Curry County News.

(From the Gold Beach Reporter.)

The docket for the term of circuit court next week does not call for a long session. There are a few cases that were continued from last court, a few new cases, and seven or eight divorce suits. The jury was not called for this session, so there will be no jury trials. Two or three days at the outside will clean up the business of the session.

The Wedderburn cheese factory began operations Monday, and from now on will receive milk. A meeting of the management with the dairymen was held Saturday and agreement to start at 38 cents a pound for butter fat, the later price to be determined by the market. This year gives promise of much more milk being secured than last, as several of the ranchers have increased their holdings of cows.

The Euchre creek factory started up Monday, as there is already a great deal of milk to be secured and much more in prospect before long.

There is talk of invoking a referendum on the Rogue river fishing bill.

N. F. Woodcock and sons were among the miners on the beach south of town who made good wages during the time they worked. They have taken out 7 or 8 ounces of gold, an ounce of platinum and about $16 worth of osmiridium. The ounce of platinum brought $100, which is a better price than most of the miners hereabouts have been receiving, probably due to the fact that Mr. Woodcock took more care in cleaning it before sending it away. It will be noticed that the sands on this beach carry more gold values by considerable than platinum, while on the Cape Blanco beach, but a few miles distant, it is the opposite, as the miners there take out nearly double the platinum values that they do in gold.

There are said to be about 100,000 ties in the woods adjacent to Port Orford that will be shipped from here this summer. New contracts are being let and more cutters are going into the woods as summer approaches, so that the season's output is sure to be considerably larger than ever before.

Will Bailey, who has been employed at Powers since the first of the year, was in Port Orford over Monday night while enroute to Gold Beach. He says that notwithstanding a late raise of ten per cent in wages the Smith-Powers company could now use about 150 more men than they can get.

Garrison lake broke out into the ocean last Friday and had a big run-out. Several of these have taken place in the past few years, since the old channel around the bluff has been closed. Getting the stagnant water out of the lake and it filling with fresh water has made the fishing better.

Medical Association Meets.

The Coos and Curry Medical Association met yesterday at the office of Dr. A. L. Houseworth, in Marshfield. Dr. Richmond, of Coquille, Dr. Johnson, Dr. Shaw, Dr. Mingus, Dr. Straw and Dr. Houseworth were in attendance. Dr. Richmond read a paper on "Anaemia" and Dr. Mingus one on "Biological Research." The next meeting will be held here in June.

Cows That Never Drink.

The "wild cow" of Arabia, in reality an antelope, the Bactrian ox, is said never to drink, which is probably correct, for unless these animals can descend the wells they can find no drinking water for ten months in the year. There is no surface water, and milk falls but precariously during the winter. Only once during my journey did I find a pool of rainwater, caught in a hollow rock, and even this I should have passed by without knowing of its existence had not my camels sniffed it from a distance and obstinately refused to be turned from going in that direction. These antelope, however, are provided by nature with a curious food supply, especially designed as a thirst quencher. This is a parasite which grows on the roots of the desert bushes and forms a long spadix full of water and juice. The antelope dig deep holes in the sand in order to get at these. —Wide World Magazine.

Wouldn't Bring an Action.

There is a story told of a very eminent advocate, now no longer with us, who once while endeavoring to dissuade a friend from going to law was asked what he would himself consider a sufficient ground for resorting to litigation.

"My dear fellow," he replied, "I do not say that in no conceivable circumstances would I take proceedings against any one, but I do say that if at this moment you deliberately upset my ink on the tablecloth, chucked my wife out of the window, threw that volume of reports at the bust of Blackstone, 'made hay' with my furniture and finally tweaked my nose I should no doubt use my best endeavors to kick you downstairs. But once rid of you, either by force or persuasion, no power on earth should induce me to bring an action against you."—London Globe.

A Tip.

"I notice you keep your office door closed all the time."

"Yes. I'd never get anything done if I didn't."

"Why?"

"Well, so many people that I don't want to see would wander in here."

"How do you know whether or not you want to see them unless you admit them and hear what they have to say?"

"I don't. I suppose I do miss one or two worth while in the course of a day."

"Did it ever occur to you that the old way to know what people want is to hear what they have to say? It's easy enough to get rid of the undesirable visitor after he gets in, but you never can recall the man with the worth while message if he once goes away."—Detroit Free Press.

His Line.

A charming young member of a woman's literary club, who adds the distinction of being a bride to successful authorship, recently met a gushing stranger at a club reception.

"Oh, Mrs. Blank, I am so glad to meet you. I enjoy your stories so much, and your husband's too." Then adding as an afterthought, "He is literary, too, isn't he?"

"Thank heaven, no!" replied the bride. "He's in the coal business."—New York Press.

Truthful Photographer.

The photographer was drying his plates in the warm sunlight.

"What are you doing there?" asked a friend.

"Oh," was the reply, "just airing my views."—Fall Mall Gazette.

ENGLAND'S QUEEN

The Consort of King George Visits London's Poor.

CHATS WITH A PARALYTIC.

The Roll of Honor, With Which Tenement Districts Pay Tribute to Their War Men, Gave Fresh Garlands From the Queen's Bouquet.

The poor people living in some of the districts of London have "invented" a simple way of honoring their men folk who have gone to the war. In each district they hang a roll of honor on a convenient wall, and each roll is kept freshly garlanded with flowers by the women and children. The roll of honor is a scroll, framed and gilded, showing the names of men who have left their homes in each street to join the fighting forces of the crown.

Queen Mary heard of this custom a few days ago and was so delighted with it that she arranged to make a tour through South Hackney, the district where the custom originated, in order to show her approval of what the poor people were doing. Recently she drove her motorcar, filled with postes, across from Buckingham palace, with no escort save a mounted policeman, who rode ahead to show the way. It was intended that the visit should be perfectly informal, but word of it got out, and the queen found the streets which she proposed to visit so thronged with women and children that she stopped her car, got out and talked and shook hands with scores of the poor people who crowded about her. To each roll of honor she visited she pinned one of the postes she had brought along.

One resident visited was an old woman crippled by paralysis, whom the queen found sitting near one of the rolls of honor. Her majesty walked to the old woman and took her hand tenderly. Then the following conversation took place:

"I need not ask what is the matter with you," said the queen. "It's paralysis, isn't it?"

"Yes, your majesty," replied the old woman, and she told the queen all about it; all about her husband, hale and hearty still at eighty-one and an old soldier, and all about her five grandsons, who were fighting for their country. The queen bent over and listened gravely to all this. Then she smiled and patted the woman on the shoulder. "I hope you will get better," she said.

"I feel better now, your majesty," replied the crippled old woman, with the tears running down her faded cheeks. "I saw Queen Victoria when I was younger and could get about; I saw King Edward and I saw Queen Alexandra, but I never expected to have the honor of seeing you also, mum!"

"But you have, after all," replied the Queen, laughing and again patting the old woman's shoulder.

The Way of It.

"Smith has been having contrary kinds of trouble."

"How so?"

"His salary was very much cut down, and he was in consequence very much cut up."—Baltimore American.

Boy Scouts.

Is the scout movement growing? Let the figures just issued by national headquarters speak. Last year the organization claimed a total of about 140,000 boys. The latest report of the authorities show a national enrollment of 192,769 active scouts. Then again, where there were 6,779 troops in existence twelve months ago, today there is a grand total of 9,513, with an increase of about 1,500 scoutmasters.

The Dew.

Each morn I wondered how it came
Aglim with rainbows just the same,
And then I knew and laughed most hearty,
The fairies had a bubble party.

What Sort of a Deal Has Your Dentist Given You?

Did any of the tooth-tappers of your acquaintances ever look into your mouth without charging you for the privilege?

Did any of 'em ever tell you what was wrong with your molars and instruct you about your dental apparatus without slapping a generous charge on the bill?

Did any of them do anything so unbusinesslike as to make out first a carefully itemized statement for you showing just what work had to be done on each tooth and showing the cost of material and labor required on each?

Did any of the professional practitioners in your experience ever act as if he was a business man, selling dentistry, or did he go at you as if you were an easy mark, to be kept in ignorance and then charged any old thing, just because you didn't know better?

Did any dental office, visited by you, select a specialist to do the particular work you required, or did the same man try to give you an equally good job whether it was plate work or crown work or filling or any of the six or seven branches of dentistry?

Did any of the tusk-trimmers give you work that was guaranteed and repeatedly proved both painless and harmless?

Did you always succeed in getting the best materials in the market at the lowest possible price to you, or did you just pay whatever the wise-looking dento-brigand told you to pay as he shoved his professional pistol up under your chin?

Did any of the cuspid-cutters bother to see whether you kept your teeth in good condition and make you drop around once every six months to have your jaws given the once-over, free of charge?
