Just as certain as you live there will come a day when you wlll remember your unfilial attitude toward your dad and be sorry for it, but then it will be too late; father may then be sleeping in his grave, and you will have a life-long regret, and the keenest remorse you may ever know will probably be the memory of the ill treatment or lack of respect for your father. member that you often showed your mother the affection you felt for her, but denied it to your father. Remember that your mother's ways are not your father's ways. Your father has had to fight the world for your bread and butter, and the world has taught him to conceal his feelings. He loves you just as much as your mother does, only he does no show it in the same manner, yet under his vest he yearns for your filial smile, and when you do anything for which you should

Of course you think father is not in every respect up to date, and is unnecessarily firm and arbitrary. All that may be true, but the chances are father knows more about the world at large than you do say at 30 years, a fact you will realize later on. Even if you live a long time in this world, my boy, you will always be obliged to admit that the safest and sanest adviser you ever had was your father.

Honor the man you favor, and remember that to have succees in this life you must cultivate good behavior, for manners and politeness will take you farther on in life than your money. To have the good will of everybody you must be kind to all.

The Cosmopolitan Magazme occupies a position distinctly its own. While giving great attention to fiction and entertainment—fifty short stories and one or more complete noves appear in its pages each year—it has a definite plan beyond. It may be likened to a great modern university, with a million and a half student-readers. A year's course embraces what is most interesting in Invention and Discovery, what is most interesting in Invention and Discovery, what is most entertaining in Trayel and adventure, what is most valuable in the World of Business. A portion of each number is edited with reference to the Woman of the World, another to the Woman of the Home, and another to interest Youth, and still another for the Man of Affairs, covering equally the clerk just starting in lite and the captain of industry.

esting short stories in every number, continued stories, beautiful pictures in colors, and articles by such famous writers as Ida M. Tarbell, Lincoln Steffens, Ray Staneard Baker, John La Farge, William Allen White and Charles Wagner. Get all of it right into your home by taking advantage of this
