

SNAPSHOTS AT NOTABLES

William H. Andrews, Senator
From New Mexico.

William H. Andrews of Albuquerque, slated to become one of New Mexico's representatives to the United States senate, has had an interesting political career. He is a native of Pennsylvania and got his first insight into politics in the school of the late Senator Matthew Stanley Quay. During his career as Quay's benchman he acquired the sobriquet of "The Bull," and as "Bull" Andrews he was known in Keystone State politics. Twice he was a member of the Pennsylvania house of representatives, served a term as state senator and was chairman of the Republican state committee in 1880.

Senator Andrews removed to New Mexico in 1902 and served as a delegate to congress from the territory from 1905 to 1911. He was active in promoting statehood and at the recent elections won the senatorial nomination. Mr. Andrews is seventy years old.

Mr. Lindbergh of Minnesota.
Representative Charles August Lindbergh of Minnesota, who recently made sensational charges against the so-called money trust before the house committee on rules, is a Republican and is serving his third term in congress. Representative Lindbergh said he saw no reason why the New York bankers should not be investigated.

Here are some of his allegations:
That pressure was being brought upon congress to obtain passage of the national monetary commission's bill before certain facts can be ascertained in an investigation of the so-called money trust.

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH.

That Wall street would today bring on a panic to enforce this proposed monetary legislation, but is confronted with a promise made in 1908 that the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency bill of that year, which expires in 1914, was sufficient to prevent panics.

Congressman Lindbergh is a native of Sweden, fifty-three years of age and was brought to this country by his parents in 1860. He was educated at Grove Lake academy, Minnesota, and the University of Michigan. Mr. Lindbergh is a lawyer and practices his profession at Little Falls.

Brief and to the Point.
Former Senator Spooner of Wisconsin says the best speech of introduction he ever heard was delivered by a German mayor of a small town in Wisconsin where the then senator had engaged to speak. The mayor said: "Ladies and gentlemen: I asked had been to introduce you to the Hon. Senator Spooner, who to you will make a speech, yes. I had now done so, and he will now do so."

FOR THE CHILDREN

Who Is She?

Perhaps you know the little girl
Who's always losing things
Her head is in a constant whirl—
Her property has wings.

She's very sure she puts away
Each article in place.
But when she wants them they're astray,
And thus begins the chase.

"Oh, mother, have you seen my hat?
It's nearly half past eight.
I thought 'twas earlier than that.
I'm sure I shall be late!"

"And where's my coat? I hung it there
Upon that hook last night.
Well, yes, perhaps 'twas on the chair
Or under it—you're right."

"Some please hid my books there. No,
I'm sure it wasn't I.
Hat, coat, gloves, books—a kiss! And so
I'm ready now. Goodbye!"

What work and worry she could spare
Herself and others, too.
By just a little thought and care!
Now, can this girl be you?

—Youth's Companion.

A Snake's Long Fast.

Big Annie, the largest anaconda of the New York zoo, dined recently for the first time in 239 days.

The snake's long fast has been a worry and wonder since she arrived from South America last May. The news that she had consented to put three whole chickens under her skin caused excitement and jubilation.

Regularly every ten days Head Keeper Charles Snyder has had two chickens killed and placed before the reptile, but Annie always scorned them. It looked as if she was bent on starving herself to death.

In July Annie became the mother of seventy-two infant anacondas. Forty-eight of them survived and are now valued members of the zoo. But even they could not persuade their mother to break her fast. She didn't show any great interest in the chickens she devoured. She simply swallowed them listlessly and went to sleep. She holds the zoo record for fasting, the best previous mark, 181 days, having been made by a regal python.

Great Ambitions.

Many of our small boys have an ambition to grow up and become street car conductors and policemen. The ambition of the small boy of Morocco is to become the bearer of the umbrella, which is an office of the highest dignity in the country. When the sultan goes abroad some one walks close behind him and carries a great umbrella of scarlet and gold to shield his majesty from the rays of the sun.

Another great official is the fly flicker, appointed to shoo away all flies from the sultan's person. The tea-maker is a person of quite as much importance as the other two. He carries the teapot with great dignity and has everything ready to make a cup of sweet tea flavored with mint whenever the sultan may ask for it, and he is as likely to ask for it one minute as another. American boys and men would think these positions silly, but the small boys of Morocco have no ambition greater than to occupy one of these when they grow up.

Game of Clothespins.

A good game is "clothespins." The company choose sides and have an umpire. Each side stands in a row. Get about forty clothespins—twenty for each side—or any number that you can just hold in your two hands.

Place each pack of pins on the floor in front of the leader of each side. As the umpire gives the signal the leaders clap their hands three times, pick up the pins and pass them by the side near to you, so as to pass them easily, and pass them to the next person, he to the next, and so on down until the foot of the line is reached.

The person at the foot must put the pins on the floor, clap his hand three times, pick up the pins and pass them back to the leader at the head of the line, who puts them on the floor. If any person drops a pin he must put the pack on the floor, clap his hands three times, pick up the pins and pass on. The aim is to see which side will finish first.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Remembering the Date.

The difference between a boy who is said to have a good memory and another who is said to have a bad one is usually only a difference of methods of thinking. Those who remember readily are generally those who think orderly. What they already know and what they want to remember are placed side by side in their mental store-rooms, so that they can find the one when they have the other. If you wish to remember the year in which Washington was born, 1732, you will easily recall it if you think of it whenever you think of his name. You never forget Feb. 22 as the day of the year because that day is always spoken of as Washington's birthday.

A Dutch Baby.

In Holland there is a queer custom connected with the birth of a child. The proud parents make known to their neighbors that a boy has come to live with them by hanging a pink silk ball covered with lace on the door-knob or knocker. If the baby is a girl there is a small bit of paper attached to the ball.

Dottie Knew.

Teacher—Where did George Washington live after he retired from public life?

No one seemed to know.

Teacher—Was it at Washington or at Mount Vernon?

Dottie—I know, teacher. He lived in the hearts of his countrymen.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Invalid Support Holds Patient at Any Angle.

For use in hospitals or in private homes the invalid support invented by an Ohio man and shown herewith would seem to be a very useful article. Side pieces rest on the bed by the patient's sides, and rising from the rear of these is a back that works on the morris chair principle. It can be raised or lowered to any angle convenient to the sick person. A cross-piece slides back and forth on top of the side pieces and can either be pushed out of the way or can be used as a table for meals or for writing or for any similar purposes. Any one who has had any nursing to do knows the difficulty of propping up sick persons so they are comfortable. This device with its easy chair back solves the problem admirably to all appearances.

Crumbled Dumplings.

To make the dumplings crumble white bread until you have sufficient to fill a coffee cup. Into a quart bowl break one egg, beat light, then add a pint of flour with which have been mixed a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Add water enough to make a dough so stiff that it can hardly be stirred with the spoon. Drop this dough by spoonfuls into rapidly boiling salted water, cover the pot and cook for fifteen minutes, never letting the water stop boiling. Put in the skillet three or four tablespoonfuls of dripping bacon fat, let it get very hot, then turn in the crumbs and stir quickly so they will brown without scorching. Take out the dumplings with a skimmer, place in a hot deep dish, then turn the brown crumbs over and serve at once. The egg may be omitted from the dumplings.

Salt Codfish Chop.

For each pint of shredded fish allow one cupful of hot milk, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and two tablespoonfuls of minced onion. Melt the butter, add the minced onion and cook gently three minutes, then blend in the flour. When smooth stir in the hot milk a little at a time. When of the consistency of thick cream take from the fire, stir into it the shredded fish and add pepper and the lemon juice. Stand aside until cool, then shape into chops. Dip in beaten egg, dredge with cracker dust and fry a golden brown in plenty of hot fat. Garnish with parsley and serve with tomato sauce.

Shepherd's Pie.

Shepherd's pie may be made from the left over mashed potato and roast of a previous dinner. Heat the potato and beat light with the stiffly beaten white of an egg. Line a baking dish with it, fill it with the meat, cut in slices and seasoned with minced celery, a bit of onion, some minced parsley and, if it is at hand, a Spanish red pepper cut into pieces. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with sauce from the roast. Cover the top with a layer of the potato, brush it with egg and bake until brown. The cold meat will be more delicious if it is cooked slowly for an hour before putting it into the pie.

Ginger Snaps Without Eggs.

One cup granulated sugar, three-quarters cup lard or butter, three-quarters cup New Orleans molasses or any dark sirup, one teaspoonful ginger, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon soda, one-half cup boiling water. Beat sugar, shortening and molasses until creamy, add ginger and cinnamon, pour boiling water on soda, stir the mixture, add flour to make a stiff dough, roll thin, cut with a round cookie cutter and bake.

Flaky Pie Crust.

Four cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful each of salt and baking powder sifted together. Chop in with a knife one cupful of lard and add also cutting in with knife water enough to make stiff dough, about two and one-fourth cupfuls. Have water ice cold. To have pies brown brush over the top generously with milk, even letting the milk stand in tiny puddles.

Baked Potatoes With Cheese.

Divide a hot baked potato lengthwise, lay in a slice of cheese same size and one-third of an inch thick; put together, press slightly and cover with napkin. By the time it is served the cheese will have softened and will make a savory addition to the potato.
