

"I wish they'd had Electricity when I was a boy"

"I was forever cursing the grindstone, churning, or sawing kindling when I wanted to go swimming or fishing—never had a chance to rest—always milking, cutting feed or grinding corn."

Electricity has taken the drudgery out of farm labor. Almost every routine task on the farm, in the dairy or about the house can now be done by a G-E motor in a fraction of the time formerly required and without physical exertion. Costs less than hiring farm hands, too!

MYRTLE POINT ITEMS.

Chautauque in Myrtle Point from July 15 to 20. Two sessions daily, afternoon and evening.

Ben Shull says send the Sentinel to him. He's been hearing it from other subscribers.

Kay Leap has leaped into the Hub store as salesman. Many of the boys of both Grammar and High School are now busy with a very essential part of their education—the practical.

C. C. C., the live stock shipper, sent another car of hogs and cattle on the 23rd.

C. H. Fox, of Denver, is the purchaser of the Lewis Lett 20-acre farm, two miles north on the way to Coquille. E. C. Roberts "conducted" the sale. Mr. Lett will move to town, having bought the W. E. Pike residence.

Homer Leep, who will be one of those who will fly over the Germans and fight for us, will arrive here shortly for a visit with his parents and brothers and sisters before going to the front. Homer is the second son of Dr. Leep and was educated here. We'll all welcome him.

Cal. Mace, son of Rev. E. Sutton, of North Bend, is here in the employ of W. C. Cutler and is pleased to be back among his former friends.

Floyd Wallace Minear and Louise Caroline Ensele were married last week by Rev. Thomas Barklow in Medford, Ore., and the happy couple followed Uncle Tom over here and will honeymoon in this valley. Mrs. Barklow was with her husband in their auto trip to Medford. She was 66 years of age the day they started and looked as good to Tom as ever. At the end of the journey she was somewhat sore about the waist-line, but Uncle Tom said he all the time was busy at the wheel.

D. T. Lawton, sealer of weights and measures, was here this week examining some of us as to the measures we have been meeting to others. All have been found up to the measure so far as we know. He comes from that forward town, Medford, Ore.

Clarke Fensler, of the Hub, who has already enlisted for military service, will leave on the first for a short visit with relatives in Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and in his old home town, Missouri Valley, Iowa, before he joins the colors. Clarke is an aggressive progressive and now is ready to fight.

Lester James, aged 14, second son of Wilton James, is under operation this week at the Pemberton operating rooms. Mr. James' sons are all wonderful workers, wielding the axe or scythe according to the season. He lost a son some nine months ago who was treated at Mercy Hospital but died here.

William Tell Lehnerr, our old friend, is in this week from his home on Floras creek and says all is serene among the homesteaders that way and some have multiplied their plant of corn, beans and spuds by five.

Russell Yoakam, son of Mrs. Machado, of Bancroft, was in town this growing. He is with his mother at growing. He is with his mother at Bancroft.

The agent of one of the "Big Four" packing houses was here this week. This house for 1916 did more business by $75 millions than either of the other three.

A. H. Pence walks principally on one foot. A horse fell on the other.

Rev. Thomas Barklow has now performed his 23rd marriage ceremony. A wedding feast was held last week on a gravel bed in the river by the telephone force, at least all of them that could get away. There were a few young men present of whom Flentge Perkins was "chief."

Richard Houghton, of Norwty, while sawing wood at Lee, jumped over a big log not knowing what he would light on. He suffered a sprained ankle and goes light on that foot and carries a fir stick.

Miss Mable Pearson has the measles but is said to be better. She is already congratulating Claude and Abbie on the near approach of the consummation of their fondest hopes—July 16th, don't miss the date.

Mr. Campbell, auto expert in the L. H. Pearce garage, since being joined by his family lives in the Darius Neal house on Maple street.

Last week Dan Barklow swept the town.

For our Marshal was away.

This week our marshal's name is Brown.

And Dan can now run and play.

Frank Sigby, of Portland, a contractor, arrived here Monday evening on stage from Roseburg. He will visit with his nephew, Mr. Sigby, of Stringtown, and if he likes the country remain.

In place of an old fence and pile of old lumber Mr. Machado has put up a neat well-built chicken wire fence on the corner of Sixth and Spruce streets. Other places are more improved in appearance by removing the old fences.

Wesley Appleton, who was injured in the logging camp, was removed from North Bend to his home on Rock creek.

The Grange and Farmers Union picnic was held last Saturday in the Norway Grove but owing to the very busy season and early promise of rain with a cold north wind, there was only about one-third attendance. The good things to eat and the good hot coffee were there, which Norway particularly and the farmers generally always provide so liberally, and Price Robinson was there and after the laudatory in introduction by Vice President Burkholder, he was bound to make a fine address, which he did. The gleeful singers from Myrtle Point were not so gleeful as usual but their selections were finely rendered. The Robinson twins also sang very sweetly. Mr. Dixon, the speaker here, as one of the places he visits on his itinerary, is always very interesting. As he was to deliver an address in Myrtle Point on his "farmers" subject, he confined his remarks to the present war conditions, the conservation of food, checking waste and greater production. He said the result of this great world war would be a re-birth—a new birth for all nations and peoples engaged—a re-creation, so to speak, all emerging from it with a clearer thought and desire for justice for all. Mr. Warren, also a wisser man, from the eastern side of us, urged the better organization of the farmers that they might make their power felt in legislation, that they ought to have a more representative newspaper to advocate their cause. And shortly after the music by the Bridge band rain began to fall and we hiked for home.

E. B. Ward, a homesteader from Floras creek, had to come in on account of an abscess in his head. He is again O. K. and has since connected up the John N. Roberts' premises with the sewer.

Several of our citizens attended the funeral of Mrs. Ivy Freeman Smith, at Lee, who passed away after five months of wedded life.

Our depot is too small both as to waiting room and warehouse but the building has been painted yellow now and looks dandy.

Ben Shull with Mike Wyland will go in auto to Shasta valley, Cal. He goes for a change of scene and may also buy land there.

E. Dstwiler brought in his little girl with a broken arm which Dr. Pemberton set.

Guy Ford, the instructor and inspector for the Associated Cheesemakers of Coos and Curry counties says the selling agent, Mr. Giles, is selling as fast as it can be made.

Norway promises to be here July 15 to 20 attending Chautauque. They were here last year.

Mr. Ace Sommers, formerly of Flores creek, but later manager of the H. Stanford's estate, proving his ability in that capacity, has resigned and will leave this county and go to Klamath.

A. H. Pence, the meat market man, on account of increased business has extended his business premises to the alley, 96 feet.

Dr. Pemberton operated on Henry Bryant's small son and a daughter of O. A. Karry for tonsils and adenoids last week and on Sunday on Ed Carter's daughter and Eli Clayton's son for tonsils and adenoids.

Miss Mina Magness is engaged as Principal for next term of school at Broadbent.

After a long and painful illness, Mrs. J. W. Strong passed away, the funeral being held in the Presbyterian church and interment made in the family plot on the South Fork. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Warner and was born Nov. 1, 1861 at the old home on South Fork of the Coquille and died at her home in Myrtle Point. Nov. 27, 1881 she was married to John W. Brown, who died Jan. 5, 1893. On March 6, 1895 she was married to J. W. Strong, who with her mother and two sisters survive her, also Ralph Hughes, whom she raised from a small boy to manhood. She early united with the Presbyterian church of which she remained a consistent member to her death. Her pastor, the Rev. James F. Vernon, conducted the services Thursday, June 28th.

Forest Main is another high school boy who did not lose a day after school but is now earning good money pitching hay and filling silos.

Rev. Thomas Barklow says send the Coquille Valley Sentinel to Israel Miller, North English, Keokuk county, Iowa, for one year, as it is the only thing he can think of that will be a regular weekly pleasure to him.

The John Clinton Jr. house at Norway was burned to the ground Monday this week about 1:30 p. m. Neighbors and passing people assisted and most of the household goods were saved.

A side track is being put in at the Norway station and the earth being removed is used in filling along the long piece of trestle above Johnson's. The depot is also painted the S. P.'s favorite colors—yellow and green.

A piece of "Roseburg" road, from the city out is now being blue gravelled with the hard blue gravel from a bar opened at Dement's ranch. P. W. Laird, local supervisor, superintends the work.

Rev. Thomas Barklow, who conducted the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Ivy Bell Freeman Smith at the church on North Fork, says that it was a pretty service altogether. The deceased was but 18 years old and was married Jan. 9, 1917. There were many people present and the pall bearers were six young ladies, Misses Lena Summerlin, Ina Summerlin, Welma Bunch, Ila Stevenson, Mary Marcy and Mary King—dressed in white. The husband, Andrew Smith, is an enlisted man and will soon go to camp.

How Counties Were Named.

A Salem dispatch of the 23rd says that data which is of exceptional historical interest will be incorporated in the forthcoming Blue Book, showing how the various counties of the State were formed, and giving information as to the derivation of the names of such counties.

In the information concerning the counties of the State, we notice that Coos was created December 22, 1853, and was taken from Umpqua and Jackson counties. The derivation of the name Coos is in doubt. A number of derivations are suggested for this name with little certainty concerning any of them. Some think it was named after a tribe of Indians of the Kpsan family, others believe that the name was derived from the Coase plant, still others contend that it was named for Coos county, New Hampshire.

Deer Swims Coos River.

While coming down the river Wednesday, says the Coos Bay Times, the Rainbow ran alongside a big buck which was swimming down stream near the rock quarry. Tom Smith threw his lariat over its head and later had a lively time saving his rope. The buck was a five-pointer and had evidently been chased by dogs.
