LET US FREE OURSELVES FROM BONDAGE OF FEAR.

Des Moines, Iowa, Capital.
When the patriotic American citizen wakes up in the night with a jump and a shock he is afraid of Germany.

When we are considering the Japanese treaty, which may contain an injustice to our American people, we are afraid of Germany.

When we consider our troubles in Mexico, and what may happen, we are not afraid of Carranza; we are not afraid of the Mexicans; we are afraid of Germany.

When one of the West Indies islands for sale we buy it, not because we want it, but because we are afraid of Germany.

When the Columbian states demand $25,000,000 indemnity for their own action, wherein they fail to hold up the Panama canal, congress is disposed to pay it, knowing it to be unjust; the president recommends its payment, doubtless realizing it is unjust. And we do all this because we are afraid of Germany.

When some upstart in some South American country contemplates defying the United States, or disputing the Monroe doctrine, where does the encouragement come for such a disturbance? It comes from Germany.

Why do we feel uncertain on all our coast lines? Because we are afraid of German submarines.

What incident or circumstance requires us to arm and equip? Why do we propose to have a navy? Why do we talk about a big army? The answer is,—we are afraid of Germany.

The question to decide now is, are we going to be forever afraid of Germany? Are we to be a subject and a vassal to Germany? Are we to be confronted by this specter of a German war? Are we to be prevented from making this great free republic a desirable place in which to live on account of the fear of Germany?

Can we have a bathing place on either one of our oceans, without big mouth cannon resting above us, so long as Germany is a military terror? Can the republic of Washington and Lincoln go forward to its ambitions and hopeful destiny harassed by these constant fears of Germany?

Have we the courage to meet a mean and hateful issue, and fight it to the death?

Have we the courage to emancipate all the avenues of our political life? Have we the courage to tell the German empire to attend to her own business, and also to tell her that the sea is as much ours as it is hers?

The hour has come for the American people to make their decision. Delaying this new American independence will not help matters.

The present crisis is putting our nation to its test. American destiny is in the balance. We must either go forward or be crushed. Are we to be crushed by a foreign power on account of nothing that we have done? Are we to be spat upon and insulted because we have demanded that the useless killing of American women and children on the seas shall be discontinued?

The German people in Germany are all right. They have hearts and homes. They love their families. They would not be engaged in this war except for the long-established leadership of crowned heads.

Russia has gone to pieces, and is a free land. If Germany were put into the same condition there would be peace in the world at once,—a peace that would last a thousand years,—and the American people need not maintain a standing army of over 50,000 men.

When shall we strike? When shall we tell Germany to withdraw her spies? When shall we notify Germany to attend to her own business? When shall we write a new declaration of independence?

Christian Church Notes.

Last Sunday was our banner day for attendance this year. One hundred and eleven with ten regular pupils absent for various reasons.

The school has taken up graded work in all except the adult classes. The Beginners' class has grown so that Miss Neely needed an assistant. Mrs. McClellan is assisting her with her fifteen to twenty little ones.

Mrs. Alexander's class of girls and Mr. Alexander's class of boys have just finished an automobile race to Portland and back. The boys beat the girls back by a few miles, so that the girls are busy preparing a feed and party in their honor.

The Missionary journey which the school is taking with the superintendent as guide is proving very interesting. At present we are in Japan, among the heathen temples.

The Loyal Daughters of Mrs. Aaron Wilson's class were hostesses to the Loyal Workers and a few invited guests last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Wilson. A very enjoyable time is reported by all present.

The school is preparing an Easter program to be given at the close of the Bible school hour. The public is invited to attend.

We regret that Brother Price was compelled to leave us on account of Mrs. Price's health. He takes charge of the church at Pacific Grove, California. The church board is corresponding with several ministers to take his place here.

The officers' and teachers' conference was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Boyrie. A pleasant and profitable evening was spent by those present.

The Christian Endeavorers are working overtime getting ready for the Christian Endeavor convention to be held here the 20th, 21st and 22nd. Harold Humbert, the Christian Endeavor field worker, will be present as well as other outside speakers.

The mid-week prayer meetings have grown greatly in interest and attendance under the leadership of Brother Price. He had started the members on systematic study of the Book of Mathew. The work will be taken up by different members until the arrival of another minister.

For Our Country.

The following telegram has been sent out by Bishop Walter T. Sumner, of the Episcopal diocese of Oregon, to the clergy of the diocese:

"It is my desire that you give every possible assistance to the officers of the state and nation by co-operation with them and the press and by public addresses to stir the citizens of this state to just realization of their responsibility to the nation at this time of crisis, and that each church building be provided with a national flag to stimulate patriotism. Let every clergyman bear himself as one consecrated to God and country."

Bishop of Oregon.

Who Was the Joke On?

A good story is now going the rounds in North Bend says the Coos Bay Times. Dissatisfied with the treatment meted out to him by the County court, a North Bend property owner returned his tax papers to the court, attaching a note in which he wrote: "Why not feed hay to some of your employees or send them to Salem." The tax return happens to cover farm land and agricultural implements and this morning the individual concerned received a letter from the County court, which contained not only his tax return but a tag drawing his attention to the fact that in making up the return he had failed to assess the value of the hay which he had mentioned in a previous letter. The recipient is now endeavoring to ascertain why this joke miscarried.

(From the Coos Bay News.)
The L. G. Barnes circus expects to visit Marshfield on May 7th, bringing 30 cars.

Clarence Gould and family, of Allegany, left Friday for Phoenix, Arizona, where they intend to reside permanently.

Several cases of measles were reported in this vicinity last week. Doctors say that the disease was not in malignant form.

The Willamette Valley Editorial Association decided at a recent meeting at Albany to hold their September meeting at Coos Bay.

At a meeting of the city council last night it was decided to improve Central avenue with hard surface pavement, with the exception of the deep gulch near 13th street, where a trestle will be constructed.

A. G. Raab, formerly superintendent of schools at North Bend, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities total about $15,000, with assets at about $7,500, the latter being involved in litigation.

Fishermen made money last week catching silver smelt, for which they received 5c per pound. The fish were shipped to Eastern markets. Two fishermen on Thursday brought 1600 pounds to the cold storage plant.

G. A. Signales, while engaged in getting out piling on the Isthmus, was stricken with paralysis. He was taken to Mercy hospital and died on Tuesday. Deceased was about 62 years old, and is survived by a wife who resides in Portland.

The Civil Service Commission will hold an examination of applicants for appointment of postmaster at Coos-ton, Coos county, Oregon, and will give due notice at the postoffice of the date when the examination will be held, according to Bulletin No. 1, just received.

A vein of excellent coal has been uncovered in the Odd Fellows cemetery on Isthmus slough. Mat Bowron has been prospecting there recently, and says that a fine vein of coal underlies the 80-acre tract owned by the Odd Fellows Cemetery corporation. He brought some samples to town Friday, which he took from a six-foot vein.

Some people thought we had quite a blow during the storm Friday night, and yet the highest registered by the windgauge at the weather bureau for recording the velocity of the wind was 18 miles an hour, and the velocity during the greater part of the storm was 12 miles. Very exaggerated reports of fierce wind storms have frequently in late years been sent from here in press reports. At exposed points along the coast, such as the mouth of the Columbia river and the headlands at Port Orford, 60-mile, 80-mile and occasionally stronger gales are experienced, but there is a big difference between the winds along the coast and the winds that reach inland.

Going to Quit the Country.

Declaring that he personally would get even with the man who furnished him the booze that he would not "peach" to the police, Orrin Guthrie Tuesday afternoon was tried before Recorder Butler, of Marshfield, on the charge of intoxication.

Guthrie was decidedly talkative. He said that he had just quit a logging camp at Allegany and drawn $70. He came to Marshfield, bought some clothes and was going back to California as he did not like a Bone Dry state as he had always been accustomed to having his liquor and would continue to do so.

Marshal Carter, City Attorney Brand and Recorder Butler all put it up to Guthrie to tell from whom he secured the liquor but he would not. He was highly indignant when Recorder Butler fixed his fine at $15 or seven days in jail. First he declared that he would serve it out, but changed his mind as he neared the jail and paid up.—Times.

Musical Club Meets.

The Musical Club met at Mrs. M. O. Hawkins' Monday afternoon, March 19. The time was devoted to the study of the life and works of the composer, Chopin. The selection by the composer was his Valse, Opus 64, No. 3, played by Florence Johnson. Bach was chosen for the next study. Other members of the club assisting with the program were Merle Landrith, Erma Wilson, Helen Sherwood, Mylo Kettler, Berle Woodruff, Barbara Traichler.

Peirces Lose Their Suit.

The suit of Hon S. P. Peirce and Mrs. Peirce to stop mining on the Sixes river in Curry county because the tailings muddied the water for their stock, was decided against them by Judge Coke at Marshfield yesterday, and mining by the Sixes River company, which had been suspended by injunction, will be at once resumed.

Curry County News.

(From the Gold Beach Reporter.)
About all the wool in the southern end of the county, even that on the sheep's back, has been contracted for, the top price being 46 cents a pound, delivered at Gold Beach or Brookings.

Reports from Eastern states are that there will probably be some systematic effort this year to utilize the digitalis or fox glove on this coast, as the drug is becoming very scarce and expensive.

Our mention last week of the demand for specimens of the Silk Tassel tree or shrub from this vicinity brings out the information from some of our old time settlers that the shrub is plentiful throughout portions of this county, and is called the Cinchona, or quinine tree, and is valuable for use where quinine is required in fever or other sickness.

Over 1,400,000 young salmon are at the Indian creek hatchery, and all doing fine, growing nicely. For some time fish have been caught in the river with which to feed the young fish, and this has developed the fact that Chinook salmon have been in the river for some time, as occasionally one is caught. With about a million and a half young salmon turned loose in the river each year, it would seem that the supply should be reasonably well kept up, even if they are annually caught as plentifully as last year, when over 100,000 were taken for commercial uses.

The German Kaiser.

By V. R. Wilson.

The Kaiser is awlays on the fight. He thinks he owns the earth by right. As a bully he is sure supreme. He sneaks around with his submarine. But if he tackles the U. S. A., We'll make him look like a bale of hay. War it is, if he should begin. We will show his giblets where to "head in."

KERCHIEF CUES.

Points About the Gayety of the New Season's Mouchoir.

The handkerchief today is an altogether conspicuous sort of handkerchief. In blue and pink, maize and violet, brown, tan and green, it peeks forth from pocket or hand bag in utterly unhideable brilliancy of color and strikingness of design.

Rose color, popular in everything, is much used for handkerchief this season. And the rose colored handkerchiefs are indeed lovely. They usually show much white in their makeup. Occasionally, however, one sees a very sheet square of rose colored muslin simply with a rolled, whipped edge. The whipping thread is black, white or rose.

Black is a good deal used in the new handkerchiefs. Some pink and blue handkerchiefs show a deep border trimming of white or black dots in V shaped wedges from the hem.

Colored centers in all the colors mentioned, with wide hems of white, perhaps an inch and a half, are also considered smart.

Linon is by no means the only material used today for the handkerchief. Crepe de chine, different sorts of silk organize and dimity are all used for handkerchiefs.

Of course it is still possible to get all white handkerchiefs. They can be had in all their old daintiness of fabric and design, with dainty embroidered wreaths of owners in the corner or dotting the edge, with monograms and with initials.
