gon Agricultural college, he will become a tiller of the soil according to the latest methods in scientific farming. Being a thorough going and industrious young man, here is a leap year chance not to be overlooked.

Hugh Trunnell, son of a prosperous farmer. Has splendid prospects. Is a talented musician, also an expert on pressing (hay.) Never known to be serious, and all know him by his smile. Enjoys splitting wood and making fires. Would furnish the spuds, so there will be plenty to eat if there is a good cook. An ideal husband he'll make.

Last, but not least, George Boyd, a noted horticulturist. Comes from a well to do and highly respected family, which has spared no pains to develop his genius. Makes dates and peaches his special study and gets along fine with both. Is in great need of a house-keeper and a cook and says he has been looking for one for twenty years. Hopes that this leap year will put an end to his search. Is very easy to please when once he gets the right one. Never gets angry, and promises a happy home. Some say he has a house-keeper in view and has taken down his sign.

Registration Clerk Lyons, at the county clerk's office, has taken the names of 1,467 voters up to date, having been at the work four weeks this morning. This is rolling them up pretty fast, but still not as fast as necessary to get registered in time for the primaries.

This pretty weather is just the time to spray. The open winter has caused the scale to open up and it can be reached now with the lime and sulphur and effectively killed, so say those who know.

When in Cottage Grove, call on the violin maker and see about that fine old violin of yours. Bellingham Second Hand Store.

W. R. Coleman, county clerk of Jackson county, was arrested Monday on the charge of not having turned over the receipts from county game and angler's licenses, amounting to about $10,000, to State Treasurer Kay. The warrant issued by District Attorney Mulkey, on complaint of W. L. Finley, state game warden. In explanation County Clerk Coleman declared he had not remitted to the state treasurer simply because the press of business and the inadequate force at his command had made it impossible for him to check up the accounts to date.

The water mains are being replaced in many places about town, and the work is being superintended by Mr. Lea of Cottage Grove, the engineer of the company, assisted by Chas. E. Remington. An extraordinary pressure was put on the main last week, which caused it to give out in a number of places, and when these are properly repaired it is hoped to have a system that will stand the "pressure" from all sides.—Drain Nonpareil, 25th.

The Jackson county bond case has been lost in the supreme court, and the county is restrained from issuing $1,500,000 bonds recently voted.

A good sized timber and farm land property deal is pending in the Lorane valley. It is expected to be consummated about the first of March.

Many Looking Over Country.

Among those here looking for land are John Sechrist of Abeline, Kans., J. Donaldson of Norfolk, Neb., J. Miller of Orchard, Neb.

An Attractive Display.

Rees-Wallace has a very attractive show window this week, the central figure being a piece of mechanism that operates a sort of teeter-totter, which alternately drops a shoe into a basin of water and lifts it out again. The mechanism also operates a frame on which are different announcements concerning water proofing.

Many Fail to Pass Eighth Grade Test.

Of 232 pupils of Lane county public schools who took the regular eighth grade examinations during the week, only 53 were successful, most of those who failed falling down on spelling and arithmetic. County School Superintendent Baughman said this afternoon that 62 of those who failed are eligible to take the examinations again in May and if the required grades are made in the studies on which they failed they will be granted certificates.

BADLY INJURED AT MILL

FLYING SPLINTERS STRIKE WORKINGMAN AT EDGER.

One Piece of Board Pierces Flesh of Right Leg, Another Hits Him in Hip.

A splinter of a flying slab that hit him and went clear through the flesh of his right leg, caused a very painful injury to Joe Nagel at the J. I. Lumber Co.'s mill at Disston this morning.

Mr. Nagel was working at the edger at the time of the accident. Something went wrong with the machinery, a board got caught in some manner and threw off large splinters. One hit Mr. Nagel in the hip and another hit him in the right leg, going clear through the flesh.

The injured man was brought to Cottage Grove to receive medical attention.

THING IS BEING OVER-DONE

The Sentinel started something when it started the eligible list, and the thing is being overdone. Some more eligibles are published in this issue, also some proposals, but these are the last. The Sentinel wishes to thank those who took such an interest in the subject, and made it the talk of the town, but even a good thing can be run into the ground, so let the old backs, and young ones too, rest in peace for awhile.

Dorena.

Several cases of sore throat. Rev. Barnhardt is slowly improving. Mr. and Mrs. Raterbush have a new daughter, born Dec. 23d.

Miss Anna Johnson is visiting her sister, Mrs. Winneford Turpen, at Crites mill.

C. W. Marten and wife were Sunday visitors at the Grove. Joe Cammel, the Bohemia miner, passed through one day last week on his way to the Klamath Hot Springs, where he will take treatment for rheumatism.

At a meeting of the city council some time ago two million dollars were appropriated for the paving of the city streets, but as work has not yet been started, some of the citizens threaten to commence graft proceedings against Mayor Van Denberg and his council. If the case comes to trial it will be in Judge Williams' court and it will be a lively affair, as it is understood that eminent counsel have been engaged on both sides.

THE FAIR

Had a severe attack during December but is recovering nicely at this time.

A great many of our friends advised rest and quiet during January, and although we fooled them a little, still we took our rest in large doses. Several of the eastern specialists were doctoring us during the entire month and have succeeded in getting us in very fair shape at this time. Dr. Valentine is the last one to prescribe and he did so with up-to-date mixtures which is doing good already, however, we want results and this ad must bring them, or else it's likely we may have a relapse.

We have only 25 selling days this month and today being Ground Hog day, don't know if it will count. By the way, we have some Rat Traps (price 10c), that are strong enough to hold a Ground Hog.

This ad. may sound foolish to some of the readers and we will explain we have tried other ways to get the people interested in our store and know positively there are 6 or 8 people in Cottage Grove that have not been in our store, and if this does not fetch them, watch out for next week. We are sorry we cannot name all the items to you, but our invoice shows 9,876 bargains and we have added largely. We think it will do you good as well as us to visit our store.

The Fair

P. S.—Quite a few people found out we were selling a 10c Ink Tablet for 5c. Did you? That's why it pays to visit our store often.
