Incle Sam's Agencies Are Working to Extend Sanitary Regulations of Cities of Rural Communities.

The most important element in the education of children is the establishing of good health and right living habits, according to those experts of Uncle Sam's bureau of education who make this their life problem. Half a century ago the attention of those responsible for the care of children in city schools was drawn to these im- sold everything but my shoats and work, and much has been done, say the if the government refuses to allow experts, in the last two decades for wheat to be fed to hogs I will sell the improvement of the sanitary fea- them and quit the hog business. tures of school houses and grounds and are being urged to raise more hogs or school regimen in cities.

Many had faulty ilumination of the classrooms and still others were without adequate classcom equipment; some were improperly heated and poorly ventilated and still others presented evidences of inefficient janitor's service.

The large number of children presenting physical defects of such gravity as to demand specialized medical and surgical attention, say the experts, is an evidence of the need of medical supervision of the school children of the counties in the interests of the child's educational advancement and for the protection of the community

The undue number of mentally defective and retarded school children revealed by the study made emphasizes the necessity, say the experts, of the mental classification of the children for the purpose of revealing those who are n need of institutional or individualzed treatment

Whitman County Man Thinks He Will Have to Quit Business.

Colfax, Wash. - If the reported edict of the food administration that no wheat be fed to hoge is carried out it will permanently cripple the hog industry of this section, according to the belief of Daniel Kinsinger of Whitman county, who has 300 hogs on his ranch south of Colfax. Mr. Kinsinger is the most extensive hog grower in this county and has raised as many of 1000 in a season. He sold more than $7000 worth of fat hogs this fall and has 300 head left on his big ranch. Mr. Kinsinger said:

If we wish to keep our kidneys in the best condition a diet of milk and vegetables, with only little meat once a day, is the most suitable. Drink plenty of pure water, take Anuric three times a day for a month.
