SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1915

Holding vast tracts of land in an uncultivated state for speculative purposes robs the country of citizens and its just revenues.

So long as the working people send men to congress who are tied up with powerful corporations, just so long may they expect to get the worst of the deal.

The question of, what shall be done with the youthful criminals, is a serious question. Sending them to the reform school rarely if ever reforms. Too often their education in crime goes on and they are turned out into the world ready to engage in any kind of crime.

W. S. U'Ren has framed another bill to be presented to the voters next fall, making all land bear its share of the taxes. It might be interesting to the small land owner who is paying a high rate of tax on his little home, to keep his ear to the ground and discover, "from whence all this noise" in opposition.

The newspapers in this part of state are publishing the statement that Rev. Joseph Hoberg of McMinnville was able to wield a hoe on his 87th birthday. This leads up to the thought that it might not be a bad idea if some of the more youthful, and, perhaps dyspeptic, pastor could be induced to fondle the hoe at stated periods.

Irving Mathews is very much put out by the action of the city in condemning for street purposes his property along the foot bridge across the Luckiamute. He submitted an article for publication, but after deliberation we decided that the publication of the article would not advance the best interests of either Mr. Mathews or the city. It is to be regretted that Mr. Mathews has become embittered against the city. There is small satisfaction in nursing real or imaginary wrongs.

NOVELIST DRIVES AMBULANCE

Henry Sydnor Harrison Learned French and Motoring in Two Months.

Paris.—Henry Sydnor Harrison, the American novelist, has begun his duties as an automobile ambulance driver for the American hospital. His work for the time being will be the transportation of wounded soldiers within Paris, but he hopes to be sent to the front soon.

Mr. Harrison went to London from New York two months ago determined to get into the war in some way. He had an insufficient knowledge of French, so he started a cramming course in that language. At the same time he attended a school for motorcar drivers. Six hours daily were spent learning French from a Belgian refugee and as many more at a school for motorists.

Then Mr. Harrison came to Paris to put the finishing touches on his necessary education and finally received his much desired diploma.

Mr. Harrison is the author of "Queed," "V. V.'s Eyes" and "Angela's Business," just published. He has also written numerous short stories which have appeared in the periodicals. He was born in Sewanee, Tenn., in 1880.

DUBLIN LAD, TEN, WOULD BE A COWBOY

Writes to Secretary Garrison Asking For a Place.

Washington.—Secretary of War Garrison is willing and anxious to do a good turn for an ambitious Irish boy in Dublin, who wants to be a cowboy. But the secretary hails from New Jersey and knows neither cowboys nor ranch owners. He would like to receive an offer from any ranchman who is ready to transform this Irish boy into a cowpuncher.

These offers when received at the war department will be forwarded to the Dublin lad in response to a letter sent by him to Mr. Garrison as follows:

Dear Sir—I would be very thankful if you would try and get me into the cowboy ranch. I would like to be a cowboy and I would be very glad if you would do your best and get me into the cowboy ranch. I am a boy of ten years of age. I am five foot, and I would make a fine man, and I would do my best and work hard at the cattle and drive them wherever you want them. I would like to be a cowboy rancher. I am very fond of cowboys. That is why I would like to be one.

Mr. Garrison was puzzled to understand why the boy had written, but is ready to aid him in his ambition. The boy gave his name and address, but these were withheld by the secretary when he made public the letter. It was informally suggested that if the letter were referred to Colonel Roosevelt the latter would find the ranchman.

IRA C. MEHLING, P. M.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars from F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.
