MYRTLE POINT ITEMS.

Charlie Dye, of South Fork, who is in this week for his regular family supplies, says that a big bear had attacked and cut both of his wrists across so as to disable him for some time. The animal had his teeth promptly knocked and in the course of time we may see pieces of him on the counters. Mr. Dye says he has killed two blue racer snakes and a spreading adder near his place. These reptiles were not believed to exist in this county. We hope Charlie will deal thumpily with all our real enemies that he meets.

Ben Shell, who in his time has had many kinds of scraps with bulls, hogs and other animals and came off victorious, did not fare so well when he fell down some steps or stairs as his shoulder was dislocated though he did not know it. Dr. Clarke told him a month after as it troubled him and "put it in place." Ben is now feeding himself with one hand. (I believe most of us do the same.)

Some people are "wondrous wise" when it comes to knowing where booze is and after emptying the bottles throw them in their neighbor's coal bin. "Yes! In my coal bin!"

Mrs. Alta Abbott, the milliner, went to Bandon this week to enjoy a visit with her sister, Mrs. Randsman. Mrs. Brown cares for the store in her absence.

Inasmuch as we have neither public library nor reading room, we should be interested in Chautauqua and we are.

Mr. Iverson and Ed Olsen came down today with their shipment of spuds.

On account of continued ill health, Prof. Eugene W. Smith, superintendent of our schools, has resigned his position and will return to his home in Pasadena, California. He has been very successful with his work and is loath to leave. He is succeeded by Prof. Victor H. Morris, who has served as principal of our high school.

Prof. Claude Nealer gave a bonfire and lunch at night this week to pupils and parents in the West Myrtle Point school district. The elder students and the professor sang, the old folks looked on and the kiddies did what kiddies do, and all said "wasn't everything nice?" and it was. This function celebrated the passing of students to higher grades.

A lady says a number of our popular Myrtle Point boys took a joy ride to Coquille Sunday and from the way some of them were tanked up on their return one wouldn't think that Oregon is "bone dry."

Mrs. Claude Mullen came down Tuesday for a short visit with her relations, the Weekly families.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dickey, of Lewiston, California, are here looking for a location. They have taken the Tom Guerin cottage until something good is offered.

The Methodist Episcopal church has treated itself to a fine piano.

Dr. Leslie G. Johnson, of Marshfield, was here Wednesday. He lived here once.

There are lots of potatoes in these valleys. The good price brings them in and we ship them out. Every trip of the steamer Nokomis, of the North Fork, brings them; besides they are coming from Middle Fork, South Fork and Catching creek.

Geo. Mullen is another one who says to keep it coming—the Sentinel—as he wants the news as he gets it there.

E. J. Michaels will conduct the Brethern service in Bandon next Sunday and Thomas Barklow at Broadbent.

Elbert Maiden, of McKinley, is down this week and returned with a load. He says he is as good as when we last met him and besides, he is now a "grandpa."

Mrs. Joe Sells, who has been sick for several weeks was brought in yesterday to the Dr. Pemberton rooms for more careful medical attention. Their home is at Eckley.

Roscoe B. Miller, of Arago, a few days ago while splitting wood, got the blade into his head and the blood ran and others ran and got adhesive plaster and drew the cut together and he is now about well.

Harry Fensler says "its true," a little girl. He didn't say how many pounds as many proud parents do, but its a girl. They had a boy already before.

Wirt Whittington was found dead in bed at the Sells ranch near Eckley, where he had gone for a few days to look after the stock. The stock appeared neglected and on entering the house they found the body. It was removed to his father's, W. W. Whittington, on South Fork, where the funeral services were held. He was buried in the local burying ground.

Dr. Pemberton flew down to Arago this week and removed tonsils from a small son of J. D. Carl.

Kay Loop walks with crutches as a result of ligaments torn in his ankle while playing basketball. Kay makes a good play!

W. T. Dement, C. Milton Schultz, E. S. Dement, J. O. Stemmler, Wm. Weekly and Dr. J. L. Mason were elected directors of the Coos and Curry Counties Fair Association at the annual meeting held February 8th. The officers elected at the board meeting held immediately afterward are President—W. T. Dement. Vice President—Dr. J. L. Mason. Secretary—J. O. Stemmler. Treasurer—Don W. Snyder.

They will pay off $750.00 indebtedness and declared for a bigger and better fair this year. In the meeting of the stockholders oratory was developed of no mean order.

George Burr, the carpenter, has sold his property on Sixth street to Postmaster Harry Fensler, who will proceed to build a pretty house on it for a home.

Mr. Horn, who bought the William Border property, the highest elevation in town, has traded it to E. J. Michaels, the second-hand man, for property on upper Spruce street, opposite the Ben McMullen house. He will build himself a home there.

Oscar Reed, who lives a mile or so north of town, came here in 1895. He killed a hog in 1896 that weighed 830 lbs. We didn't expect to hear of a larger. Mr. Reed is with us yet, but is paying more attention to milk.

Alva Lee is another who wants the Sentinel to keep coming. He wants the news as it gives it.

George Adams, of Powers, was here for all the Brown Leghorn chickens he could get as they are the "best breed."

A. H. Meekum, of Bridge, killed a big bear up there. He first caught it in a trap and killed it after that. He brought the skin to town to sell and says it pays him very well.

Lester Mayne returned Sunday after six weeks taking a Farmers' course at Corvallis. He is well pleased with what he acquired and has gone home to his father's ranch on North Fork for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Barklow tell us that the garden seeds planted 10 days ago are showing above the ground. Percy Peal says he has beans on the stove "a cookin'."

Prof. Jones, of Broadbent, was here recently rustling some musical talent to sandwich into a play to be given soon by the teachers and scholars of their school. The Broadbent people are rustlers and do everything from throwing missiles to publicly discussing the questions of the hour.

The P. M. says in answer to our inquiring look Tuesday, "Only two sacks of papers today."

Jesse Clinton, of Norway, brought in twenty boxes of prime, crisp apples last week. He has more of the J. D. Pepp, of Bridge, was in Saturday and took out a load of material for a gymnasium there, which will be 30x60. Bridge is alive.

Roy Garrett is the busiest man we know of in the country. He is renovating his residence inside and out and also his outbuildings, using carpenters, paint and new lumber. Mr. Garrett also makes weekly shipments of stock to Marshfield.

Mrs. Abbott took her son, Gale, to Bandon last week to the Mann and Leep hospital and had tonsils and adenoids removed.

Grandma Miller, mother of Dan and George, died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Axe, on Big creek five miles above Bridge. The funeral will be held at Dora on North Fork where the interment will be made. Rev. Thomas Barklow will conduct the service. Mrs. Mary Miller was born in Tennessee and came here in 1875. Her husband passed away in 1903 at Elk Creek near Dora. She was 84 years old.

The senior Hartley, Mr. William, has kindly taken the two eldest girls of William Norton, of Middle Fork, to give them a home, as he can well do it from his affluence.

Rev. Thos. Barklow has now performed the 258th marriage ceremony here.

Hiram Coates, of Bandon, is here buying potatoes. He takes all that are offered and they are many. The farmers are also careful of their seed spuds.

Tom Summerlin went with his wife and babies to Lakeside to visit relatives.

J. R. Hazleton and son came over with their Ford from Fourmile Tuesday, over roads that others backed off from, and arrived early enough to make the round trip to Broadbent. If conditions are right they will locate here.

Richard Houghton, of Norway, has a "Wade" woodsawing machine. He just leads the thing up to a log in the woods and as it cuts off a section he moves it along another 16 inches and so on. The neighbors are with him. He says, "come and see us."

Mr. and Mrs. Christensen welcome to their home a 9 lb. boy baby. Mr.

Christensen smiling says so and Dr. Clarke certifies to the fact.

Our people, who went to Coquille Wednesday to meet Mr. Scott, Gen. Passenger agent for the Southern Pacific, came home very much pleased with what he told them—that he would take the matter up promptly with his company and he felt assured that the former mail service would be restored in a few weeks, he could not make a flat promise but felt sure that this valley will get what it is asking for. Atty. J. O. Stemmler was our chief representative.

Our live people know that we have a fruit dryer and cannery idle which with the fruit and vegetables there are here and going to waste, should be having their wheels go around.

Miss Vernal Lamb, of Bandon, is now in the employ of the Club Cafe—bringing her Bandon experience as a pleasure of the public here.

Dan Giles and his good wife write from San Francisco that they are well and are enjoying automobiles.

Clifford Pulford, the eldest son of Atty. S. D. Pulford, is still suffering from rheumatism. The little fellow lies in bed and is very emaciated. He is pleased to have those he knows come to see him.

Mr. Wax has returned from the sale he has been conducting for Spencer and Shelley at Powers. It is not yet known what disposition will be made of the remnant of stock after the sale nor who may occupy the brick block here.

W. E. Pike is giving a "blue sky" appearance to the ceiling of his large salesroom. He is his own knight of the blue paint brush.

We learn today that Wirt Whittington met his death by exhaustion from a hunting trip. When separating from his companions three miles from Ball's house, he said, "I'm all in." He was found on the bed partly undressed, wet and muddy, evidently having died while attempting to change his clothes. Rev. Thomas Barklow conducted the funeral at his father's house and burial was made in the family cemetery.
