SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1915

"Prosperity has really arrived," says the Dallas Itemizer, and then qualifies the statement, "True, it has not struck the Pacific coast with an overwhelming wave yet, but it's coming sure as fate." People generally believe that in the dim, hazy future, that Christ will come and dwell on earth and all will be at peace, yet, like the Itemizer's Prosperity wave, it has not struck this mundane sphere to any appreciable extent, but, "it's sure comin'."

NEUTRALITY VIOLATED

Some of the local beaux appear to be peeved over alleged violation of "neutrality laws" by some of the Dallas Lotharios who have, it is alleged, been poaching within the "three-mile limit" of the aforesaid peeved ones. It is said that the Dallas contingent sailed under false colors, and had better been attending their own firesides. If another breach occurs it is predicted that torpedoes will be used.

REPLIES IN TRIPLICATE

Germany, in reply to the American Note justifies her acts saying that in view of the inhumanity of England in trying to starve non-combatants of Germany we been forced to engage in a submarine warfare in self-defense.

England pleads that their blockade and detaining American ships and obstructing American commerce justifiable on account of alleged atrocities by German troops in Belgium.

Mexico very suavely informs Uncle Samuel that if he doesn't like their ways to "Go to Hell."

Surely the President has sat on the "Fly Paper." Should he undertake to force Germany to comply he must insist that England also observe the rules. He does not want to fight Mexico, neither is it desirable to retire to the overcrowded district referred to.

A PROPHET WITHOUT HONOR

Ex-Senator George Turner, of Seattle, Washington, scattered a few phony pearls of wisdom recently, while on a visit to the National Capital. He prophesied a billion-bushel wheat crop and two dollars a bushel for wheat this year if the war in Europe continues. "If the war continues" said Mr. Turner, "I believe the country will demand the re-election of the President; if it should end this fall, the prosperity that is at hand will insure Democratic victory next year beyond a doubt." Apparently there is no escape.

Having honestly ascribed the present and future prosperity-spots to the war and the bumper wheat crop, he back-tracks, and adds: "There is not much doing in the lumber line, due to the war." The ex-senator plays both ends against the middle. Up to date every rainbow of promise painted for the purpose of dispelling the blue gloom of the administration has been the work of some impressionistic artist who sports the black eye of defeat. Impressionism was once defined by a celebrated painter to be "painting things that ain't." The definition is applicable in this instance.

A JOLLY CROWD

For the past week a jolly crowd of girls from Independence and vicinity have been camping in the suburbs of this city. They came out for pleasure and they undoubtedly got what they came after. We do not wish to flatter them, but will say that they were a comely lot and there undoubtedly was more than one sorrowful looking swain when they left for home. But, cheer up, perhaps they may come again. The following is a list of the names: Dorothy Childs, Gladys Childs, Helen Gillispie, Genevieve Gillispie, Alta Gillispie, Beth Ketcham, Queen Dickenson, Mabel Raud, Beatrice Thurston, Bessie Swope, all of Independence; Catherine Smith of Portland and Audry Shupe of Kansas City, Kas., Kate Murphy of Suver, Ore. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Kate Walker of Independence and Mrs. Florence Murphy of Suver.

According to the Dallas papers the victims of the Recall are considering the propriety of invoking the aid of the grand jury in the defense of their official reputation. A statement in the Itemizer from C. R. Canfield, one of the prime movers in the recall, does not indicate that he is much "skeered" of the grand jury. As we are not furnishing munitions of war nor shipping contraband to either party we strictly "neutral" and free to "harpoon" either side as we deem proper.

COUNCIL MEETING

The city council met Tuesday night in regular session with R. M. Wonderly chairman, Auditor McPherran, councilmen Titus, Singleton, Gottfried present. The usual business was transacted, but nothing new brought up. It was deemed best to lay the extension of the water system over until next year. The city attorney said that it was impossible to make heads or tails out of the records in regard to the old street assessment and that he would take a new tack in the matter that he thought would bring things to a focus.
