Another Socialist Entertainment.

(Advertisement)
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sadler of Seattle will be at the Grand Theatre Friday evening, November 17th, at eight o'clock p. m.

A couple of live wires, working in the interest of Socialism.

President Taft says we've got to bust the trusts, and get back to the old competitive basis of doing business or the "Socialists" will get us sure.

J. P. Morgan's man Perkins says

we've got to have a federal regulation law for big business, government supervision, which will allow of a fair profit to business enterprise, or in other words he wants the government to hold while "Big Business" skins,

he promising to take only sufficient skin to keep well in practice and to leave the skinned in fairly healthful

state so that they will be able to produce more skin.

Taft and Bryan are alike when it comes to fixing the trusts, they both would shove the hands of time back about thirty or forty years, back to old competitive age, then sit on the safety valve, which makes us laugh.

Probably you noticed in the reports from last Tuesday's election that the only surprise noted by the papers was the surprising vote cast by the Socialists.

The Oregonian editorially says, "This vote brings socialism out from the depths, places it on a plane of respectability, and calls attention to the fact that it is a factor to be reckoned with in the future."

The political battle of 1912 is also going to be a still bigger surprise and 1916 will make every one sit up and take notice.

Come out tonight and learn more of this movement, find out its aims, what it proposes in the interest of all mankind.

AN M. D.'S OPINION

The following is an editorial that appeared in the American Journal of Physiologic Therapeutics, written by Henry R. Harrower, M. D.

There is no doubt whatever that the science of manipulative therapeutics, osteopathy, or whatever you may like to call it, is worthy of consideration; and those who pass it by with a sneer are narrow-minded. Personally, we have never studied osteopathy, at least other than from the standpoint of a reader and an investigator. We have never been to Kirksville, nor have we had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Still, but we have seen patients who have been treated by competent osteopaths who have unquestionably been benefited where other methods had failed. Results count. We cannot get past them and we are not going to be narrow enough to mumble when we come to a discussion of this subject. Let us speak in clear terms and give the osteopaths their due, realizing that it is just as possible for human beings to spend four years studying osteopathy and learn something helpful as it is for the same kind of human beings to spend four years studying medicine and learn something. Let us remember that no one "school of medicine, monopolizes all knowledge of the healing art.

HOMESEEKERS TO OREGON

This is the class of people coming to Oregon at the present time, and it is predicted that the influx of this class to the state will be greater next year than ever before.

One of the factors which will figure largely in the future development of the state is the reclaiming of the logged-off lands. Millions of acres of these lands in western Oregon, which today are lying idle and almost a total waste in time will be cleared off and made productive. The char-pitting process of land clearing, which has been proved an economic success, will become a great boon to the development of this kind of acreage, it is admitted.

F. B. Holbrook, of Portland, through whose efforts the char-pitting process was tested and found an economic success in Oregon, is of the opinion that, provided the owners of the stump lands continue to offer their holdings at reasonable prices, the greatest development in the state in the next 10 years will take place in the cut-over sections of Western Oregon.

Land Grant to be Settled.

In addition to the development of the logged-off acres, another factor that will aid in the general progress of the state is the breaking up of some of the big land grants.

The immense tract of land included in the old Willamette valley and Cascade Mountains Wagon Road grant, which was taken over by Minnesota capitalists about a year ago from a French syndicate, is one of the largest to undergo a process of disintegration. Within the past 60 days, two large parcels of this grant have been sold. One comprises about 12,000 acres located in Linn county, which was taken over by the Forest Hill Investment Company. Acreage in this tract will be sold to settlers at attractive prices.

The eastern part of the grant, including about 200,000 acres, was sold last week to Ontario capitalists. The purchasers will develop the tract by irrigation and other means and offer it to settlers.

Peculiar Lapse of Memory.
Eugene has a case of lost personality. Bernard Marvin, a young civil engineer, through a remarkable loss of memory concerning his past life, now imagines himself George Lewis, a lumberjack. He talks as intelligently and rationally on every other subject but his past personal history. He was a fine musician and played both the violin and piano with more than ordinary skill. Now he asserts that he never had a violin in his hands and never struck a note on a piano, that he is an ordinary laboring man and knows nothing of the finer forms of culture, but talks with the language of a scholar and still resents the advances of his mother in her attempts to convince him of his true relation to her.

Marvin himself thinks he is the victim of mistaken identity. He says: "If there is a man in the world that I would like to meet more than any other it is this Bernard Marvin. Imagine yourself being taken for a son by someone you never saw before. I read a story not long ago where a woman mistook a man for her husband, and was positive for a long time that she couldn't be mistaken, but I never supposed that I would find myself sometime in almost the same position. It is unheard of. I sometimes get to wondering, myself, if it could be true, but I know who I am."

Marvin is very anxious to get to work again, and is tired of the inactivity of the last week. He deplores the publicity that his peculiar situation has brought him.

"I would like to find an opening for work here in this town," he said, "but of course it is impossible, now. I am a marked man after all this, and people turn around and point me out on the street."

"I am going to look for something better than just working with my hands, anyway. There is nothing in it for the plain working man. I am going to get into something that takes head work, and that has some future to it."

He talks entertainingly, and to considerable length of the classic writers. He knows Vergil well, and is familiar with philosophy of Plato and Aristotle. He is a close student of Homer, and the wanderings of Ulysses through strange lands and amid strange adventures holds a peculiar fascination for him, he says.

His knowledge of dates and places for a period two months back is clear, but is hazy beyond that time, and he evades questions which bring in the element of time before this period. Dr. Kuyendall, who has studied the case, says such cases are not unknown to medical experience, but they are very rare. Marvin's case is peculiarly interesting, owing to the wide divergence of his two selves. He is a modern Jekyll-Hyde, except that he cannot pass at will from one self to the other. The cause might have been a blow on the skull, or it might have been over-work and eye strain. He is likely to change back to his former self at any time without specified cause.

LANE WILL SAVE GAME.

County Association Enters Into Protection Campaign.

Working under the act passed at the last legislature providing for the establishment of game preserves on state and private lands, the Lane County Fish and Game association has entered upon a campaign for protection and conservation of the wild game of the county—particularly Chinese and native pheasants, grouse and quail. Two refuges have already been marked out, and contracts have been entered into with the landowners on one of them.

Senator L. E. Bean, who introduced the bill, is one of the prime movers in the campaign.

The refuge which has already been established is located just southeast of Springfield and contains a little more than 800 acres.

The tract is ideally situated for a refuge for all kinds of smaller game. In the center is a very high butte, covered with fir timber, and a large part of the entire acreage is covered with a dense growth of underbrush. The asparagus fields of Brook Farm, when they are allowed to grow up, and go to seed after the last cutting, attract the birds from all over the surrounding country. The tract is practically an island, the Willamette river bordering it on two sides, and a lumber company's race on the other two.

In compliance with the provisions of the law, notices have been posted entirely around the tract, warning against trespassing, hunting or disturbing in any way the game within the borders. The act also provides for the appointment by the county court of a deputy game warden, who will serve without pay, further than his actual expenses, and will have supervision over the tract. He also will have authority to appoint deputy wardens, or caretakers, who may arrest any persons violating the laws governing the preserve.

The second preserve includes the Mercer Farm, on the River road, and the land immediately surrounding it. It lies between the road and the river and is made up of small truck farms and orchards. A heavy brush fringe borders the river and makes a natural refuge and feeding ground for the birds. Colonel W. G. D. Mercer, who owns the Mercer Farm, is an enthusiast on bird protection and was instrumental in securing the location of the refuge.

350 Boys Will Meet.
Three hundred and fifty of the picked boys of Oregon will meet at Corvallis December 1st to take part in the three days' conference of the Sixth Annual State Boys' conference. It is held under the auspices of the Oregon-Idaho Young Men's Christian association and is open to any boy over fourteen representing any Boys' Bible study club or Sunday school class in the state.

The theme of this conference will be "Responsibility" and the motto "Dare to Do It." The papers will be prepared and read by the boys, after which open discussion will take place. Besides a number of papers by the boys on topics in line with the theme, there are to be four addresses given by prominent men of the state who are not only interested in the boy life of Oregon, but who are informed as to its condition and needs. Among them will

Why Join the Grange.

Because it is inexpensive.
Because it is the farmers' only organization national in character.

Because it has stood the test for forty-three years, and has never been found wanting in any respect.

Because it has exerted greater influence in securing state and national legislation in the interest of agriculture than any agency in the country.

Because it is officered by those engaged in agriculture, who know from experience the needs of farmers, and are sincere in their desire to aid them in every possible way.

Because it is the duty of farmers to co-operate with one another, if they would successfully meet the influence of organization in every direction, and secure for wife and home fair share of what the harvest yields.

Because it has secured national legislation in the oleomargarine law, the establishment of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the establishment of Rural Free Mail Delivery, and state legislation in every state in the interest of the farming population.

Because it has exerted the greatest influence known in breaking up the isolation of farm life, making it attractive to boys and girls, bringing sunshine and happiness into the farm home such as has never before existed.

Stallions Must Be Registered.
Attention of the owners of stallions and jacks is called to the new stallion law which went into effect on May 20, 1911. A number of horsemen have not yet complied with the provisions of this law. It is necessary that all stallions and jacks used for public service must be licensed by the State Stallion Registration Board at Corvallis, and that they must be inspected by an official inspector appointed by this board.

HEED THE WARNING.

Many Cottage Grove People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are sick they give unmistakable warning that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Sick kidneys expel a dark ill-smelling urine, full of "brickdust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only; they cure sick kidneys, and rid the blood of uric poison. If you suffer from any of the above symptoms you can use no better remedy. Cottage Grove people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Phillip Hohl, A Street, Cottage Grove, Ore., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, and have found them very effective in curing kidney and bladder difficulties. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Benson's Drug Store and they relieve me of pains in my kidneys and a stiffness in my back. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills in the spring and fall and they keep me in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
