MYRTLE POINT ITEMS
 E. T. Wesley has sold his carpenter and cabinet shop to George Burr.
 The price of produce is interestingly high now and the farmers who have a stock of both, don't know whether to eat the spuds and sell their beans or sell their beans and eat their spuds.
 Clarence Johnson is in from the North Fork this week.
 Mrs. Brack and her daughter, Mrs. Ira Cornelius, have taken a home in town—on Maple street and this will be their residence for the next several months. Mr. Cornelius is in the Smith-Powers logging camp.
 N. D. Pratt, the furniture man, left today for his old home at Albany, Oregon, to look after his business there. He will return next week.
 James Guerin and family left this week for Cottage Grove for a "change," hoping the children's health will be improved there. They expect to be absent several weeks.
 The Farmers' store, of Bridge, moved into their new store building this week. Mr. Ford is the manager.
 Tom Guerin, proprietor of the Guerin Hotel, and Harry, deputy assessor of the Copuille Valley, brothers, left Wednesday for a few days trip, visiting Albany and other towns.
 The roof of W. T. Dement's big barn at Eckley fell in from weight of snow in the late snowstorm and there were others.
 E. A. Snyder, father of Arthur Snyder, and at present living with him, is suffering severely from an attack of rheumatism. He is a G. A. R. man and came from Missouri.
 A. F. Miller, of Catching, was down this week and laid in a nice lot of good groceries. He is no relation, he says, to any other Miller in this country.
 Alex Hartle is chafing to get back to Alaska, where he lived during the last several years. He has been engaged in railroad building and likes the climate. He expects to leave in a month. The railroad will run from Seward to Fairbanks.
 A nice little party was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Barklow, Tuesday evening. It was enlivened by Bowers' six-piece orchestra.
 Mrs. Jack Mayse, of North Fork, was in town this week visiting her sisters, Mrs. A. A. Baker and Mrs. Cora Barklow.
 Dr. Pemberton weighs them—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lewis, of Norway, a girl, Saturday, 8 pounds, 8 ounces. It has not been given a Norwegian name.
 Mr. and Mrs. Joe Knight, Jr., are the papa and mama of a 9½ pound girl, born Friday night, Dr. Pemberton announces.
 The smile is yet visible on the face of Clarence Schroeder because he says he and his wife had a 10 pound, 8 ounce boy last Sunday night. Dr. Pemberton testifies to the same.
 The Myrtle Point Hardware company has just made for the Lundy Creamery a 7,000 gallon vat for milk and a large receiving tank for Mr. Christensen's creamery in town.
 The coal famine is yet on and wood is wet and scarce.
 Another ceremony which will place two nice people under the bonds of matrimony will be performed here in the very near future.
 Ray Duncan is the happy possessor of a fine Ford machine of which he is a good driver.
 Broadbent has a waiting room and warehouse now. Mr. Powers furnished the lumber and the nearby citizens built the structure.
 Eric Arneson has leased his ranch near town to Walter Miller, late of Oakland, California. The sons will go to Powers and the father will continue to live in one of the houses on the place.
 Attorney Claud Giles returned this week from a trip to outside cities. At San Francisco he met his brother, Clarke Giles, D. D. S., and his father and mother, who were visiting their son. They returned with him after a very enjoyable season. Mr. Giles says business seems to be very good in the metropolitan city.
 Jno. Hayter, captain, in the employ of the North Fork Transportation Co., was kicked by his engine and is now carrying one of his hands.
 Mrs. Alta Abbot had the painful experience of having her fingers caught by a closing door. She, unlike some people, said nothing, but she has in her employ Mrs. Ida Hansen and Mrs. Grover C. Brown.
 Don Ingall, bookkeeper for the Myrtle Point Transportation company, burned his hand and afterward blood poisoning appeared. He asked Dr. Pemberton to knife it and now he sleeps better.
 The reports of the depth of the recent snow are all the way from six to ten inches in our vicinity. In our yard it was eight inches and up in the logging region they measured it by feet, though in Powers there was not much more than here.
 The new creamery, the "Myrtlewood," will be completed this week, the builders say. It is situated at Figg's landing on the west side of Bartle and Wm. Horsfall. Dr. Clarke returned Thursday and reports the operation a successful one and the patient in fine condition.

 I was fearing I wouldn't get one this week, but here is a subscription from Paul W. Adams. He wants the news as told in the Sentinel.
 The firm of Shelley & Spencer are yet with us. After an attempt to reduce stock by special sale and close out the balance in a lump, the buyer failed to come across and so they are still here.
 A man with an automobile said Saturday evening in the Guerin Hotel that he would not drive to Coquille at that hour for $10. Another gentleman said he would walk it for a $10 bill. The first man put up the ten and the party of the second part got his lantern and hiked for the county seat, making the round trip on foot in eight hours, reporting from the Baxter Hotel there. The stakeholder, Mr. Guerin, paid over the eagle to Mr. Miller and Mr. Tracy put on a smile.
 The financial workers of the M. E. church entertained all comers at a progressive supper last Friday night. Those attending, ninety in all, were divided into groups of a dozen each, and under the guidance of a skillful pilot, were conveyed from house to house. The Carters were the first hosts. There the guests found themselves in our own America, the table being decorated with little flags and that typically American dish, oyster soup, proffered for consumption. Leaving Carter's the ship's next stop was Mrs. Schriever's, in the land of Scotland. Here broom and yellow Highland flowers pleased the eye, and an unco guid bowl of porridge and a handful of oatmeal crackers soled the inner man. Crossing from Scotland to the continent, the next port of call was Germany, at Brayden's. Wienerwursts and saurkraut slipped down there, and the roaring strains of German folk songs once or twice shocked the foes of hyphenism.
 Mexico was next visited, it was Davidson's house in disguise as a haunt of Villa. Mexican brown beans and salted wafers left a fine peppery flavor in the guests' throats. Lastly the ship ended its voyage in Japan, at the parsonage, where tea and wafers were consumed in large quantities, while little girls entertained with songs and dances of a Japanese flavor.
 After the main business of the evening was thus finished, some of the guests went to Carter's and some to Davidson's, and stunts, games and music concluded the evening's entertainment.
CAT RODE FLYWHEEL
 Picked Up For Dead, but Recovered in a Short Time.
 Sheboygan, Wis.—Tom, the big pet cat of the woodmen in a mill here, had a most unusual joy ride and escaped with his life, or one of them.
 The big cat attempted to leap through a sixteen foot flywheel while it was making seventy-one revolutions per minute, but was caught in the wheel and held for twenty minutes when the engine was stopped.
 During the ride the cat traveled 68,100 feet, or twelve and three-fourths miles. He was picked up as dead, but one hour later ate a heavy meal.
Family Zoo Routes Police
 Sioux City, Ia.—When a police raiding squad entered the cellar of the M. Urbeck residence here a goat charged viciously and drove the men out in disorder. When they sought to examine a pile of hay in the back yard for hidden liquor an angry bull roared them; then the family watch dog bit a chunk out of a policeman's hand when an attempt was made to arrest Mrs. Urbeck. Reinforcements arriving, the household was finally subdued and the animals were impounded.
AUTO OVERTAKES ANTELOPE
 South Dakotan Chases Animal Six Miles Before Capturing It.
 Slim Butte, S. D.—With a high powered automobile John Rainey of Rapid City ran down and captured a mature antelope alive. The animal was grazing at the roadside when Rainey chanced upon it. Rainey put on the power, and the animal, too frightened to think about leaving the road, sped on for six miles, with the machine in close pursuit.
 Unable longer to endure the fifty miles an hour clip, the antelope sank exhausted in the road. Rainey stepped from the car and bound its legs securely with a rope he had in the machine.
