An I. W. W., who was distributing literature around town one day last week, was promptly ordered to pull his freight by Chief Carter, who saw to it that the order was obeyed.

A number of Chinese were here from Portland last week enroute for Rogue river, to work in the Macleay cannery. The salmon season opens at the mouth of the Rogue river April 15th.

Marines desire to warn the public against loitering in the vicinity of the federal wireless station at Englewood after dark. People are privileged to approach the station in day time, but inspection at night is barred.

The Harbor says that the North Bend Mill & Lumber Co. has war orders, and will operate almost exclusively on cutting spruce lumber for aeroplanes for the United States government. The company has a large amount of spruce logs on hand and will be kept busy with the orders.

The Southern Pacific is having more Holland grass planted in the sandhills, in the vicinity of the railroad tract on North Slough. This grass grows and thrives in pure sand, provided there is sufficient rain to give it a good start. Those who have experimented with it find that best results are obtained when the so-called grass is planted in December.

The Port of Coos Bay held a meeting Monday morning, at which the action taken at the last meeting to permit a 60-foot drawbridge across Isthmus slough at Coos City was reversed. Final action will be taken in the matter at a regular meeting in May. It was practically agreed to build a suction dredge, to be used in improving the various sloughs, opening them for launch service at all stages of the tide.

The Marshfield German-American Club, upon the official declaration of war between the United States and Germany, adopted resolutions renewing declarations of loyalty to the American flag and declaring the disbanding of the German-American organization until after the conclusion of the war, and pledging the members to support the constitution and flag of the United States by whatsoever duty the United States requires.

Mrs. Hans Flatner, aged 35, disappeared from her home in Bunker Hill, Wednesday, about noon, and though a search was kept up for days and nights in the surrounding hills, no trace of her has been found. Her health has been impaired for some time and recently she has had hallucinations that somebody was trying to shoot her, and it is reported that she stated that she knew an easier way to die than that. A woman was seen near the log dump of the Smith mill on Wednesday, supposed to have been Mrs. Flatner, and it is believed that she fell into the slough and was drowned. Her husband and four little children have the sincere sympathy of the community.

Hawley Will Name Cadets.

A Salem dispatch states that Representative W. C. Hawley has received notification from the Secretary of the Navy that midshipman, Milton O. Carlson, of Marshfield, who in regular course would have graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1918, will be graduated in September, 1917, because of the war situation. Mr. Hawley is requested to submit nominations of principal and three alternates before June 13, 1917, in order that arrangements may be made for the examination of his nominees by the department on June 27, 1917.

Through his secretary, Ronald C. Glover, now at Salem, Mr. Hawley has made arrangements for the holding in Salem, May 26, of a competitive examination, the results of which will be used as the basis for making nominations. A nominee must be an actual resident of the First Congressional district and is eligible for examination on the day he becomes 16 years of age, and is ineligible on the day he becomes 20 years old.

Congressman W. C. Hawley announces that a competitive examination will be held at Salem the last of May or early in June to select an appointee to the West Point military academy from this district.

MARY BAKER EDDY MEMORIAL.

The memorial to Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, erected in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass., was on Saturday turned over to The Christian Science Board of Directors by Elbert S. Barlow of New York, who had charge of its construction. Over a year and a half has been required to complete it. Christian Scientists throughout the world have contributed, as expressions of sentiment, the entire cost of over $150,000.

The memorial is of Bethel white granite and consists of an open circular colonnade of eight columns fifteen feet in height surmounted by a cornice and cresting. The space inside the colonnade is to be filled with growing flowers. The columns rest on a stylobate of three steps, which also rest, at one side, on a broad platform of Pompton pink granite and, at the other, which is about five feet lower, on a double flight of circular steps. These are flanked on each side by a large pylon. The pylons were exhibited a short time ago at the American Institute of Architecture in New York, and were pronounced by several experts to be the finest pieces of carved granite ever executed. The detail is elaborated to an extent never before attempted in granite; some of the stems and leaves are practically free-standing, so great is the relief.

Interviewed regarding the memorial, the architect, Mr. Egerton Swartwout, of New York, said: "The site is singularly pleasing; in fact, I question whether a finer site could anywhere be found. It can be seen from all sides equally well, close at hand from the cemetery road, and from a quarter of a mile away across the lake. Indeed, it is this body of water which forms the chief beauty of the site. There is drop of approximately ten feet from the level of the lake, there being a natural terrace on the axis of the plot which lends itself admirably to the architectural development of the memorial. The lake is unusually still, and has a mirror-like quality which reflects admirably the white granite of which the memorial is made."

"As to the memorial I think it can be said without contradiction that, leaving aside entirely any artistic excellence, such perfection and delicacy have never been attained before in this unyielding and enduring material. There is certainly nothing in modern times that can approach it nor, as far as I know, in any of the monuments of antiquity."

Mr. Swartwout designed the new Missouri State capitol and the new Federal Building in Denver, and recently won the competition for the new George Washington memorial.

All that now remains to be done to complete the memorial to Mrs. Eddy is the planting for the landscape, which is to consist chiefly of some evergreen plants that will preserve their form and leaves throughout the year, and some cedars and rhododendrons.
