Mrs. Adelia D. Wade of Los Angeles is a visitor in Falls City. Mrs. Wade was formerly well known in Oregon for her work along all lines of interest to women; a pioneer club woman, she organized many of the older clubs in Oregon into the State Federation, having been for some years the Oregon State Secretary of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs. Mrs. Wade was an active worker in The Political Equality League during the California Campaign for Suffrage, and has sent to Oregon to assist the women of this State in their campaign, working with the Club women. Mrs. Wade is in Falls City in the interest of the Women of Woodcraft, which, she says, is also a work for women and children and the home.

THE YOUNG MAN AND THE MAIDEN

Consider the young man. He goeth forth in the Morning and bloweth himself to Glad Raiment.

And the Pants thereof are two cubits from the Ground.

He wrappeth his ankles in sox that are white as the Lilly and as near Silk as the Bazaar will sell for one quarter of a Shekel.

Behold the Shirt. It hath cuffs that are Soft and Turneth Back.

And his Necktie Shrieketh like unto a 42-centimeter Shell.

And his gloves are of the Skin of the Chamouis. Yellow are the Gloves and the Stitching thereof is black. And he is Some Kid.

He weareth a lid of Fuzz and the Bow thereof is cute and followeth on behind.

Yea, he looketh like one thousand shekels, but alas, all is not as it seemeth.

For, behold, he meeteth at the apothecarys a Maiden with Eyes like the Gazelle and with Lashes of Mid-night. And the Maiden pretendeth that she hath but even now asked the Clerk of the Fountain to mix her a nut sundae. But she will suffer the young man to blow her off to one.

And behold, when the Sundaes are gone the Way of all Things, the Young Man tippeth the clerk a Wink and passeth out gaily with the Maiden.

And the Clerk is on. He knoweth that the Young Man is broke.

And will the Young Man slip the Clerk the Twenty Pence? Yea, Even so, as soon as his father's Pension Check arriveth.

Consider the Maiden, Lo, though the winds blow and chillesh, she weareth upon her feet Sandals that are low and Hose that are Silk.

And the neck of her gown existeth not. Yet she sweareth that she is as Warm as Toast.

She goeth forth into the Highways and she carrieth a Party Box.

And therein are many things where with to Kalsomine her Countenance.

Puffs there are and the skin of the Chamouis and many pigments, white as the Lilies of Hebron and red as the Evening Skies over Jordan.

She Maketh up where she listeth and careth not who observeth.

And though her lips become as Pomegranates, yet she denieth that there is any color in the stuff.

With gaze of reproof she telleth thee that it is as camphor ice and that it thinketh not.

And, Behold! She putteth it over upon thee.

She goeth forth at night and she Tangoeth until the Dawn is on the Mountains and the Morning Breeze stirs the cedars, and she is not a bit tired.

But when her mother beggeth her to go up into the market place for a cubit of calico, Lo! She withereth upon the vine.

Wondrous are the ways of a Maiden.—Ex.
