A party who went to Powers last Saturday and stayed over Sunday walked from there to Camp 7, a distance of five miles. They snowballed each other on the way as there was plenty of snow and they liked it.

Grover Brown is now at Orcutt, California, in the oil region and has a good job, which is what he went for.

Dr. S. C. Endicott, of Bandon, was in town early in the week on business.

Mrs. K. E. Marcy, of McKinsey, came over Saturday to be with her father, Jerry Haines, slowly but patiently "passing."

Bill Osborne, of Powers, is in this week and just for fun is wiping dishes at the Club Cafe.

O. H. Parrish has a big la grippe, so that he has not gripped anything for a week. He is now eating good restaurant grub.

Vernie Lundy has treated himself and wife to a Dodge machine. When they go to Bandon or Shore Acres we'd like to be a passenger.

Leta Clinton, daughter of James Clinton, has left for Portland for an indefinite time.

Ben Shull has had many thrilling experiences during his forty odd years in this valley, but about the most dangerous was the last time he encountered an old hog with tusks five inches long. When the savage animal came on Ben had a three-tined pitch fork and "grounded" the handle and was ready, but the brute knocked aside the fork and then occurred what saved Ben's life. His inseparable companion, a little black dog, hit into the hog's ham deeply and halted him, so we have Mr. Shull with us today.

The auto-truckmobile fire which occurred a couple of weeks ago was started by the careless handling of a lantern and the smoking of a cigar "improperly." The flames rose as high as the men's heads, but by the bravery and thoughtfulness of Don Ingalls and others the fire was put out. This occurred in the warehouse where merchandise is received from both the steamer and the railroad and hundreds of tons are always on hand besides from 30 to 40 tanks of oil and gasoline. Mr. Ingalls got his hand burned severely, blood poison appeared and he went to a physician.

Arthur Cloman was in with a jag of good spuds over and through a very bad road. Potatoes in Myrtle Point taste good though we don't know what they may cost tomorrow.

Schiller B. Hermann, once one of our strongest merchants, but who for several years has made Chicago his headquarters, passed through here last week on his way to the deep timber where he has a large deal under way.

The Sugarloaf sawmill, which is now located in town, will be known as the Whitaker sawmill. Electric power has been added and the mill's capacity is much increased. The motor runs the planer.

Tom Summerlin has returned to the country today. He knows what to do with it—he is a good farmer.

Mrs. Ike Chandler, of Lee, is very ill and under treatment by Dr. O. H. Clarke. He went up Sunday, part way by car and then on horseback.

Rev. Thomas Barklow is somewhat indisposed this week but is yet on his job.

G. W. Starr, formerly station agent here, but now of Powers, was in town over night this week. His son, Louis, is with an express company in Marshfield.

E. A. Seaman and son, Wesley, were over Thursday looking after business. They are officers of the Business Men's Association of Coos and Curry counties.

Dr. Pemberton reports an eight-pound boy in the family of C. M. Genzoli, of Arago, on Mar. 17.

The doctor also visited Arthur Hermann's home near Broadbent as the baby girl was very sick. Mr. Newman's child in the same neighborhood has about recovered from its illness.

K. H. Hansen received word Thursday that an elder brother had passed away at Granfield, Oklahoma. He had been a practicing physician for the last 25 years of his life. He was born in Denmark and was 73 years old.

The nominations at our caucus this week for mayor were W. F. Dement, the present incumbent, and James S.

Whitaker, now serving as councilman. For councilman, J. C. Cutler, F. Lundy, Charles Adams and E. C. Roberts. For recorder our same Allie Dodge and for treasurer our same Jimmy Arrington.

The Broadbent school gave a fine general entertainment—a literary one. Myrtle Point does not often do better. Parties here go up by auto every time a debate or concert is given.

The student body of the Myrtle Point High School presented a fairly extended program last Monday night in the Unique Theatre. The chorus, consisting of all students, sang the opening and closing numbers; the Glee Club, the Girls' Chorus and individual numbers completed the program. The numbers on the program were selected by Mr. C. E. Davidson, who also drilled the chorus, glee clubs, and specialties. He is to be congratulated on having given a very successful musical evening.

Father Sues for $7,500.

Last Tuesday, March 20, Chas. W. Dye, of Myrtle Point, as administrator of the estate of Florence E. Dye Waters, through his attorneys, J. O. Stemmler and C. F. McKnight, filed suit in the Circuit court here against Christian Moller, of Myrtle Point, for $7,500 damages and costs and disbursements, for the death of his daughter, Florence E. Dye Waters. The complaint alleges that on July 9, 1916, "the defendant wrongfully, carelessly, unlawfully and with gross negligence ran his auto onto and upon the deceased, hurling her to the ground with great force and violence," the injuries thus sustained causing her death. It is also alleged that the defendant was driving at a high and unlawful rate of speed and that he was a novice at handling an automobile.

Aged Shoemaker Stricken.

Theodore Neuhaus, the aged shoemaker who conducts a shop on Bandon avenue, suffered a stroke of paralysis about a week ago and is still in a critical condition. The stroke partially paralyzed him and rendered him speechless. He is past 84 years of age, and a native of Germany, being a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-1871.—Bandon World.

Another Plan to Settle.

A new plan for straightening out the Kinney properties is now being considered, according to a story published in the Coos Bay Times the first of the week.

The plan is said to be to float a loan of about $90,000 on the properties as a first mortgage to meet the delinquent taxes and most pressing claims, to take the property out of a receiver's hands and place it in a trusteeship which can convert it into cash.

A tentative offer to furnish the $90,000 has been made, on condition that the parties now holding the first mortgages release their liens, make the new loan the first mortgage and they take the second mortgage for the amount of their present first mortgage. As the money to be raised will go for delinquent taxes and claims that have a priority over the mortgages, the latter would lose nothing, but would eliminate the expenses of the receivership and also expedite the converting or sale of the property.

So far, the matter is entirely tentative, and whether it will be worked out will probably be determined within a few weeks.

The tax foreclosure proceedings are still hanging fire, and it is likely that the new plan will be decided before Judge Shipworth renders final decision on the foreclosure cases.

Would Leave Us Nothing.

Under the head of "Boom for Two," the Bandon World in its last issue says:

"According to men who have made a study of the Coquille valley and northern Curry county section in view of the establishment of milk condensaries, there are two logical points for the location of such institutions—Myrtle Point and Bandon. Myrtle Point could conveniently serve all the dairymen in the country above that place and south as far as Norway, while Bandon could at minimum expense serve all the country south of Norway to Port Orford in Curry county. It is of vital interest to the dairymen to see the factories located favorably, for the greater the success of the plants after they are once in operation, the larger the milk checks are bound to be. No doubt the dairymen would enhance their chances of securing these new industries by contracting with this point in view."

We certainly must admire the nerve with which the Bandon paper overlooks the existence of Coquille, and coolly proceeds to appropriate all of Coquille's dairy section and annex it to Bandon. Something like it did claiming that the deposits of the Bandon banks included practically all the money the dairymen received for cheese in the entire Coquille valley.

For Lime Sulphur Spray.

Lime-sulphur in small quantities for home use may be prepared as follows: Take 30 pounds of the best quality of lime, 60 pounds of finely ground sulphur and enough water to make 35 gallons of the mixture. Put the lime into a cooking-rough, or a 50-gallon barrel or kettle, and start it slaking. While stirring add gradually the sulphur in finely powdered form or as a thick, smooth paste. Bring the mixture to the boiling point and keep it boiling vigorously for 30 or 40 minutes, after which cool quickly. When it has settled draw off the top liquid for stock solution. Before being used the solution should be tested by a Baume scale hydrometer, which can be purchased at drug stores, and diluted to the required strength. Directions for use in combating various plant diseases will be supplied by the Oregon Agricultural College on request.

Sign Woolen Mill Lease.

The lease on the Bandon Woolen Mills to be signed up by Judge J. S. Coker in a few days, according to W. J. Sweet, receiver for the company, who took the matter up with the court. The lease had already been drawn, but necessitated several minor changes, which will, however, not alter the plan. It will be made to read for one year after the sale in connection with the satisfaction of mortgage, which will practically mean at least a year and a half. Between six and seven thousand dollars has been raised by local stock subscription in a company to operate the plant, and as soon as the lease is procured the stockholders will hold a meeting and organize for business.—Bandon World.
