

HOLT SCHOOLED IN BOMB MAKING

Practiced Work of Destruction
In Bungalow on Long Island.

HEALTH POOR, HIS EXCUSE.

Man Who Shot Morgan and Then Ended Life Practiced Target Shooting. Acid Eaten Lead Pencils Used to Stir Deadly Mixture—Match Heads Used in Capitol Bomb.

New York.—Positive evidence showing that Frank Holt, who shot J. Pierpont Morgan and then ended his life in the Mineola (N. Y.) jail, had a secret storehouse for his explosives and that he experimented there with bombs and also practiced revolver shooting was discovered on Long Island.

A little bungalow on the outskirts of Central Park, a secluded hamlet six miles from Syosset and about twelve miles from Glen Cove, is where Holt, under the pseudonym of Totten, conducted his experiments. He left there on the morning of Friday, July 2.

HOLT AND MR. MORGAN.

That night the capitol in Washington was dynamited, and the next morning the financier was attacked.

Chief Constable McCahill of Glen Cove, who had been scouring Long Island ever since Mr. Morgan was shot, heard that there had been a lot of gossip about Central Park concerning a strange man who had rented a tiny bungalow which stands in a thick clump of pine trees on the outskirts of the hamlet.

McCahill learned this man, tall, smooth shaven and with a receding chin, alighted from a train at Central Park and approached Richard Russell, a resident of the place. He asked if Russell could tell him where he could find Louis Ott, a real estate man of the village. Ott was not about at the time, so the stranger, who volunteered to Russell that his name was Hendricks and that he was an invalid, strolled about the village until the real estate man returned. To Ott he said:

"I am in very poor health, and my doctor has ordered me to a quiet place in the country. I would like a little cottage of some sort where I could have absolute rest and do some literary work. Who owns that small bungalow down there in the pines?"

Ott told him that a Mr. Arnold of Brooklyn owned the place and would rent it. So the stranger, now giving his name as Totten, engaged the bungalow for two weeks. He had with him a suit case the day he talked to Ott.

The few people who live thereabout naturally were interested in the newcomer. They noticed that each day he would start out, carrying his suit case in a way that indicated it was empty. He would return with the bag seemingly weighted down.

The banging of a revolver attracted the neighbors' attention, too, and they saw "Totten" firing at a target, which he placed at various distances ranging from ten feet to 100 yards.

When Constable McCahill heard this story from Ott he and Constable John Thompson of Oyster Bay drove over to Central Park and examined the place.

Their first glance at the interior was sufficient to show them that the place had been used as a bomb factory or at least as an experimental laboratory for the making of bombs. About the floors were scattered thousands of match sticks from which the heads had been cut. There were also dozens of full boxes of matches in a complete condition. It will be remembered that in his first confession Holt explained that he used match heads in making the capitol bomb.

Then, too, the constables found several acid eaten lead pencils, apparently used to stir a mixture of some sort of acid, and a tablecloth in which several great holes had been eaten by acid.

HINDENBURG'S NEW CARPET.

Turkish Admirers Give Him One With Map of Prussia Woven Into It.

New York.—A translation issued by the German information service concerns the presentation of a remarkable carpet to Field Marshal von Hindenburg. It reads:

"The city of Konla, in Asia Minor, recently presented Field Marshal von Hindenburg with a magnificent carpet. On it is woven an exact map of East Prussia, the seat of the field marshal's great victory. In the left corner of the carpet, surrounded by a laurel wreath, is a portrait of Hindenburg, and below an inscription in German and Turkish containing the words: 'To his Excellency General Field Marshal Paul von Benckendorff and von Hindenburg, to express thanks for the great victorious battles at the Masurian lakes, presented by the inhabitants of Konla, in Asia Minor.'"

HAVE YOU AMERICANITIS?

Overwork and Overeating Cause It. Baseball or Golf May Cure It.

Chicago.—Americanitis, a mental affection caused by too much work, too much food and too little exercise, is responsible for 80 per cent of all diseases in this country "which cannot be classified as either surgical or infectious."

So announced Dr. William S. Sadler, a nerve specialist, in an address to the Chicago Underwriters' association. But the gradual cure is easy.

"A game of baseball, a round of golf or a long walk in the country will do more to cure Americanitis than all the medicines the doctors can hand out," said Dr. Sadler.

He prophesied that soon a sickly man would not be able to borrow money nor get commercial credit, for banks and business houses will keep as close track of the physical condition of borrowers and time customers as they do now of their clients' financial standing.

DOG SAVES THIRTY-EIGHT.

German Captain Spares Boats For Englishman's Bravery.

London.—How the rescue of a dog touched the heart of a German submarine commander has been revealed by the National Canine Defense league. The league has decided to award Captain Robinson a silver medal for brave conduct in saving his wife's dog.

Robinson was in charge of a British vessel, which, ignoring the signal to take to the boats, was shelled and chased by a German submarine. The steering gear was destroyed and the ship compelled to stop. The captain gave Betty, a Pomeranian, to the second officer to put into a boat, but in passing the dog down one of the crew dropped her into the water.

When Robinson entered the boat Betty could be seen swimming toward the submarine. Without hesitation the captain jumped into the water and swam about a quarter mile, caught the dog and put her on his shoulder. As the submarine had drawn up to him, the captain laid hold of her in order to recover his breath. The German commander said, in imperfect English, "I made up my mind to blow up your boats because you did not stop your ship, but will not for your saving the little dog."

Consequently, thirty-eight lives were saved through the rescue of the dog.

TREND OF OCEAN CURRENTS.

Japanese Government Has Thrown 2,000 Bottles Overboard.

Seattle, Wash.—In an effort to determine the flow of currents in the Pacific ocean the Japanese government has thrown 2,000 bottles overboard in a large area south and east of Japan. The first was dropped on May 30 and the last on June 30.

Each bottle contained a request in eleven languages that it be returned to the Imperial Fisheries institute at Tokyo with exact information as to the time and place it is picked up.

According to local mariners, many of these bottles will get into Puget sound and some into the gulf of Lower California. In recent years large quantities of wood, both trees and lumber, from Japan, Siberia and the Philippines have been picked up on Puget sound shores. It is believed by many seafaring men that the current from off the Japan and China coast returns to the orient after a great circuit through the Pacific as far south as the Hawaiian group.

A substantial reward is offered to the finder of each bottle.

Heart Disease Almost Fatal to Young Girl

"My daughter, when thirteen years old, was stricken with heart trouble. She was so bad we had to place her bed near a window so she could get her breath. One doctor said, 'Poor child, she is likely to fall dead any time.' A friend told me Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy had cured her father, so I tried it, and she began to improve. She took a great many bottles, but she is spared to me today, a fat, rosy checked girl. No one can imagine the confidence I have in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy." A. R. CANON, Worth, Mo.

The unbounded confidence Mr. Canon has in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is shared by thousands of others who know its value from experience. Many heart disorders yield to treatment, if the treatment is right. If you are bothered with short breath, fainting spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pains about the heart and shoulder blades, palpitation, weak and hungry spells, you should begin using Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy at once. Profit by the experience of others while you may.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.
