It begins to look like there would be a water famine if care is not taken to stop all leaks and waste of water. Last week people on the hill were unable to get water as the pressure was so low that it would not rise to that height. There certainly must be some great waste of water as it is very early in the season for it to be low in the reservoir from natural causes or normal use. Parts of town would be at the mercy of a fire should one break out.
