a fireworks display and beer picnic, Memorial day sports and speeding, Christmas giving a travesty, Easter Sunday a desecration. The resurrection is forgotten save for operatic singing and a short sermon. The audience is an Austerlitz of dressmakers' creations; the aisles are columns of colors; hundreds of broken and contrite hearts crowned by rainbows of impossible hats; followers of the Nazarene are a-jingle and a-flash. Ten cents for missions, $10 for a hat; headgear more important than soul garment. The poor are afraid to come in plain clothes. Purse pride prevents piety. Heaven is for the humble. If tight shoes keep from the paths of righteousness, better go back to sandals. If silk sunshade shuts out sun of righteousness, better go back to ginghnam sunbonnet of our grandmothers. Easter millinery makes poor sails for the harbor of heaven.

Olcott yesterday the completed petitions for the Oregon dry constitutional amendment which is to be submitted to the people in the November election. There were 1036 petitions and 35,032 signers, representing every county in the state. This is said to be a record for the number of signers on an initiative petition.—Tuesday's Observer.

Good Suggestion to Falls City People

It is surprising the amount of old, foul matter the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as adler-i-ka, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowel so thoroughly that ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Falls City agents for Adler-i-ka. M. L. Thompson, Druggist.
