Caves of Eastern Oregon Will Be Explored.

W. S. Mayberry, of Milton, who is now principal of the public school at Antelope, Wasco county, expects to visit the caves of Crook county, Oregon, this summer on an exploring trip. Mr. Mayberry spent two years in that portion of the state some years ago, and while there visited the lava beds and caves on the Des Chutes river and will return to more fully examine this wonderful region which has been explored but superficially.

At places in the lava formation on the Des Chutes holes are found which lead to subterranean caverns of unknown depth and in many places water can be heard running underneath the floors of the caverns on a still lower chamber. The caves vary in height and width. In some places it is necessary to crawl through the small opening between the dark chambers, and on other places the caves widen out into spacious rooms, filled to overflowing with bats and reptiles.

It is said that one of these underground chambers has been explored for a distance of over a mile without evidence of a termination of its wonderful suites of subterranean rooms. The formation is lava and the caves open into side chambers and smaller rooms innumerable. At places openings are found reaching out to the surface at varying depths and the entire country is underlain with a system of these lava caves.

The principal opening by which the caves are entered is at a place on the Des Chutes river, where a round hole has been formed in the surface of the ground, by a section of the earth's crust about 30 feet in diameter sinking to a depth of 30 feet forming a circular hole 30 feet across and 30 feet deep, from which the cave opens and by which exploring parties enter.

Mr. Mayberry will take a companion with him and make a complete exploration of the caves of this spring if possible. It is thought that a wonderful system of underground caverns may be discovered adding a new and thrilling attraction to Oregon's thousand wonders. —Plandealer.

Exposition Notes.

Work has been begun on New York's $15,000 state pavilion at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

June 14 will be the Daughters of the American Revolution and American Flag Day at the Lewis and Clark exposition.

The American Library Association will meet in national convention at the exposition from July 2 to July 7.

Frank Vincent Dumond, the famous artist and proprietor of the Lyme school, has been appointed chief of the Art Department of the exposition.

President Roosevelt has heartily approved the plans for a conference on the relation of the United States to the Orient, which is to be held next summer at the exposition.

The exhibit from the state of Wyoming, which will be made at the exposition, will show the wonderful results obtained by irrigation in the task of redeeming the arid lands of the West.

The convention of the National Woman's Suffrage Association will be held this year at the Lewis and Clark exposition, the sessions being from June 29 to July 5.

A Congressional party of ten Senators and fifteen Representatives will visit the Lewis and Clark exposition and take part in the ceremonies on the opening day, June 1. The expenses of the trip are provided for by an appropriation of $10,000.

August 1st has been decided upon as Kentucky day at the Lewis and Clark exposition. August 1st was the birthday of Captain William Clark who shared with Captain Lewis the dangers and privations of the Lewis and Clark expedition. Captain Clark was for 20 years a resident of Oregon.

Three papers of garden seeds for 10 cents at Knowlton's.

Army at the Lewis and Clark Fair.

Portland, March 19.—The war department exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Centennial, which will be one of the most complete and interesting displays at the fair, will explain the functions of the various branches of the national military service. All types of modern war weapons, from the big coast defense and field guns to the rapid-fire guns and army rifles, will be shown. Especially interesting will be the collection of guns from the Springfield armory, showing the stages of development of the army rifle from the queer iron tube of past centuries, fired by means of a match, to the latest type of magazine rifle.

A very comprehensive exhibit will be made by the army engineer corps, showing the means that are adopted for deepening and maintaining channels in the important waterways of the United States. The most elaborate model will be that of New York harbor, which will show how the channels are maintained at depths sufficient to accommodate the greatest vessels known to modern commerce.

The other branches of the service, the quartermaster's department, the signal corps, and the artillery corps, will all be represented in a creditable and interesting manner. The exhibit from the quartermaster's department will include a complete set of lay figures, showing the various uniforms worn by officers and men in the United States Army.

The California Ruins.

The ruins of the early Spanish missions in California are the subject of an interesting article in the New Idea Woman's Magazine for April. The writer seems to have been impressed by the picturesqueness of the work of the intrepid fathers, who were in reality very wonderful both as pioneers and educators, and in a marvelously short time attained results by their beneficent methods with the native Indians that under other conditions have taken centuries to accomplish, if they can yet be said to be accomplished. In regard to the erection of the mission buildings, the writer says that "the problems of modern architects sink into insignificance beside them. Brick had to be made, stone quarried and dressed, and huge timbers for rafters hewn in the mountain forests and carried on the shoulders of men, sometimes twenty and thirty miles." Such was the history of these splendid relics of pioneer days.

The new Postmaster-General George Bruce Cortelyou assumed the duties of his office Tuesday. Sixteen years ago Mr. Cortelyou entered one of the Government Departments after the same struggle that attends all the appointments to an office in Washington. He very soon demonstrated his ability though and when President Cleveland made requisition for a private secretary Mr. Cortelyou was recommended to him and after an interview with the President was promptly accepted. Since that time he has forged steadily ahead and in every position has more than justified his appointment. President McKinley said of him that his only thing that stood in the way of his advancement was the difficulty of finding any one to fill the place he would vacate. President Roosevelt, who is nothing if not generous, inconvenienced himself no little to promote Mr. Cortelyou from the private secretaryship to a cabinet office, though as Chairman of National Committee he later made a liberal return for any favors of the President. Now he is Postmaster-General; head of a department that stands more in need of clean and careful management than any other and the country and has confidence that this young man or 42 will administer it economically and progressively. There are more employees in the post office department and the military and naval service combined. It is predicted that the country will soon hear of "something doing" in the post office department.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

California is much concerned to improve athletics in the colleges. The concern in the East is to improve the collegiate course if the students can be persuaded to abandon athletics for a sufficient time.

A message from Alexander Dowie who is in Mexico has been received in Zion City. Evidently money has not flown in from the Mexican converts as fast as was expected.

Dr. Lyman Abbott says wealth is a danger. There is an astonishing number of people not renowned for courage in other affairs who would be willing to face it.

The Illinois legislature which has legislated on every subject known to man, is engaged in considering a bill "to encourage matrimony." Since the incarceration of Johann Hoch statistics in Chicago doubtless show a falling off in the number of marriages.

The trusts are perfectly willing to be regulated if they are allowed to name the regulators.

The United States consumed a billion pounds of coffee last year and to all appearances its nerve has not been affected.

Mrs. Chadwick was overcome at her trial by an attack of nerves showing she is something like other women after all.

China's Dowager Empress has sent her photograph to President Roosevelt. Probably wants to show him that there are other powerful rulers not dowered with the fatal gift of beauty.

If Dr. Osler's rule that men should be colorized at 60 were put into practice what would become of our honorable Senate?

Mr. Rockefeller is going to build a million dollar home in Kansas. It looks as though he might feel something like General Sheridan about Texas. That for peace it would be better to rent his home and live in hell.

The only way in which one can account for the affectionate mood of the House before adjournment when Speaker Cannon was presented with a loving cup and many effusive expressions of the undying love of the members, is by the fact that an all night session had preceded the presentation.

The Seedless Apple.

Washington and Oregon apple growers have snatched the palm from John F. Spencer, of Colorado, who has advertised himself as the inventor of the seedless apple. The honor belongs to J. L. Colburn, of White Salmon, Wash., and Mel Fenwick of Harney county, Oregon.

Mr. Colburn states that he has for a number of years grown an apple on his orchard that is seedless. The tree does not bloom but bears full each year. Last year it grew eight or ten bushels. The apples are of good size and well flavored. The apple grown by Mr. Fenwick is a solid one and has no core. It is large, fine flavored and a good keeper, resembling in color a blue Pearmain.—Capital Journal.

A Chicago Alderman Gives His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council." This remedy is for sale by R. S. Knowlton.
