Relief Fund Is Used For 'Pills' Women Angry

Kansas Clubwomen Say Belgian
Money Should Be Devoted to Women and Children.

Topeka, Kas., May 13.—Prominent Kansas club women who have subscribed thousands of dollars to the Belgian relief fund, are up in arms at alleged flagrant misuse of the funds. According to prominent club leaders here, the money was expended in buying cigarettes for Belgian soldiers.

In view of the fact that thousands of Belgian women and children are sorely in need of food and clothing and that cigarette smoking is against the law in Kansas, the women cannot reconcile the idea of their money being spent on "coffin nails."

A strongly worded protest will be sent to the Belgian Relief commission officials, they declare, and a promise will be exacted that future moneys be expended for other necessities than tobacco or cigarettes.

A MAN'S MAN.

The finest example of faith in leadership which has been exhibited to this country since the Civil War is contained in the news that Theodore Roosevelt, without the blare of a trumpet or the boom of a drum, has an army of 200,000 men, the flower of the country, at his beck and call, eager and willing to take the measure of the Huns on the battleground of Europe. That is better than the entire administration with its flamboyant posters, spread eagle oratory, appeals to patriotism, bands, banners and bravos has been able to accomplish since the troops were sent to the Mexican border. And the reason for it is plain: Roosevelt follows speech with immediate action. He says what he means, and means what he says. He goes not around but over obstacles. He is a man's man. It is a judgment on the country for its action last November that we have not more such men as Theodore Roosevelt to handle a situation the gravity of which we are only beginning to appreciate.

REAL REASON FOR DELAY.

There has been much criticism of the delay in Congress in bringing the war legislation to a conclusion. Especially has this criticism been directed against the committee on conference which dealt with the conscription bill; and its members have been accused of hampering the President in his plans for the war. This is unjust. The committee has had no means of knowing what the President's plans for the war may be. He did not tell the committee, he did not tell Congress, he did not tell the country. He kept his own counsel and expected everyone else to do as he bade them. He cannot justly complain if Congressmen have not moved as he would have them. In fact, if he finds Congress slow-motioned, he should know the reason. It is because there is no recognized channel through which the opinions of the President and the deliberations of Congress can be co-ordinated and made effective. Such a channel would be offered by the joint committee on the conduct of the war which the Weeks-Madden resolution calls for. The President has shown reluctance to have such a committee named and he has thus far been able to restrain Congress from creating such a committee. He now finds that it is easier to influence Congress not to do something—such is the force of inertia, political as well as physical—than it is to influence Congress to do something. If he would only help procure the joint committee he would find, somewhat paradoxically, that he would be able to have many things done easily that now advance with great difficulty.

WARNING TO "DISLOYALS."

If you are not in "tune" with the war policy of the government and an ardent admirer of Woodrow you had best "Hang your harp on a willow tree," lest dire disaster befall you. The following is vouched for by the Oregonian:

San Antonio, Tex., May 13.—Frederick T. Reidt, for 30 years a member of the United States Army and honorably discharged with the rank of sergeant, Friday was sentenced to two years in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth after conviction by a military court martial of having made statements disloyal to the country and derogatory to President Wilson.

Reidt's previous discharge was ordered canceled and he was declared dishonorably discharged and his monthly pension of $50 was declared forfeited.

There has been a stampede to the Officers training camps.

Prosperity:—Wages $2.50 per day and flour $3.90 per sack.

The Russian people are wanting to know what the war is about.

This would be an excellent time to abolish booze and food speculators. The world would be better off without either.

Japan declared war against Germany, yet she has never sent any men to France to fight in the trenches. Why does not England call on her to supply men?

Notwithstanding the great crisis this country is facing, an important Cabinet meeting was called off that the wedding of McAdoe's daughter to Ferdinand Mehrenschildt a Russian, might be celebrated.

The fellow who has been tickling himself under the chin with the idea that the rich man will pay for this war begins to realize that, while the rich man may furnish the cash, that the man who "eats bread by the sweat of his face" is the one who will have to pay.

When it comes to putting the food speculator out of business Congress begins to wobble. They are in favor of probes. There is no need of probes or investigations. Its a remedy that is needed. Congress might better get busy and stop it before an outraged people do it for them.

The San Francisco Examiner has this to say of the food situation:—"Unless Congress immediately authorizes the president to appoint a food controller, and unless the nation is immediately put upon rigid food rations, as severe as those of Germany, we will just barely scrape through the coming winter and spring, and the Allies will be starved into submission to Germany before next Christmas, whether the submarine menace is destroyed or not."

Under the guise of "Preparedness" there will be a strenuous effort made to import cheap labor during the war. "During the war only" is the plaint, but get the Chinese and Japs here it will take a war to get rid of them.

The United States will loan to new Russian government $100,000,000. It probably might occur to a careful business man to examine the security. It might be that Russia of today might not be the Russia of tomorrow. Another disruption would place their credit on a parity with that of the Southern Confederacy.

It certainly is an injustice to restrain Col. Roosevelt and his followers from going to France and forcing others to go who do not want to. People will begin to suspicion that politics has much to do with this restraint if he is not permitted to go. The "big guns" in the army will oppose him through fear that he will overshadow them.

In asking Congress for a declaration of war against Germany on April 2, President Wilson said:—"We have no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquest, no domination. We seek no indemnities for ourselves, no material compensation for the sacrifice we shall freely make." But is this the spirit of the nations to which we have allied ourselves; and will we sit calmly by and see these nations crush Prussianism only that they may add to their own power? President Wilson also says that "Peace cannot be had without concession and sacrifice."

Are the allies willing to make such sacrifices as would bring about a lasting peace; peace that could be accepted by any nation without humiliation, leaving no sting of resentment? In speaking of "Peace without victory" President says that "Victory would mean peace forced upon the loser, a victor's terms forced upon the vanquished that would and could not last." Are the terms proposed by the Allies such terms as the United States would accept under like circumstances? Let the United States insist that the Allies proffer such terms as would be honorable and fair before she gives her support and binds herself to stay to the bitter end. The United States cannot afford to be a party to any war of conquest.

MUST REGISTER.

Every man between the ages of 21 and 30 years, inclusive, must register on the day soon to be proclaimed by President Wilson for the war census.

There will be no exceptions to this rule. Even if a man belongs to one of the exempt classes, he nevertheless must register if he is between 21 and 30 years of age. The Government will determine who is to be exempt after its records are complete.

The man who tries to evade the provision will face a term in jail without the option of paying a fine. In almost every case throughout the State the census will be taken in the regular polling places used on election days.

EQUIVALENT OF TREASON

Senator Chamberlain will present to the senate a memorial signed by numerous state officials, supreme court judges and citizens of Salem, condemning the advance in prices as the "equivalent of treason" and urging congressional action to relieve a "menacing situation."
