Found Guilty.
Frank Sly, of this city, was found guilty of violating the local option law by a jury in district court Saturday, and has been fined $350.

It took a long time to secure the jury, as the prosecution wanted to cut off the jury any man who would not accept the testimony of a detective used to secure a conviction and the defense as strenuously objected to allowing a man to sit who would accept the testimony. The jury was secured shortly before noon Saturday and consisted of William Polders, Eugene R. McMormack, Frank W. Miller, William J. Warnock, James H. Calloway, Frank Denning, Ole J. Neet, Winthrop Thompson, Henry Rebman, Charles Strome, Lee L. Cheshire and Soren Peterson.

The prosecution was conducted by District Attorney Bryson and the defense was represented by Johnson & Medley, Cottage Grove attorneys. The case was strongly contested.

When interviewed by a Sentinel representative, Mr. Sly stated that he learned that the jury at first stood 8 to 1 for acquittal.

Mr. Sly did not deny selling the liquor, but stated that he sold it to a man who rushed in and said he wanted it for a sick wife.

J. S. Benson, who was indicted at the same time as Mr. Sly, plead guilty yesterday afternoon and was fined $100.

The local option laws are very rigid, and this case plainly demonstrates that they are going to be enforced to the letter.

No Damage on Hallowe'en.
Hallowe'en passed off very quietly here, very little damage being done by the young folks who feel that the occasion is one when things not permissible under ordinary circumstances can be done with impunity.

About the only prank that attracted attention was the stringing of Marion Veatch's piano boxes across the street in front of his store. Ladders from Lawson's paint store were piled on top of the boxes, making quite a tasty display.

A few gates were removed, but no serious damage was reported.

Cash Produce Market Established.
Producers can now get cash for their produce at Cottage Grove, a market for that purpose having been established during the past week by F. H. Cook, who was formerly in the grocery business here. The place of business is located on Main street, between Second and Third streets.

Mr. Cook reports that he has been enjoying a good trade so far and is making regular shipments to Portland. Farmers have long asked for a cash market and Mr. Cook anticipates a successful business.

Miss Veta Holderman was a guest of Miss Hazel Hemenway this week, as was also Mr. Hartsal and daughter of London.

Grandpa Hemenway, of the Grove, also visited at the Hemenway home this week.

John Ashbys' house caught fire one day this week and had it not been for the persistent effort of his father to secure help, and the timely arrival of Mr. Simcox, who succeeded in extinguishing the flames, the house would have burned. Mr. Ashby was the only one at home. As it was the loss was not great.

Hallowe'en evening was appropriately observed by ghosts and goblins roaming the woods and appearing at the windows, much to the pleasure of the young people.

WILL GET THE SENTINEL.

And the Sentinel Will Get Some First Class Pears.

The following somewhat out-of-the-ordinary agreement was entered into this week between the Sentinel and G. F. King, local agent of the S. P. It speaks for itself:

This agreement, made and entered into this 31st day of October, 1911, by and between G. F. King party of the first part, and Elbert Bede and J. W. Grant, parties of the second part, all of Cottage Grove, Lane county, Oregon:

Witnesseth: That said first party is the obliging S. P. Co. agent at Cottage Grove, Oregon, and the promulgator of Comic and DeAnjou pears, in the suburbs of the city.

That said second parties are the owners and publishers of the Sentinel, a weekly newspaper published at Cottage Grove, Oregon;

That said first party is desirous of securing the best news obtainable from an independent republican source, he himself being a high-water-mark socialist.

Therefore, in consideration of said first party agreeing to deliver unto said second parties at their place of reputation, fruit of one choice DeAnjou pear tree, said fruit to be delivered at 10 o'clock a. m., October 31, 1914, said second parties agree to furnish the stipulated news in wads and chunks and in such quantities as shall meet the demands of said first party, said second parties further agreeing to furnish such news for the spasmodic period of one year from date.

It is further agreed, that in case said second parties shall neglect, or refuse to furnish such news at the time and in the manner specified, then and in that event it shall become a conclusive presumption that said second parties are stand-patters and not independent but in-deep in-and-end-over-end-in-it, and said first party shall be independent of this agreement.

In witness whereof, the respective parties have hereunto set their hands to this agreement, made in duplicate this 31st day of October, 1911.

G. F. KING.
ELBERT BEDE,
J. W. GRANT.

Hobble Skirt Defended.

Law m'suz, Matildie, did you read what that Sentinel had ter say about them hobbled skirts.

Wall, I'll tell yer right now I'm here to be defendin' of 'em 'cause I know the poor little things ain't big enough to do it themselves. And I think its mighty mean fer the men kind to pick onto any thing no much less than themselves to fight. Now, I'd just like fer ye to tell me, Matildie Ann, what on arth are us female womin going to do. When we wore them big full skirts with hoops, then men called 'em balloons and when we wore them trains they called us street sweepers, and if we wear a skirt that is a little full and long and have to hold um out of the mud and wet to keep from takin' our death a dampness them thar men say we are trying to show our ankles and small feet. And no-sir-ee we just can't wear the trousers. And yet the male men make the stiles and won't have nothing to do with non of us if we don't foller their notions and say we are backwoods if we don't and silly and soft if we do.

Now I'm not one that is a wearin' of them hobbled skirtz, but I believe in givin' the devil his dues. And I say, Matildie Ann, if ye want to wear um, wear um, yer kant please um no way.

Will Shoot Against Portland.

Henry Veatch took part in a clay pigeon shoot at Eugene Saturday preparatory to taking part with the Eugene Gun club in a three-shoot contest against the Portland Gun club. Ten men will be picked from each side and the first shoot will be held in Portland, probably on the 17th. The other two shoots will be held at Eugene, probably on the 27th and 28th. The losers are to furnish suppers for the winners.

Mr. Veatch, when he stopped off at Eugene Saturday, was returning from Portland, where he scored high mark in a shoot with the Portland club, bringing down 48 pigeons out of the last 50.

New crop English walnuts, cranberries and dill pickles, just arrived at Helliwell's.
