MYRTLE POINT NEWS

The Uncle Tom below in relation of crops. He is planting strawberry tomatoes.

John Carter, who has been away nine years and returned last week, sees a substantial improvement in the valley. He was here about 30 years ago, but has been recently living in Idaho, where the main business is white beans and "colored" cattle.

Wm. Hartley, Jr., of South Fork, is in this week with a mark in the region of his eyes. He says it was a fish that did it, but whom he didn't know.

A real geyser or gusher broke out on the alley which is being planked for the special benefit of the Sugarloaf creamery. The workmen hit a water pipe and the water gushed above the surrounding buildings. The bell rang and the people saved water while it was being mended.

Dr. Clarke and family will occupy the T. M. Hermann residence on the corner of Maple and Fifth streets, Mr. Hermann moving to the old homestead, the first home of the Hermann family in the country, on South Fork, five miles south of town.

Mrs. Fern Ingalls entertained the members of the W. C. T. U. Tuesday afternoon. Refreshments and a refreshing time is reported.

W. C. Conner, who put the Myrtle Point Enterprise to the front as a desirable newspaper, is into it again, having acquired the Commonwealth and Bulletin, of Harrisburg, and is putting them together under their old names, hyphenated. Willie's paper is always "red."

The little Abbott boy who underwent a serious surgical operation two weeks ago is all right and is in school.

Taylor Johnson who is said to be the best authority on the subject says "it is too early to make garden," so rest awhile.

Mr. Benson informs us that Willie Hendricks, his son-in-law, who is in Mercy hospital at North Bend, is now able to sit up. The splints are off his leg and he will be out in a few days.

Mrs. Lester Harrison will follow her husband and sons to Shasta valley, California, as soon as she can close up their business here.

Mrs. S. H. Whitney gave birth to an 11-pound boy Monday, the 12th. Dr. Clarke was in attendance.

Frank Snyder is the new meat cutter in the City Market. He comes with a good record as man and meat cutter.

Manley and Arthur Arneson have moved from their ranch to the town of Powers.

The man who lives close to me says he killed a hog here that dressed 400 pounds. We believe him—we don't expect to get a bigger one.

John Luttrell, of South Fork, came to town Tuesday favoring one of his legs. He saw a Dr. and now feels better.

Saturday next at Broadbent the very important question will be debated, namely: "Should stock be allowed to run at large." The school will have the affirmative and the farmers the negative.

Dr. Pemberton says that Dan Cribbens and wife had a 10-pound baby boy last Monday.

Will Manity, the Mutual Fire Insurance man, is in our vicinity this week.

Oecil C. Carter wants to see the Sentinel every week. He wants the news as told in the Sentinel.

Back to the soil! Wilbur Barklow and family will joyfully return to their fine ranch shortly.

W. Eugene Smith, late superintendent of our schools, left on Saturday north bound train for his home in Pasadena, California. He went from Marshfield on the steamer Kilburn to San Francisco and from there by rail.

Rouse is in it selling hay. Sold half his stock the first day.

Hon. Binger Hermann will be here the first of next month, Frank informs us.

Jim Haleson is building a big barn on his cattle farm near town on the North Fork.

Traffic compels L. H. Pearce, the garage and repair shop man, to improve the trackway into his building.

Among those who glide about in automobiles none drive more gracefully than Miss Nellie Bell, of South Fork.

Clarence Bonewitz, a boy of about 11 years, was brought in this week with the end of his finger cut off. He did it with his little hatchet.

On Lincoln's birthday "Jim" washed our paved streets—that is he had some men do it with Grover as foreman directing the nozzle, and we feel better.

Attorney J. O. Stammer went over to the Bay on business Monday.

Mrs. Richards, a sister of Dr. Bunch, has arrived from her home in Idaho and after a few days with her brother will go to her father's on the lower river.

The happy face of Miss Lella Miller was welcomed in town Tuesday.

Dr. Clarke wants the Sentinel. He saw a copy and it is the kind he wants. Please put him on the list so he never will be missed.

Adam Gathart, the gentlemanly caterer in the Percy Peel chop house, has accepted a position with Henry Radabaugh as cow milker.

No, hog, bull or snake story has shown up this week, but the snakes will soon crawl. The empty bottles seem to be scarce and we don't know where the full ones (bottles) are.

Bob Clifton, while cleaning up some rubbish left by other people caught his foot under a piece of wire, fast at both ends, throwing him on his knees, a position, he says, he had not been in for some time. His knees were hurt and now he has to stand.

Guy Fish, a homesteader on Catching creek, had an old schoolmate visit him. After a few weeks they went to Bandon to see the ocean for the first time. The friend took passage on the steamer for San Francisco and if he survives the seasickness will take the Yale or Harvard for San Diego. Guy is home now cooking his own grub and mending fence. His address is Myrtle Creek, general delivery.

Last Saturday evening a small party of moonlight serenaders found their way to the home of one of Myrtle Point's popular young ladies and, after singing that sweet old song "Annie Laurie," while quietly taking their departure to the tune of "Good-night Ladies," found themselves headed off by the girls of the house and "run in," where they met a whole company of girls enjoying a gathering without a single representative of the opposite sex. Imagine the sensations experienced by the boys and tenor of that quartette, to find themselves in the midst of so much loveliness. They must have felt something like the young man who went to the party uninvited and said to the hostess, "I wasn't invited but I thought I'd come just to show you I wasn't offended." The girls proceeded to initiate the quartette into the mysteries of a "Girls Party" and both the brave and the fair found themselves equally surprised.

Mrs. Oecil C. Carter gave a Valentine party Wednesday evening to the Sunday school classes her children attend at the M. B. Church. Those present were Harold Duks, Kenneth Peel, Kenneth Carter, Barton Stammer, Clarence Richards, Elton Corbin, Frank Pike, Ellis Shull, Clarence Carter, Marvin Moller, Marguerite Laird, Margaret Corbin, Truth Wood, Ariya Pike, Ardoye Braden, Faye Myers, Ruth Ramsey, Ora Carter and Audrey Lucille Lundy.

Henry Schroeder had a very pleasant surprise on his birthday, Monday, Feb. 12, when friends and relatives gathered to spend the evening. They were Messrs. and Mesdames E. C. Bowers, G. C. Wilson, Wm. L. Berry, Messrs. W. C. Stevens, James Whitaker, Miss Hazel Weekly and Mrs. Bolee Cook, of Eugene, who is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Berry. Mr. Bowers' Hawaiian orchestra furnished music for the evening which terminated with a cafeteria supper. Henry says if he didn't get old so fast he'd like to have this repeated every month.

Harvey Barklow, son of J. D. Barklow, had a sudden attack of heart trouble Tuesday. He lives at Minard's Mills on East Fork. He is in a very low condition, not expected to survive. His father and other relatives are with him. Dr. Clarke was called.

Misses Ora and Naomi Roselle, of Broadbent, are here visiting the Wilbur Barklow family.

Whether Sugarloaf sawmill or Sugarloaf creamery will steam up first is the question. Both managers have the time set and both gangs are working like beavers or other industrious animals but there may be contingencies.

Lawrence Machado is enrolled in the 10th grade of High School.

Many kids with plenty of shoes insist on going barefoot these warm days.

In the basket ball battle between Myrtle Point and Norway Wednesday evening at Norway, Myrtle Point won, though the Nordaks fought like demons.

If F. W. Laird ever did poor work as roadmaster, we don't know it. He has this winter been giving special attention to holes and bridges and lately been safeguarding the sharp turns and narrow places with guards.

Mr. Neuman, of Coquille, was in town Wednesday with his new and latest pattern of Maxwell car. As he drove alongside of one of the first made Maxwells still in service here the great improvement in autos was obvious.

Lewis Ward, who has been getting out matchwood, severely cut his knee this week. The axe was the instrument he used and the cut was an inch and a half long and to the bone. Those with him drew the cut together and secured it with adhesive plaster—and we told him to "be careful."

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Long arrived from Tillamook Wednesday and will make Myrtle Point their home. Mr. Long will be the cheese maker for Mr. Christensen's Sugarloaf creamery. They have taken the Page house on Maple street for their home.

T. M. Hermann, Taylor Johnson and Cal Grant met with Atty. Giles Wednesday and appraised the John Wagner estate.

Good cow butter is mighty scarce and the price mighty high. We can eat peanut butter, but— We saw a sign on the walk before a store yesterday of "Fresh Butter."

Barklay, the husband of the Club Cafe lady, is in the woods cutting firewood for the business. He is saving good money.

Mrs. Ada Mullen, who recently joined her husband in Hilo, Hawaii, writes of that delightful country but would like to see the old North Fork friends. She is a daughter of "Aunt Mary" Culbertson.

Dr. Pemberton went to Powers "professionally" this week.

Frank Langlois has divided his recreation hours between fishing and gardening.

One of Sam Miller's sons, of Norway, accidentally shot himself last Monday. He had been on the river with his gun and as he got out of the boat he drew the gun towards him by the muzzle when it caught on something and discharged, taking a "chunk" out of his arm. A shade closer and he would have lost his arm. Dr. Pemberton was called and is dressing the wound as often as is necessary.

The son of Geo. Robert Parrish was brought in this week and the doctor removed tonsils and adenoids.

The late G. A. Brown, of Powers, bequeathed $10,000 in real estate and personal property to Mrs. Kelly, of Hibbing, Minnesota, and his furnished 6-room residence at Powers, valued at $8,000, to Mrs. Ella Laniger, who had cared for him in his falling health during the past year.
