ONE ON WALTER L. JUNIOR

A good story is told on Walter L. Tooze, Jr. of Dallas. Tooze is the legal adviser for the city council in this city. The first Monday night in each month is the regular meeting night and the city attorney is required to be present. January was a long month, having five Mondays, the fifth being on the last day of the month. Since the roads have been impassible for autos, it has been his custom to get a rig from the livery stable and drive to Falls City. Monday evening, January 31, as the shades of night were settling over the little village of Dallas, Walter trips blithely to the livery, orders out his chariot and heads his prancing steed toward the beautiful city by the Falls. The crunching of the snow beneath iron hoofs is music to his soul and ere he is aware the brightly shining electric lights of the city bursts in view. Suddenly as one roused from a deep sleep he seem to remember. Pulling his steed on its haunches it dawns upon him that it is January 31st instead of February 1st. Slowly and sadly he turned about and wended his way homeward humming a tune strangely like, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

THE JOKER

Institute

The Institute held here last Saturday Feb. 5, was not only well attended by the teachers from over the country but by a great number of town people.

The program was opened in the morning by the High School Orchestra.

Miss Alice McIntosh from the Normal was to be the first speaker but was unable to come. Dr. DeBusk gave a very interesting talk on Child Development.

Lota Bradley, Gladys and Jessie Paul rendered a piano trio which well received by all.

The afternoon program was also opened by the High School Orchestra. Prof. J. B. Horner of the O. A. C. gave a lively and interesting talk on "History of Oregon," this was followed by a song by the High School Male Quartette which was very nicely rendered. The last but by far not the least speaker was Assistant State Superintendent F. K. Wells his subject was the advancement of schools.

The Orchestra ended the well spent day with some more of its melodious melodies which sent every body away with a song in their hearts.

The meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association at the High School building on Tuesday evening was well attended. After a short but pleasing program, there was a discussion of questions of general interest. Plans for the Reading Room were reported as being carried out so that we may soon look for the beginning of a library in our city. Arrangements also were made to secure Lamar Tooze to tell of his trip to Europe as a member of the Peace party. After the meeting, those present visited the Domestic Science room where a delicious lunch was served by Miss Shields and several of the ladies. These meetings are bringing parents and teachers in closer contact and opening a way to solve some of the problems of the young people. Come to the next meeting.

Last Saturday evening Professor J. B. Horner delivered his famous illustrated lecture on "From Jerusalem to Jericho." Notwithstanding the rainy weather, the High School rooms in which the lecture was given, were crowded with people and many were unable to receive chairs. The High School Orchestra formed a very important part of the program. Mr. Horner gave one of the most interesting lectures of its kind ever delivered in Falls City. The lecture was not only enjoyed by older people, but by the boys and girls as well. At the conclusion of the lecture, the High School male quartette, disguised as coons favored us with two selections which were agreeably received.

The Biology class finished their semester's work Friday. The finishing touch was an essay consisting of at least 1000 words on the comparison of plants and animals.

AND STILL THEY COME

The action of the school board in Portland in forcing the resignation of Prof. J. Willis Jefferies, instructor in English in Franklin High School, has brot both praise and censure upon that body. The alleged offences were that he had told his class that the word "damn" was not profanity, and that text books in English were useless. As a substitute for the latter he reads about good English composition to the class. Professor J. W. Jefferies admits that these accusations are true, but affirms that he is sincere in what he advocates. Public attention is drawn to the case, consequently, because the methods as well the man are on trial, and as to the attitude of our educators on the subject much depends.

The more radical of the prominent pedagogues have contended for some time that the strict adherence to textbooks was undesirable, but the total abandonment of them is radical in the extreme. Professor Jefferies intimated in a letter to the public that his enemies motives were actuated by people interested in the sale of schoolbooks. He further states that a few years will see the total overthrow of the present books of instruction and that the methods now condemned will be regarded as essential. To the ordinary American it would appear that the professor's actions are radical to say the least, but underneath this stratum of extreme views he presents some undeniable truths. He affirms that technical English is by no means essential but in place regards a usable knowledge of the mother tongue as an end towards which every teacher should strive. Let's hand it to the Prof. on this point if not on the others.

"MAN FROM BORNEO"

The performance of the "Man from Borneo" presented at Wagner's Hall Saturday last was attended by a well pleased audience. In spite of the fact that the weather was exceptionally bad there was a large attendance.

The characters were exceptionally well selected. The entire performance was very entertaining and reflects great credit upon the whole cast. Miss Vola Selig as Ollie and George March as Borneo were exceptionally good. Harry Taylor took the part of Fred with his usual fine display of dramatic talent. Mrs. Blanche March and Lester Bowman, as Lizzie and Capt. Wright, respectively deserve great credit for the active manner in which they portrayed their difficult parts. Otto Elkins as Peter and Chris Horn as the Wild Man received much applause and laughter due to their splendid comedy work.

As a whole the performance was really far superior to the average amateur production.

The dance after the show was well attended and from all reports all who attended were more than pleased and satisfied.

Clarence Powell of Oregon City who was here last week looking after his tie contract, left last Saturday for his home, having turned the tie contract over to Wm. Estelle.
